LOSES $2500 ON "SURETHING," CALLS POLICE

Poolroom Man Caused Arrest of Men Who Say They Are Gamblers.

PLAN TO BEAT RACES.

Says They Told Him They Had Operator in Conspiracy to Inform Them.

WANTED $5000 BET.

Lost $2500 Willingly, But He Thought $5000 Scheme An Insult.

William E. Abbott, who owns three poolrooms, considers himself a game loser and he says that if Herman Willard and "Big Bob" Endicott, who give their profession as gamblers, had been satisfied wanted him to bet $5000 more his pride was touched and he called in the police.

Willard and Endicott were arrested Thursday at Union Station by Detectives McQuellen and McGrath, at the instance of Abbott, who was with them when the detectives got them. He had complained to Chief Desmond that the men were trying to get him to invest $5000 in a scheme to beat the races by making bets on information they said would be furnished by a confederate telegraph operator who was to delay reporting the result of a race for a few minutes to enable them to place their money on the winner.

After they were arrested he admitted that he had already invested in their game and had lost $2500. He said he [illegible] spoken about that before [illegible] was a game loser and did not [illegible] appear in the light of a [illegible]" He added that if the men [illegible] content with the $2500 he would [illegible] caused them any trouble, but [illegible] tried to bump him twice in the same place it was too much.

The story by which they got him to lose $2500 was, he said, that an operator who was to be transferred from St. Louis to New York to send race returns was their confederate. He would delay reporting the result of a certain race long enough to enable them to get their money on the winner and make a "killing."

It looked good to Abbott and he said he would go in on it if he was satisfied after an interview with the operator. They went with him to the Western Union office. As they were going up the stairs a man came down hurriedly. He was in his shirt sleeves and a pencil was behind his ears.

He said it would never do for them to be seen talking together there and told them to wait a minute until he got his coat and they would go out somewhere. They did so.

Abbott was convinced; went to New York with the men. He put up $2500, which was placed on the horse tipped as having won, but there was a mistake somehow and the horse his money went up on came in second.

Abbott says he saw a light then, but to St. Louis with [illegible] of the kind of instruction that come from experience.

When the gamblers came around a little later and suggested that he could recoup by putting $5000 on another race, in which no mistakes would occur, he was insulted. He says it looked to him as if they thought he was easy. He led them on and then told the police and it was arranged for them to be arrested as they were at Union Station with him, ready to start for New York.

The police are now looking for the telegraph operator. If they find he is not genuine charges of conspiracy to defraud will be made against the gamblers.

Willard admits that Abbott lost $2500, but denies that there was a conspiracy. He says he merely told Abbott of a "sure thing" which turned out to be other thing.

Willard denied that he was a party to a scheme to rob Abbott. He admitted that he induced Abbott to bet $2500 on a "sure thing" race and that Abbott lost the money.

"A friend of mine gave me a tip on a horse which he said could not fail to win," said Willard to a Post-Dispatch reporter. "He said that if we just had some money to bet on the horse we could make a big killing. As we had no money I went to Abbott and told him about the 'sure thing,' and he said he was willing to bet $2500 on the race. I was to get 20 per cent of the winnings, and my friend was to get another 20 per cent and Abbott the balance.

"The horse failed to win and Abbott lost the money. There wasn't any telegraph operator connected with the affair at all. I simply told him that I thought we could make a lot of money if he cared to be in and as he was perfectly willing to risk the $2500, I don't see now where he has any reason to complain.

"Endicott had nothing to do with the Both men say that neither of them got a penny of Abbott's money.

Dinner and Theater Party.

The directors and managers of the State Insane Hospital at Farmington, Mo., are to be given a dinner Thursday evening at the American restaurant after which they will attend the performance at the Garrick Theater. The entertainment has been provided by the architect and contractors who built the hospital. Former State Senator H. H. Hohenschild of Rolla, is the architect, and John W. McCarthy of Farmington, H. F. Urbauer and John Gilmore of St. Louis are the contractors. Those who will speak are: J. D. Allen, editor of the Butler Times, Judge O. C. Clay of Canton, Judge James T. Green of St. Louis, Judge R. A. Anthony of Fredericktown, Judge Hina C. Schults of the Pemiscot County Court, and Attorney John A. Hope of St. Louis.

BOY HUNTER IS SHOT AND KILLED BY COMPANION

Fifteen-Year-Old Lad Meets Sudden Death Near West Belleville.

LOAD PENETRATED HEART

Shotgun Accidentally Discharged as Youth Was Shouldering Weapon.

While bound for a Thanksgiving Day hunt in the woods near Belleville at 1 p. m. Thursday, Henry Palperts, 15 years old, was accidentally killed by his chum, "Cotton" Harold.

The boys had stopped for a moment in a thicket near the new West Belle schoolhouse on South Silver street in the outskirts of Belleville. Harold carried a shotgun. As he was about to lift it to his shoulder it was accidentally discharged. Part of the load entered Palperts' breast, penetrating the heart. He died instantly.

Harold, who is 16 years old, called for help and the body was taken to St. Elizabeth's Hospital, but efforts to save life were useless. Harold was so frightened at what had happened that he could not at first give a connected account of the accident.

EX-GOV. DURBIN SCORES ROOSEVELT

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

INDIANAPOLIS, Nov. 29.—Former Gov. Durbin, in a public address at Anderson, criticised the President so sharply that his remarks were regarded as a bold review of the administration, especially on authority assumed by the President.

Mr. Durbin thought there was danger in centralization, "paternalism it is sometimes called," he said, and he pointed to the recent protest against bossism as expressed at the polls, as indicating the trend of sentiment among the people. Continuing, he said:

"As one who honors and admires Theodore Roosevelt for his courage and his devotion to public rights, I will not be misunderstood in saying that the tendency of the present national administration has been too much in the direction of centralizing authority that the forefathers decreed should be distributed among three co-ordinate branches of Government, in the hands of one man. The President, inspired, it is true, by the best motives and in the cause of the people, has established some precedents that would be dangerous to the very life of this republic if followed by some President having in view the furthering of purposes less selfish.

"We have seen the septacle of the President actively interfering in the work of Congress, sometimes in matters of no great moment, and we have seen Congress reduced to a position of less dignity and influence than it has ever occupied before."

He charged that Roosevelt encompassed the defeat of one Republican Congressman because he had the temerity to criticise him on the floor.

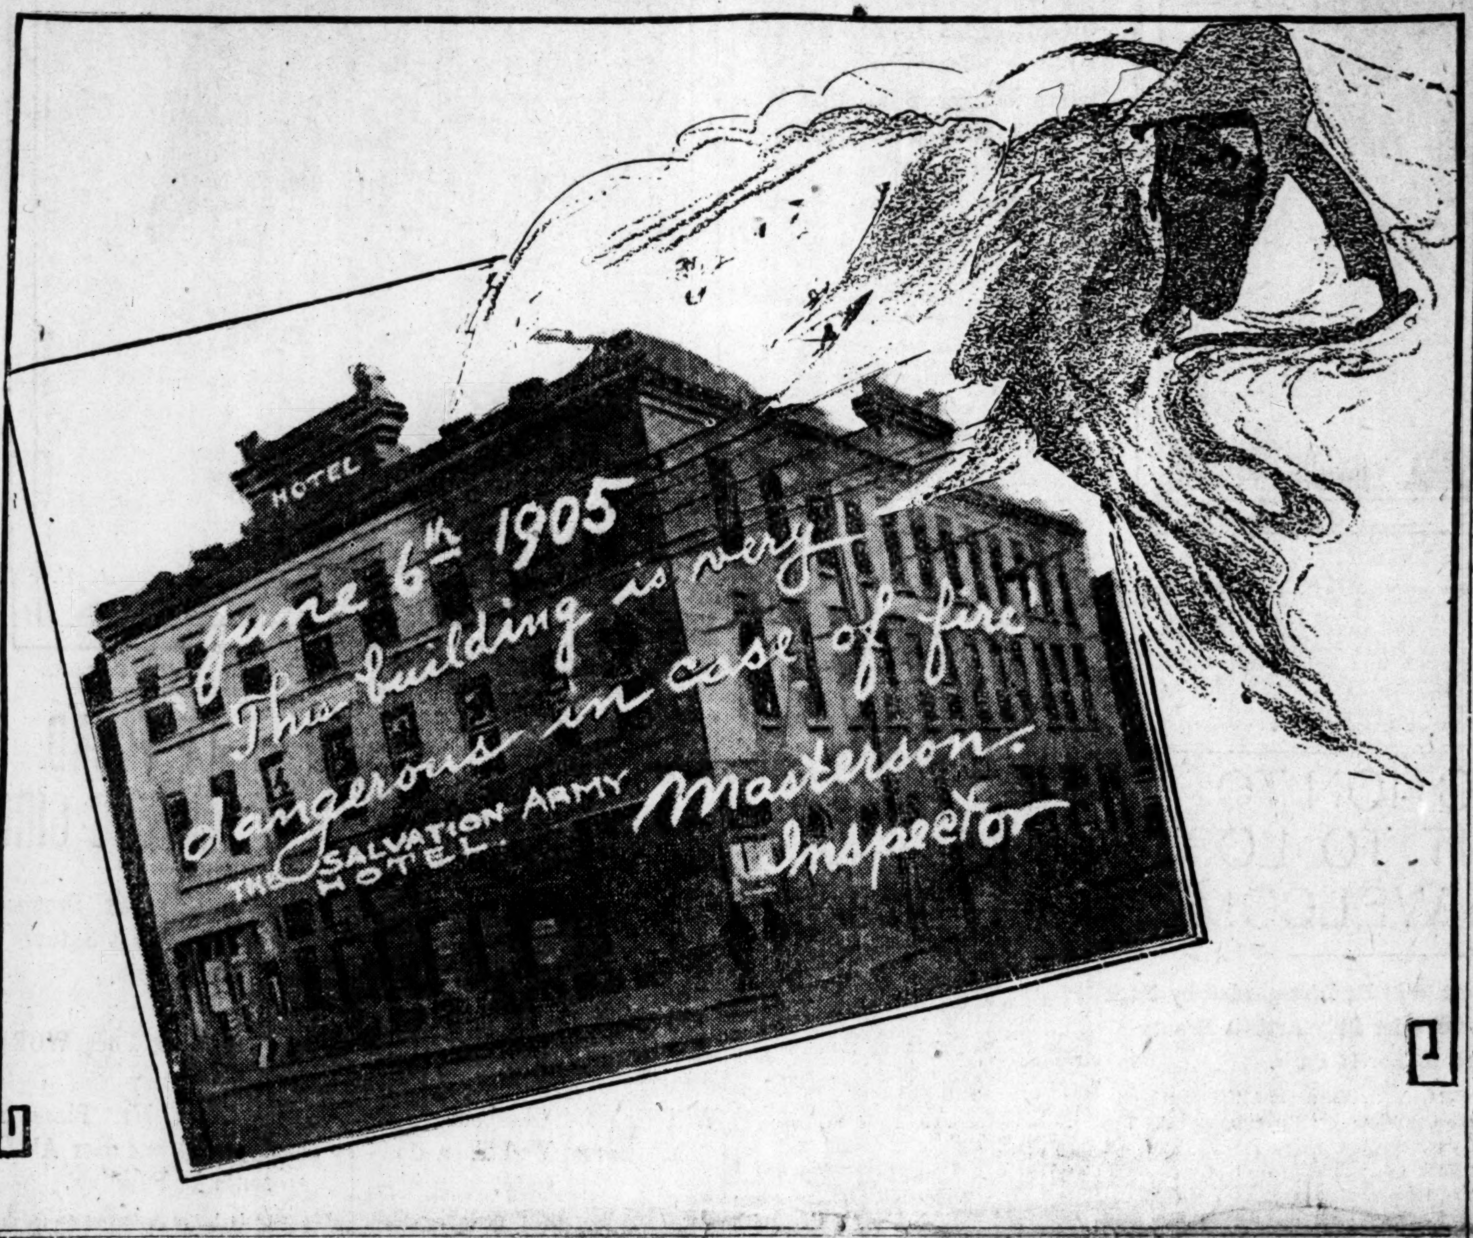
WHO IS RESPONSIBLE FOR THE TEN DEATHS?



BRIDEGROOM PUT POLICE TO FLIGHT

Capt. Pickel Was About to Enter Bridal Carriage When Young Man Interfered.

A smart team of milk white horses attached to a new cariage with a pompous driver in livery drew up at the side of the North Market Street Police Station Thursday morning.

Inside the station Capt. Pickel saw the equipage and he reached for his overcoat. He had been waiting for a conveyance, which was to take him to the funeral of a friend.

Buttoning his gloves he gave a few final instructions to the desk sergeant as he strode toward the door of the station.

At the same time in the hallway of the house which adjoins the police station a young man was holding a young woman in his arms. They were talking in low tones.

"I'm afraid," she whispered.

"Be brave," he told her, soothingly. "Come now, we mustn't keep the priest waiting. See, here is the carriage."

He opened the door.

As the little party came from the residence Capt. Pickel stood on the curb. He was suspiciously examining a huge bow of white satin ribbon on the door handle of the carriage.

"Say, what's that, and that, and that?" he asked the driver pointing to a number of similar bows with which the carriage was decorated in various places.

The driver didn't seem to hear.

"Some new wrinkle, I s'pose," the Captain growled. He seized the door just as the party from the house reached the sidewalk.

"S-a-a-y there, that's our carriage, mister," the young man said.

Capt. Pickel stepped to the sidewalk as the young man made a voluble explanation.

"My name is John F. Raffel and this is Miss Rose Munier. My brother lives here at 2314 North Tenth street, and we just came down from Alton to get married," said the young man.

Hat in hand Capt. Pickel retreated into the station.

Mr. Raffel is a contractor in Alton. He brought his bride to St. Louis Wednesday night to the home of his brother, Frank Raffel. The young woman is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hyacinth Munier of Alton. The ceremony was performed at St. Patrick's Church by Father Dempsey, after which the couple left St. Louis for a visit with the bride's relatives at Smithton, Ill.

MOUNTAIN TOWN SWEPT BY FIRE

Two-Thirds of Gallitzin, on Top of Alleghenies, Reported Destroyed.

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Nov. 29.—A furious gfire is reported raging at Gallitzin, on the summit of the Allegheny Mountains.

It is said two-thirds of the town has already been destroyed, or is menaced.

Gallitzen has a population of 2000.

Stories Sell; Author Unknown.

One would think that a writer whose stories have reached the enormous sale of 5,000,000 copies would be known to everybody, yet the name of Mr. Nat Gould is probably not at all familiar to the mass of the ordinary novel-reading public. London Truth.

GAS MAIN BURST SPOILING DINNERS

Two Hundred Thousand in Southwest Missouri Ate Turkey Rare.

By Telephone to the Post-Dispatch.

JOPLIN, Mo., Nov. 29.—Two hundred thousand people in twenty Southwest Missouri cities breakfasted today on factory food, and if the heads of families had not hustled mightily this forenoon most of the population would have had to eat their Thanksgiving turkey raw.

By the breaking of a 16-inch natural gas pipe main at Altamonte, Kan., 40 miles west of Joplin, the entire zinc district was deprived of fuel on the day of the year when fuel was most needed for cooking purposes.

Nearly all the housewives in the district do their cooking by natural gas, and when they arose this morning and found that there was no gas in the pipes consternation broke loose.

Old Stoves Set Up.

When it was learned that there was a bad break in the pipe line which might not be mended before night there was such a scurrying for stoves and fuel as had not been seen before in the zinc district. Discarded stoves of the pre-gaseous period were dragged forth and in the ensuing struggle to set them up soot was strewn all over the houses and enough bad temper was generated to last a month.

Those who did not have stoves among their family heirlooms did their best to buy, beg or borrow anything on four legs in which a fire could be builded without buring the house down.

After the stoves had been obtained and set up there was another exciting scramble for fuel. Nobody had coal on hand and most of the stoves were built for coal. Wood was substituted with indifferent success. Pretty much everything that would burn was chopped up and fed to the stoves in the frantic endeavor to work up enough heat to roast the turkeys, but at most of the homes the bird was served exceeding rare.

The cities affected by the failure of the gas supply are Joplin, Webb City, Carterville, Carthage, Duneweg, Neck City, Purcell, Alba, Unitwood, Blendeville and a number of smaller places in Missouri and Galena, Kan.

Restaurants In Trouble.

Hotels and restaurants are even more embarrassed than private families. They all depend on gas and few of them have stoves or ranges on which to prepare meals for their Thanksgiving guests.

Factories which depend on natural gas cannot operate, but nobody cares much about that today and it is expected that the line wil lbe repaired by tomorrow.

SMOKE INSPECTOR BUSY.

Seven informations charging violation of the smoke ordinance have been issued by Assistant Prosecuting Attorney Thomas. They were sworn to by Deputy Smoke Inspector Wood.

They are against Albert A. Stix of the Grand-Leader; Howard Boogher of Boogher, Force & Goodbar Hat Co.; Alexander G. Milens of Wertheimer-Swarts Shoe Co.; Albert Rothschilds of Rothschilds Bros. Hat Co., George H. Blackwelder of Holbrook-Blackwelder Real Estate and Trust Co., Wayne Smith, 1806 Locust street; W. H. Powelson of Union Electric Light and Power Co.

Divorced Wife Gets Home.

Otto A. Rauschenbach and his divorced wife, Josie, joined in a motion in Judge McDonald's court Wednesday, for the modification of the decree of divorce granted Mrs. Rauschenbach Oct. 30, in which she was given $4000 alimony in gross. At their request the Judge so modified the decree as to allow Mrs. Rauschenbach the residence at 5103 Wells avenue and $700, Mr. Rauschenbach to retain three pieces of property at Kimmswick, Mo.

DISREGARD OF LAW CAUSE OF TEN DEATHS

Building Commissioner Smith Explains What He Should Have Done.

The inquest on the bodies of the ten men killed by the fire early Wednesday in the Salvation Army lodging house at 901 Market street, will begin Friday at 9 a. m. An inquiry into the cause of the absence of fire escapes from the building will be a feature of the inquest.

Four names were added late Wednesday to the list of the dead. The total number of dead now is ten. One of the bodies remains unidentified. The new names are:

J. GEORGE BURKHARDT, 60 years old.

EDWARD HOWARD, 46 years old.

JOHN BUTLER, 59 years old.

JAMES VARLEY, 51 years old.

All four died at the City Hospital, where the more seriously injured were taken after the fire. Two others, John Shaw and Alfred Broad, probably will die. They were severely burned on face, hands and body.

Those killed at the fire or who died soon after were:

Oscar F. Davis, 76, Quincy, Ill., an old soldier, who jumped from the third floor.

Thomas Fleming, 39.

George D. Rose, who jumped from the third floor. Died at the City Hospital.

William Hannigan, 40, formerly of Eighteenth and High streets, Louisville, Ky.

James Varley, 51.

Building Commissioner's Efforts.

Building Commissioner Smith's inspectors had been working for several years to compel the owners to put fire escapes on the building, but failed because of their inability to get service on the owner. In one of his reports Inspector John Masterson wrote: "This building is very dangerous in case of fire."

Building Commissioner Smith declared Wednesday afternoon that if he had to deal again with a case of resistance to the fire-escape law or was unable to locate the owner of a building that violated the law, he would proceed against the occupant or manager of the place.

"That is what I should have done in the case of the Salvation Army lodging house," said Mr. Smith to a Post-Dispatch reporter. "The State fire-escape law makes it the duty of the 'owner, proprietor, lessee or keeper of every hotel, boarding or lodging house' to provide his premises with outside stair fire escapes.

"After making a sincere effort to locate the owner and meeting denial at every point I should have closed up the lodging house by daily prosecutions of the keeper. That is the course I shall try to pursue in future if I get the support of the courts as I have not had it in the past.

"The fire-escape law makes each day's violation of the law a separate offense. I have the impression that such a provision cannot be enforced. In proceedings I brought day after day against a structure that violated the fire law on a corner opposite the Hamilton Hotel I was knocked out in the Supreme Court and I have been afraid since then of being accused of persecution if I brought daily prosecutions, especially in a case like the Salvation Army lodging house, where the owner could not be located and our only recourse was against the keeper.

"I am satisfied there is no other case like that of the Salvation Army lodging house in the city. That case was kept up by our inability to locate the owner.

"I can give the assurance now that the building at 901 Market street will have fire escapes put on it before we issue a permit to repair it."

THANKSGIVING DAY PARDONS REFUSED

Gov. Folk Says Records of Five Oldest Convicts Are Not Good.

JEFFERSON CITY, Nov. 29.—Contrary to the usual custom, Gov. Folk declined today to grant Thanksgiving pardons to two convicts in the Penitentiary.

It has been the custom for many years to release on each holiday the two convicts longest in prison having good records since their incarceration. This has been considered necessary to promote good discipline in the prison.

Warden Hall submitted to the Governor a list of five men longest in prison. The Governor said today that the records of these were not such as to entitle them to pardons, and that for this reason he would not issue pardons this Thanksgiving.

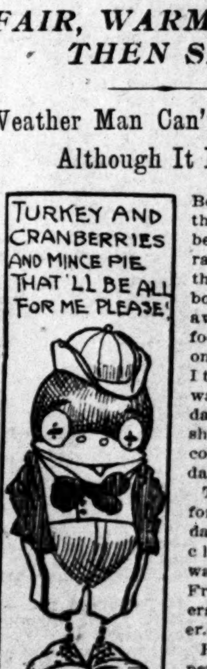
The five convicts recommended by the Warden as being eligible for holiday pardons were: Anderson Keyes, St. Louis, colored, 20 years from January, 1896, for murder; William Barnett, colored, St. Louis, 20 years from January, 1896, for murder; George Crawford, colored, St. Louis, 20 years from March, 1896, for murder; Joseph Corbett, St. Charles, 45 years from March, 1895, for murder, and Charles W. Moses, St. Louis, life from March, 1896, for murder.

The conduct of the first three has been very bad. Keyes has been five times in solitary confinement and has suffered 37 lashes for stabbing, stealing, gambling and impudence within the walls. Barnett was in solitary confinement and suffered 36 lashes, while Crawford was in solitary confinement and suffered 31 lashes for various offenses.

A pardon was refused Corbett because he had once been sentenced to hang and the sentence had been commuted by Gov. Stone. Moses was refused a pardon because he has served only 10 years of a life sentence, which, Gov. Folk indorsed in papers, "Is not long enough to justify a holiday pardon on account of length of sentence."

FAIR, WARMER: THEN SHOWER

Weather Man Can't See Rain, Although It Falls.



TURKEY AND CRANBERRIES AND MINCE PIE THAT'LL BE ALL FOR ME PLEASE!

Weather Man Bowie does not think there will be any more rain this day of thanks and nobody need stay away from the football games on that account. It will be warmer Thursday night and showers will come back Friday.

The official forecast Thursday: "Partly cloudy and warmer tonight; Friday showers and warmer.

Higher temperatures prevail west of the Mississippi and in the lower Eastern states. There have been light snow flurries over the lakes and in the New England states.

RAILWAY PRESIDENT AND HIS 3 GUESTS KILLED IN A WRECK

Dispatcher and Engineer Also Perish With Samuel Spencer, Head of the Southern, When Passenger Train Plows Through Private Car on Spencer's Own Road.

WRECKED CARS LOOTED WHILE FIRE IS RAGING

President's Body Found Under Locomotive After Rear-End Collision in Virginia—Many Passengers Are Injured, Including Spencer's Private Secretary.

LYNCHBURG, Va., Nov. 29.—President Samuel Spencer of the Southern Railway system, who was en route to the South on a hunting trip, was killed this morning in a rear-end collision at Lawyers, 10 miles south of Lynchburg. The private car in which he was riding was practically halved by the colliding locomotive. It immediately caught fire and the body of Mr. Spencer was burned almost beyond recognition.

In the car with him were Philip Schuyler of New York City; Mr. Spencer's private secretary, Merrill, and his private dispatcher, D. W. Davis of Alexandria, Va. Operator Davis was crushed and died in 15 minutes. Mr. Schuyler was instantly killed, but his body was not badly burned before it was rescued by passengers. Engineer C. Perry, who was on the rear train, was killed.

Private Secretary Merrill was hurt, but the nature of his injuries has not been learned. He will be brought to this city. Twelve or thirteen passengers, most of them negroes, were wounded, only one of whom is thought to be fatally hurt. Eight negroes are in the City Hospital here, having arrived at 11 o'clock.

A list of the dead follows:

PRESIDENT SAMUEL SPENCER, Washington.

PHLIP SCHUYLER, New York City, Mr. Spencer's guest.

D. W. DAVIS, private dispatcher, Alexandria, Va.

FRANK T. REDWOOD, 918 Madison avenue, Baltimore, Mr. Spencer's guest.

CHARLES D. FISHER of Gill & Fisher, Baltimore, Mr. Spencer's guest.

C. PERRY, engineer of the rear train.

LUCRETIA ALLEN, negress, Danville, Va., died on operating table.

The injured:

Willis J. Winston of New York, leg badly broken.

J. W. Shaw, Spencer, N. C., badly crushed and both legs broken.

Garland Thomas, Greensboro, N. C., leg broken and badly bruised.

P. R. Vauls, Waynesboro, Va., badly bruised.

Cora Logan, Shelby, N. C., both legs broken.

Pollock, New York City, badly scalded, leg broken, both arms broken, hopeless condition.

Sam Cox, Washington, leg broken.

All of these are negroes.

Frank T. Redwood and Charles D. Fisher, who were in President Spencer's private car and were killed, were among the foremost citizens of Baltimore. They both were in the party which intended to spend a short time hunting in the South. Mr. Fisher was one of the founders of the grain exporting firm of Gill & Fisher of Baltimore and had extensive business interests in the South. Mr. Redwood was a member of the brokerage firm of Lownees & Redwood of Baltimore. He left Baltimore last night.

The collision was between train No. 33, the Jacksonville express, and train No. 37, the Washington and Southwestern vestibuled limited. The Jacksonville train stopped on the top of a very heavy grade, a mile north of Lawyers Depot, to repair a slight breakdown, and before a flagman could get back to protect the train the Atlanta train dashed into it.

The heavy engine of the train plowed into the private car of President Spencer, in which he and his guests are supposed to have been sleeping. Immediately the private car caught fire. The wreckage was piled around the engine, as though placed there by human hands to be consumed. Every piece of woodwork on the engine was burned and the monster machine stands there torn and twisted and will have to be turned down the embankment, as it is useless.

It was under the locomotive that the body of President Spencer was found. It is evident that Mr. Spencer was killed instantly and that he did not suffer.

Dispatcher Davis was alive when taken from under the wreckage. He was crushed about the lower portions of the body and was conscious until the end. He asked that word be sent to his wife and child. The death of Mr. Davis was touching. He stated to his rescuers that he knew he was dying and knew that the end could not be far off.

"Place your finger on my lips," he said. "It feels cool."

He pleaded with the gentleman, who was also a passenger on the train, not to leave him, and for ten minutes this man stayed with him until he saw that nothing more could be done for him.

One of the worst phases of the accident was the heartless manner in which a few passengers and some of the attaches, especially some of the porters of the Atlanta train, ransacked the wrecked cars for plunder.

F. M. Curtis of Jamestown, N. Y., who was a passenger on the Jacksonville train, saw a negro porter loot a lady's grip. He saw him throw away such things as were of no value to him and appropriate those things that he wanted. Mr. Curtis was unarmed and the porter escaped.

Several passengers engaged in this ghoulish work and a large number of valuables and much money which was scattered about the wrecked trains was taken.

Mr. Curtis, who was on his way to High Point, N. C., on a business mission, proved a hero. It was claimed by some of his fellow-passengers that to his work was due the rescue of a dozen persons who would have perished but for his efforts. Several persons not seriously wounded were taken out from the two cars that were burned and six negro passengers were taken from the common coach of the forward train.

They were literally covered with baggage, which had been thrown through the light partition between their portion of the car and that set apart for the baggage. They were badly hurt, most of them having broken legs, some of them with both legs broken, and one or two with fractured skulls. All of them have numerous cuts and bruises, but the physician attending them believe all will recover, with the possible exception of an aged woman. They were brought to the City Hospital.

Doctors on Special Trains.

As soon as the news of the wreck was received here, Drs. Terrell and Carroll were taken to the scene on a special train. They gave attention to the wounded and an hour later Drs. Taliaferro, Parrow and Rawlings went on another special.

One of the fire engines of the Lynchburg department was placed on a flat car and hurried to the wreck to extinguish the flames.

The engine and firemen could not be spared from an early morning fire on Main street, hence they did not go to Lawyers until 8:30 o'clock. On account of the train with the injured passengers having the track between Rangoon, the nearest telegraph office north of the wreck and the scene of the accident, it was after 10 o'clock before the steamer reached Lawyers.

The cause of the wreck has not been definitely established, but it is understood that the operator in charge of the block office at Gangoon, four miles north of the scene, allowed the Atlanta train to enter the block before he had been given a clear track from the next block station at Lawyers depot. Why the operator allowed the train to pass his block is not known.

Ten minutes later the speed would have been upward of 60 miles an hour and the train, instead of plowing only through President Spencer's private car, probably would have gone through the entire train.

Train No. 33, which was struck, was composed of a mail car, common baggage and passenger coach, two Pullmans and President Spencer's car.

The rear sleeper, to which the private coach was attached, was wrecked, but it was not burned. The regular day coach and the forward Pullman were practically uninjured, but the combination coach, second from the engine, was crushed.

Both Trains Were Late.

No. 33, the Jacksonville train, came to a stop at the crest of one of the heaviest grades on the road between Lynchburg and Danville. If the trains had come together a mile further south, it is believed that hardly a person on either train would have come out of the wreck alive.

Both trains were running late, the Jacksonville train two and a half hours late and the Atlanta train about two hours late. On account of the heavy equipment of the rear train it was not making great speed. Some of the passengers who were awake think the speed could not have been more than 30 or 40 miles an hour.

ST. LOUIS OFFICIAL NOTIFIED OF DISASTER.

T. C. Powell, fifth vice-president of the Southern Railway Co., today received at his office in St. Louis the following telegram from Third Vice-President Culp at Washington:

"At 6:45 o'clock this morning first section No. 37 ran into rear of No. 33 at Lawyers, Va. President Spencer, occupying private car No. 100, attached to rear of No. 33, was killed. Other occupants killed in car 100 were Philip Schuyler and Operator Davis. Chas. D. Fisher and Mr. Redmond of Baltimore, guests of Mr. Spencer, missing and reported killed. Secretary Merrill slightly injured. Seven negro servants, including cooks and porter, seriously injured. Car 101, sleeper on 33 and club car on 37 destroyed by fire. Reports now are that other passengers on both trains escaped."

FRISCO MAYOR ARRESTED, THEN GIVEN OVATION

Met by Deputy Sheriff at Truckee, Greeted by 4000 Friends at Home.

ARREST UNNERVES WIFE

She Weeps as She Hears Formal Charge of Extortion Found by Grand Jury.

HE CONFERS WITH RUEF

Mayor Holds Lengthy Consultation With Boss Who Also Was Indicted.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 29.—Mayor Eugene E. Schmitz, who cut short his European trip to hasten home to face the charge of extortion and graft in office, upon which he was indicted by the grand jury during his absence, was warmly welcomed upon his arrival at midnight last night.

From 7 o'clock in the evening until after midnight 4000 persons, among them many women, crowded the Dreamland pavilion to its fullest capacity, and hour after hour waited with remarkable patience for the Mayor's arrival. Outside over a thousand people who could not gain entrance to the pavilion stood for several hours in the street to get a glimpse of the indicted Mayor, who was returning to his city under arrest, and, formally at least, in the custody of a deputy sheriff who served a warrant on him when he reached Truckee, Cal., today.

At the ferry about 800 persons, headed by a reception committee, gathered early in the evening to welcome the returning Mayor, but as hour after hour passed and the Mayor's train was announced as being later and later, the chill wind drove most of the crowd home, until it had dwindled to the reception committee and about 200 persons. When the Mayor arrived he was quickly driven to the pavilion at Post and Steiner streets.

Laboring Men Aid.

The arrangement for the Mayor's reception was in the hands of a committee of 100 merchants, business men and prominent union labor leaders, of which Fred L. Matheis was the chairman. A part of the committee, headed by Edward Moran and P. H. McCarthy, president of the Building Trades Council, received the Mayor at the ferry. At the pavilion, which was quickly filled when the doors were thrown open, singers were impressed from a near-by theater. Speeches were made by Rev. Peter C. Yorke, Hon. Samuel M. Shortridge and others, interspersed by music by a band to entertain and hold the crowd.

Rev. Mr. Yorke, in a speech occupying over an hour, made no defense of Schmitz, but confined himself to denouncing Rudolph Spreckles, the press of San Francisco, the grand jury and their attack on the Mayor during his absence. He made an impassioned plea for fair play and attributed the attack on Mayor Schmitz's administration to a carefully planned move to disrupt and ruin the labor organizations of this city.

The Mayor arrived at the pavilion at 12:25. The police fought a passageway through the crowd in the entrance and as he entered the place the entire house arose to their feet and cheered for four minutes. In a voice choked with emotion, Mayor Schmitz spoke, in part, as follows:

"I can hardly express in words how grateful I feel in receiving such a reception after being so maligned by the worst set of newspapers that ever cursed a city. It has been said that I fled from my city, but here I am to face my traducers. This attack, which was made a few days after I left New York, did not surprise me. I heard of the combination last Friday—the combination between the Bulletin and the Examiner, and that Mr. Burns had taken a vacation in Washington to come here and get something against the union labor administration of this city.

Asks No Quarter, Won't Give.

"I am no physical coward, nor am I a moral. I am here to face my traducers and to face any charges they can bring against me. I want no quarter and I shall give no quarter. This attack is against union labor that they may disrupt and crush the labor organizations and administration of this city. I want to say that the harm these papers are doing and have done will take years to set right. Talking of vigilance committees, we will perhaps have yet to organize one.'

Mayor Schmitz was arrested in the afternoon by Deputy Sheriff Harry Knox at Truckee.

The indicted official seemed to feel his arrest keenly. Mrs. Schmitz seemed entirely unnerved at the arrest of her husband. The tears came to her eyes and she appeared to be very much worried. Mayor Schmitz did not emerge from the drawing room where he was closeted with Abraham Ruef.

G. A. R. OBJECTION TO MONUMENT TO LOST CAUSE IS WELCOMED

Protest of Harry P. Harding Post Will Be Disregarded by Park Commissioner Aull Who Will Consider Only Artistic Beauty of Statues Offered to Forest Park.

THE protest of Harry P. Harding Post, G. A. R., against the erection in Forest Park of a monument to the Confederacy wil pass unheeded. The Grand Army Post, in a letter signed by Commander Frederick Schmid and other members of the post, asked Park Commissioner Aull to refuse the application of Confederate organizations for permission to erect the monument on the ground that such a monument would keep alive the bitterness of the struggle between the North and the South.

"The movement for the monument has hardly progressed far enough to warrant interference for or against it," said Park Commissioner Aull to a Post-Dispatch reporter. "Forest Park is, however, the possession of the people of the city. All classes participate in that ownership. I am in favor of accepting any statue or monument that shall add to the beauty or interest of Forest Park

"The erection of a monument to a special cause or by a special sect does not commit the city to the support of that cause or sect. I consider my concern to be chiefly to see that the monument has artistic merit. Lincoln Park in Chicago is beautified by statues and monuments erected by all nations to their heroes. The municipality welcomes the contributions. Spectators come to the statues to scoff as well as to pray and no one is injured thereby. St. Louis should pursue the same policy."

Capt. Robert McCulloch, who is helping the project of the various women Confederate societies of St. Louis to erect the monument, welcomes the opposition of Harding Post as calculated to make easy the collection of funds for the erection of the monument.

"The Confederate women's societies of St. Louis," he said Thursday to a Post-Dispatch reporter, "have organized as a monument association and have headed the subscription list with a contribution of $5000. The drawing of plans for the monument will not begin until $35,000 has been subscribed, and the monument is to cost $50,000. A famous sculptor and a famous architect are to co-operate in the design, and the monument is to be a credit to St. Louis.

"The war is over and no broad-guage man will object to the commemoration of the Lost Cause. Any American soldier who fought heroically in support of a cause he thought just deserves the honor of a monument.

"Many men who fought for the Confederacy are now leaders in the business and professional life of St. Louis. They make as good citizens now and they made brave soldiers during the war.

"I apprehend no dificulty in getting permission to erect the monument in Forest Park when we are ready, and I am obliged to Harding Post for the aid it has given in helping to raise money for the structure."

MAN KILLED BY FALLING IRON

Pile of Sheets of Metal Topples Over, Fatally Injuring Workman.

William Triggs of 4020 Green Lea place, a foreman at the Niedringhaus Rolling Mills, Second and Destrehan streets, was caught under a falling pile of sheet steel while at work late Wednesday and received injiries from which he died an hour later at his home.

Triggs was measuring the pile when it toppled over and pinned him to the ground. Fellow employes extricated him and hurrieed him to the North End Dispensary, where it was found that three of his ribs were broken and he had internal injuries.

Anniversary Celebrated.

The St. Louis Suabian Benefit Association celebrated the twenty-fifth anniversary of its organization Wednesday night at Lemp Park Hall, Thirteenth and Wyoming streets. An elaborate program was rendered. Among those who spoke were Dr. Hugo M. Starkloff, Dr. George E. Kraft, Max von Loehr, German Consul at St. Louis; Fritz Widmann, Otto F. Stifel and William Seeger, president of the association. The association was organized in 1881 and is one of the strongest in the city.

BLIND, SHE FELL OUT OF WINDOW

Mrs. Rowena Montague, 71 Years Old, Died From Her Injuries.

The body of Mrs. Rowena Montague, 71 years old, mother of Charles Wallace Montague of 4335 Maryland avenue, will be taken to Valparaiso, Ind., where she was born, for burial. Mrs. Montague was killed Wednesday by a fall from a window of her room at the home of Mrs. Ada Cherot of 3217A Lafayette avenue, with whom she had lived four years.

Mrs. Montague was blind and deaf and, suffering with other infirmities, was very feeble. No one was in the room at the time and it is thought that she lost her balance and fell while raising the window.

Mrs. Cherot went to Mrs. Montague's room a few minutes after she heard the noise made by raising the window. She looked from the window and saw Mrs. Montague sitting in the paved walk in the areaway between the two flats. She was leaning against the wall.

Mrs. Cherot summoned aid and Mrs. Montague was carried upstairs. Dr. W. H. Fuchs of 3202 Lafayette avenue was called. He found Mrs. Montague in a semi-conscious condition and suffering from a hemorrhage of the brain. Her left leg was broken below the knee. She was taken to the Missouri Baptist Sanitarium where she died.

Mrs. Montague formerly lived in Chicago where her husband died a number of years ago. She had lived in St. Louis the last four years.

AFFAIR OF HONOR WAS NOT TRIVIAL

Colored High School Girl Tells Why She Cut Rival With Penknife.

QUARRELED OVER SWAIN

Sarah Walker Says Inas Womach Boasted of Winning Her Sweetheart.

Sarah Walker, a 17-year-old mulatto pupil at the Sumner High School, and living at 815 North Thirteenth street, spent Thanksgiving Day in the Four Courts holdover owing to the inability of Policeman "Kink" Connell to distinguish an "affair of honor" from a "trivial matter."

Sarah, who has ideas about etiquette that are not in strict keeping with the ideas of the minions of the law, "became involved in a quarrel," according to the stereotyped police report, at Twelfth and St. Charles streets, with Inas Womach, 18, of 712 North Jefferson avenue, and Clarence Rice, 19, of 1013 North Twelfth street, about 3:30 a. m. Thursday, during which Sarah drew a knife and cut Inas four times on the face and Clarence once on the left cheek. The quarrel was over a "trivial matter," the police report states, but Sarah in the holdover told a different story.

"There was no trivial matter about it at all," Sarah said. "It was a very serious matter, an affair of honor, I should say.

"Supposing you were me and Clarence Rice was your beau and Inas Wonach would cut you out, would you call that a trivial matter? And supposing Inas Womach, after robbing you of Clarence's affections, would sneer at you and boast about taking your fellow away from you, would you call that a trivial matter? I call that bad manners.

Her Feelings Were Hurt.

"My feelings were hurt bad enough when Clarence quit me to go with Inas, but when Inas began to taunt me about it, that was like heaping coals of fire. I couldn't stand for that. I lost my temper and just went after her.

"Clarence and I went together for four months, up to October, and then Inas crossed my path. She passed remarks about me being stuck up. Said she bet that she was better than I was even if I did have the most schooling. Then she started in to vent her spite on me by trying to get Clarence away from me and she never let up until she succeeded

"Clarence and I used to go down to the Abyssinia Hall together to dances and every time we went Inas would be sure to be there. And the way she acted just to attract Clarence's attention was something fierce. Every time she went to a ball where Clarence and I were she had something different on and the way she stepped around the hall you'd think she was too cute to live.

"Clarence danced with her a couple of times and she poured gush into his ear until he couldn't see straight, and the first thing I knew they were going together.

Could Not See Rival.

"I didn't want to give Inas the satisfaction of thinking she had made me mad, so I just pretended as though I didn't care. I got me another fellow and kept right on going to dances the same as before, and when I would meet Clarence and Inas I just passed them by like as if I didn't see them at all.

"That made Inas mad and this morning when I was coming home from the Twentieth Century Club's ball who walks along behind me but Inas and Clarence. They had no business going the way I was going, because Inas lived out on Jefferson avenue, and Twelfth and St. Charles streets, where we come together is not on the route to her home.

"I paid no attention to them, though. I just kept on going about my business, because I've got good manners and I know how to act like a lady. But that Inas! She just keeps trudging along behind with Clarence and poking all kinds of fun at me. She called me a stuck-up high school nigger, and said she was better than me even if she didn't go to high school. For a long time I took her remarks, but when she kept it up too long I just turned around and asked her if she was calling me a stuck-up high school nigger, and she said right back that she didn't see any other stuck-up high school niggers around but me, so she guessed she must be addressing her remarks to me in person.

"I looked at her real hard for a minute and then I reached in my jacket pocket and took out my little pearl-handled knife and let her have it. Clarence, he interfered and I accidentally cut him too. Then the policeman came and arrested me. I wonder what he calls a trivial matter."

Sarah is being held peneding the outcome of the wounds she inflicted on Clarence and her rival.

COFFEE SLAVES.

Thousands of Persons Don't Know Why They Are Miserable.

Most of our troubles come from what we eat and drink.

Even bad habits seem to become more respectable with age. The coffee habit has an ancient pedigree, but it is none the less disastrous to many.

"During the five years before I was married," writes a California school teacher, "I became a slave to coffee.

"I became a nervous wreck and my stomach was almost ruined. My food would not digest, I suffered great pain after eating, and could not sleep an entire night through. My whole system seemed to be poisoned.

"After my marriage I still used coffee, and steadily grew worse. About eight years ago my father, who had been at a sanitarium where they used Postum food coffee, spoke so often and in such glowing terms of it, my husband and I decided to try it. I have been gradually but surely cured by its use, and never felt so well in my life.

"We still use Postum, giving it to our two little boys, who always beg for it, and we think the day's wrongly begun without it for breakfast.

"Am able to eat anything I like and can sleep soundly all the night through."

MRS. JANUARY TO LIVE IN EUROPE

St. Louis Woman Announces That Her Home Will Be Abroad Hereafter.

SHE IS NOW IN NEW YORK

Will Sail for Cherbourg Next Month and Will Then Go to Italy.

Mrs. Jessie Lindell January, closely related to families of wealth and social prominence in St. Louis, and herself formerly a resident of St. Louis, has announced from New York that she intends to make her permanent residence in Europe and that she may not return to St. Louis again. Mrs. January is living for a few days at the Seville Hotel in New York with her daughter, Miss Isabel January, and her sister, Mrs. George Austin, expecting to sail Dec. 6 for Cherbourg, whence she will go to Italy to pass the winter in the vicinity of Naples.

Mrs. January says that the climate in Europe agrees better with her health. She expects to divide her time between Paris and Italian cities.

"I am not coming back very soon, and as the climate of Italy agrees with me so remarkably well, it is possible I may not return to St. Louis," she said. "We have many dear friends abroad, friends we would like to see oftener than a permanent residence in St. Louis would permit and though I do not say I shall remain away from St. Louis, yet I am not certain that I shall return.

"Rest and ease that are not possible in large, busy commercial centers are things that both myself and relatives desire very much, and these can be obtained to better advantage in Europe than anywhere else, certainly more so than in the United States.

"I love St. Louis, love my friends there very much, and possibly this will induce me to return, but I can't say at present."

Mrs. January was Miss Valle before her marriage. She is the daughter of Jules Valle. Dr. J. F. Valle of St. Louis is her brother. Mrs. J. C. January of 5101 Westminster place is her sister-in-law.

DO NOT DOSE THE STOMACH.

Cure Catarrh by Breathing Hyomei. Sold Under Guarantee.

The only scientific and common sense way to treat catarrh of the nose and throat is by local application that will kill the catarrhal germs.

Ordinary stomach dosing is worse than useless. Taking medicine into the stomach to cure catarrh of the head can have no good effect, and often leads to serious derangement of the digestive organs.

By breathing Hyomei three of four times daily through the neat pocket inhaler that comes with every outfit, its medicated, healing air penetrates to the most remote parts of the nose, throat and lungs, searches out and kills all catarrhal germs and soothes and heals any irritation in the mucous membrane.

Our faith in the wonderful merit of Hyomei as a cure for catarrh is shown by the guarantee given with every Hyomei outfit that the money will be refunded unless the treatment gives satisfaction.

The complete Hyomei outfit costs but $1.00, extra bottles, if needed, 50 cents. We do not want anyone's money unless Hyomei gives relief and cure, and we absolutely agree that money will be refunded unless the remedy gives satisfaction.

All druggists should be able to supply you with Hyomei or we will send it by mail on receipt of price, and every package is sold with the distinct understanding that it costs nothing unless it cures. Write us today for a symptom blank, which we will send you free, together with treatise on Catarrh and how to cure it. When you fill in and return to us the symptom blank, our consulting physician will give your case the best care and attention, and write you a letter of advice without charge. The R. T. NO TRACE FOUND OF MISSING GIRL

Little Clara Schmidt Dropped Out of Sight Last Saturday Morning.

SHE STARTED FOR WORK

Did Not Reach Her Place of Employment and Her Absence Is Puzzling.

The city is being searched from end to end for some trace of Clara Schmidt, 15 years old, who disappeared from her home, 321 Lesperance street, at 6:30 a. m. last Saturday. The parents of the missing girl, Casper and Elizabeth Schmidt, declare they have no idea what has become of her.

For several months up to last Saturday Clara worked every day in the factory of the Fulton Bag Co., 612 South Seventh street. She was well liked by her employers. Last Saturday was her payday. She did not appear for work and her salary still awaits her.

The last words uttered by Clara before she dropped out of sight were addressed to her mother just as she was leaving home ostensibly to go to work.

"This is payday, mamma," she said. "When I bring home my money this evening will you buy me a new dress for Sunday School?"

Mrs. Schmidt assured Clara that she would purchase the dress and the little girl left the house smiling.

Clara was a regular attendant at the South Broadway Mission Sunday School. Last Sunday she was absent for the first time and her teacher and schoolmates wondered at her absence. She had always been punctual in her attendance. When Clara did not return home Saturday evening her parents immediately instituted a search for her. It was the first time that she had ever failed to be on hand for supper.

In reporting her daughter's disappearance to the police, Mrs. Schmidt declared she could in no way account for Clara's absence.

"She loved her home and was in bed every night at 8:30," said the mother. "She had no sweetheart. She had no troubles. She was perfectly happy and contented. I never had occasion to scold her, for her conduct was always good. I can't imagine what has become of her. My husband and I have hunted in every conceivable place where she might have gone, but we have been unable to find the slightest trace of her."

Her little brother, Walter, and her little sister, Hilda, timidly approached the reporter while he was interviewing the parents and asked when Clara would be back.

"We are so lonesome without her," said the sister, "and while everybody was sleepin' last night we got out of bed and prayed that the Lord would send her back Thanksgiving morning. And when we awoke this morning and we didn't find her, we asked papa why she didn't come as he said she would, and he turned away from us and looked through the window." She paused here and the little boy asked, "You will send her home when you find her won't you? Tell her we are waiting and she will come."

Clara is a blond, 4 feet tall and weighs about 90 pounds. When she left home she wore a short dress of blue material with white polka dots, a red jacket and a white fascinator. Her black, laced shoes were new.

OIL MERCHANT LOST FIGHT WITH TELEPHONE MEN

Frederick Keitel Objected to Erection of Pole in Alley Near Home.

ORDERED WORKMEN AWAY

They Disregarded His Command and He Went to House for His Pistol.

WEAPON WAS NOT LOADED

Policeman Took It From Him and Then Took Owner to the Station.

Frederick Keitel, an oil merchant, of 2337 Montgomery street, tried to whip the Bell Telephone Co. with an empty revolver Wednesday afternoon, and as a results of his efforts he spent several uncomfortable hours behind the bars of the North Market Street Police Station.

Keitel, who owns the Columbia Oil Co., 3400 Papin street, determined that John D. Rockefeller and Henry Clay Pierce shall not have a monopoly of trouble. When he saw a gang of Bell Telephone workmen in the alley in the rear of his house digging a hole for a pole, he concluded that it was an opportune time for him to break into the limelight. He didn't particularly want the telephone erected in the rear of his residence, and he went out into the alley and so expressed himself to the workmen in rather rude and somewhat undiplomatic language.

"Ah, gwan wid ye," retorted a little man to whom Keitel addressed his remarks. "I 'aint got to listen to your troubles."

This made Keitel furious. He was then determined that the telephone pole should not be erected where the man was digging the hole. He picked up a shovel and started for the digger with a very ugly look in his eye. But the workman didn't mind at all. Although Keitel was about three times his size he took the shovel away from the infuriated property owner and tossed it aside.

Keitel Got Revolver.

By this time John H. Brandt, foreman of the telephone gang, arrived upon the scene of threatened hostilities, and Keitel renewed his remonstrances against the fancied encroachment upon his premises.

Brandt simply showed Keitel his permit from the Board of Public Improvements and told him to go down to the City Hall and tell his troubles to "Andy" O'Reilly, Joe White, Ben Adkins and the other members.

This was too much for Keitel. The idea of a telephone corporation trying to take liberties with an oil merchant was a sticker in his craw that agitated him greatly.

"If you don't clear out of here," he said to Foreman Brandt, "I'll go in and get my pistol and make things interesting for you."

"If you bring any gun out here," said Brandt, who was getting angry himself by this time, "I'll take it away from you and stick it down your throat."

Keitel started for the pistol, and Brandt sent a man for a policeman. By the time Keitel got back with his weapon Policeman Roach was standing in the alley as a sort of a Hague tribunal to settle the dispute between the representatives of the oil industry and the telephone company.

Weapon Was Unloaded.

Keitel had flourished the revolver only a time or two when Roach seized him and wrenched it from his hand. The policeman looked at the weapon and discovered that it was unloaded.

"You're a pretty wise guy to whip this gang of men with an empty pistol," said the policeman. "Come on now and we'll have a junket down to Tenth and North Market streets in the hoodlum wagon."

"I'm standing on my own property and you can't arrest me," said Keitel defiantly.

"We haven't any time to argue about that," replied Roach. "You are going with me."

He whisked Keitel out of the back gate and started for the nearest telephone box. As Keitel and the policeman disappeared around the corner the telephone employes set the pole and tamped the earth around it

Balked at Patrol Wagon.

When Keitel got to the corner he balked. The idea of an oil merchant riding to the police station in a hoodlum wagon didn't agree with his views on the eternal fitness of things. He volunteered the information to Roach that he was not going to ride in the wagon. Roach showed utter contempt for the wishes of Keitel in this respect, and held him on the corner until the driver got there with the wagon, and then pushed the oil man in.

At the station there was another scene. Keitel told Capt. Pickel that he wasn't going to a cell. But Capt. Pickel did not care anything about the prisoner's feelings and ordered him remanded to the holdover.

Before sending Keitel "back," Capt. Pickel tied a ticket on the empty revolver and made a few remarks about the folly of a man of good judgment trying to whip a big telephone company with an unloaded pistol.

When the oil man heard the key turn in the door another tempest broke loose. He ordered the police to go out and find him a bondsman. But the police were not taking arders from Mr. Keitel, even if he is a rival of Rockefeller. They let him fume in the cell for an hour or two, and informed him that the police sometimes showed docile prisoners the courtesy of notifying their friends of their predicament so that they could be bailed out.

Keitel then requested the police to send for Louis Nolte, a hotel man, to sign his bond. Nolte took his own time about coming, and Keitel was in a very bad humor by the time the bonds were ready.

He was charged with disturbing the peace of John H. Brandt of 2723 Arsenal street and Ben Felldhake of 1411 Talmadge avenue. Bond in the sum of $200 was required on each charge.

While a Post-Dispatch reporter called at Keitel's office Thursday he was very busy making some repairs—in fact so busy that he didn't care to talk about his troubles with the telephone people and the police.

Train Robbers Convicted.

EAST LAS VEGAS, N. M., Nov. 29.—Jim Black, John Black and John Murphy, who have been on trial here for several days charged with robbing a train at Logan, N. The robbery was committed by three men, and the two Black boys and Murphy were captured in Oklahoma and returned here for trial. Train robbery is a capital offense in New Mexico.

BONI WILLING TO GO ON STAGE

Count Writes He Would Expect $2000 a Week as Salary.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—Lew Fields, the actor-manager, has received a letter from C. Maase, New York manager for H. B. Martinelli, the well-known Parisian vaudeville promoter, in which it appears that Count Boni de Castellane is looking for a theatrical engagement in America.

In the letter, Mr. Maase says: "The proposition came to us indirectly, but from a source known by our correspondent to be authoritative and authentic. In substance Count Boni is not averse to 'earning' his living through dramatic art, but for reasons of his social fitness will not accept any of the numerous offers submitted to him by European managers."

Mr. Fields said the Count would expect $2000 a week for 40 weeks and that while he would be willing to pay him a fair salary, he could not meet this demand.

At the Marinelli offices a representative of Mr. Maase said that the firm was somewhat in doubt as to Count Boni's motives in offering to appear on the stage. It was hinted that he might be using the proposition as a club to effect a financial settlement with the Goulds.

THIEVES WORK TELEPHONE.

Hall Boy Answers and Man at Door Gets Jewelry.

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—Ten thousand dollars' worth of jewelry was stolen last night from two boarders in the fashionable boarding house at 33 East Twenty-second street by thieves, who worked an entirely new game on the man at the door.

It was dinner time and Miss Marie Hudgins, who lives in the place with her mother, and Miss Ehrman had gone to the dining room when the hallboy, Julius Henry, colored, answered a call at the door. As he was about to ask the caller for his card the telephone, which is in another room, rang. The boy excused himself to the caller and rushed to the telephone. When he returned, having answered an inquiry for someone who was not known in the house, the caller was gone. Later Miss Hudgins and Miss Ehrman discovered that their rooms had been entered and jewelry valued at $10,000 stolen.

PROMOTION RECORD BROKEN

Endicott's Successor Jumps Over Commanders' Heads.

By Wire From the Washington Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—Harry H. Rousseau, a civil engineer in the navy, with the relative rank of lieutenant, has been selected by the President to serve as chief of the Bureau of Yards and Docks. His appointment will become effective Jan. 1 next, when Rear Admiral Endicott, the present incumbent, who retired the 26th of this month, will relinquish the position. The selection of Lieut. Rousseau breaks all previous records in the naval service so far as promotion is concerned.

He now stands No. 12 on the list of the naval corps of civil engineers, with the rank of lieutenant. As chief of the Bureau of Yards and Docks he will have the relative rank and pay of a Rear Admiral, and will receive that title. In this advancement Rousseau is jumped over the heads of all the lieutenants but eleven and over the heads of all lieutenant commanderes, all commanders and all captains.

Lieut. Rousseau is a native of New York. He entered the service in September, 1898. Since February, 1903, he has been on duty at the Mare Island Navy Yard, Cal. He is still there, but will be detached.

David Nicholson Returns Home.

David Nicholson, a well-known grocer, returned to his home at 2024 Lafayette avenue, Wednesday night after spending seven weeks at French Lick Springs, Ind., in an unsuccessful attempt to regain his health. His illness during the last week has become serious. Mr. Nicholson made the trip on a stretcher and bore the journey well. His aged mother and a trained nurse accompanied him.

THE VALUE OF CHARCOAL.

Few People Know How Useful It Is in Preserving Health and Beauty.

Costs Nothing to Try.

Nearly everybody knows that charcoal is the safest and most efficient disinfectant and purifier in nature, but few realize its value when taken into the human system for the same cleansing purpose.

Charcoal is a remedy that the more you take of it the better; it is not a drug at all, but simply absorbs the gases and impurities always present in the stomach and intestines and carries them out of the system.

Charcoal sweetens the breath after smoking, drinking or after eating onions and other odorous vegetables.

Charcoal effectually clears and improves the complexion, it whitens the teeth and further acts as a natural and eminently safe cathartic.

It absorbs the injurious gases which collect in the stomach and bowels; it disinfects the mouth and throat from the poison of catarrh.

All druggists sell charcoal in one form or another, but probably the best charcoal and the most for the money is in Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges; they are composed of the finest powdered Willow charcoal, and other harmless antiseptics in tablet form or rather in the form of large pleasant tasting lozenges, the charcoal being mixed with honey.

The daily use of these lozenges will soon tell in a much improved condition of the general health, better complexion, sweeter breath and purer blood, and the beauty of it is, that no possible harm can result from their continued use, but, on the contrary, great benefit.

A Buffalo physician, in speaking of the benefits of charcoal, says: "I advise Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges to all patients suffering from gas in stomach and bowels, and to clear the complexion and purify the breath, mouth and throat; I also believe the liver is greatly benefited by the daily use of them; they cost but twenty-five cents a box at drug stores, and although in some sense a patent preparation, yet I believe I get more and better charcoal in Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges than in any of the ordinary charcoal tablets."

Another Shipment of "Wooltex" Coats

Ready Tomorrow---$40.00 Values for $25.00

THESE beautiful "Wooltex" coats at twenty-five dollars are values above comparison with anything ever offered in America at the price. Many new models are ready to start the selling Friday morning—there is a profusion of styles and a richness of values positively unapproachable.

There is no material like "Wooltex" material, which we absolutely control in St. Louis. There are no styles like "Wooltex" styles, although you find almost everywhere crude imitations of them. All the fine points so much appreciated by women of fashion can be had only in the "Wooltex" garments, the vital features of which are copyrighted and thus impossible of imitation. Not a single coat worth less than $40.00. Many would be bought gladly at an even greater price—

Every "Wooltex" coat is truly wonderful in its splendid lines. The "Wooltex" garments suggest and bring out the perfect figure to a point hitherto considered impossible in a winter wrap. The materials are finest broadcloths and silks, all tested by acids to prove them pure. Linings are finest silk. Shades for both evening and street wear. The "Wooltex-Marchioness" models are cut liberally full with beautiful ripple backs. The "Wooltex-Belmore" models are designed for semi-dress occasions. Each type represents the highest art in designing and skill in tailoring—

GRAND-LEADER STIX, BAER & FULLER D. G. CO.

Intensely Interesting Friday Bargain News

A Card of Thanks

To the Practical Work Committee of the Wednesday Club.

YOUR efforts to lessen the strain on the employes of the stores during the Holiday season is a step in the right direction, and we are safe in saying that it is greatly appreciated by everyone connected with a retail store that caters to the Holiday shoppers.

You cover the situation entirely when you say that "a little forethought and consideration on the part of shoppers will do much to relieve the shop people from the strain of the terrible rush which usually characterizes the few days preceding Christmas.

Many can do their buying much earlier if they only will, and there is every reason why they should without taking the employes into consideration. There is the advantage of having complete assortments to choose from and the avoidance of the large crowds.

We hope many will follow your splendid suggestion, for which accept the sincere thanks of everyone connected with

Tell Us Your 'Eye' Troubles

OUR Optical Department is in charge of an oculist with years of experience back of him — you don't imagine for a moment we'd let any one else suggest a remedy for your eyes, do you? We couldn't afford to. Why, the wrong glasses are apt to injure more than help them. Our optician will prescribe the lenses you need, no other kind—you can be absolutely sure of that. Come to him with your eye troubles; his advice will be sound advice, founded on actual knowledge.

THANKSGIVING RUSH FOR LICENSE GAVE IDEAS TO REFORMER

Thomas J. Leonard Interviewed Matrimonial Aspirants Getting Facts to Support His Plea for New Marriage Laws—He Has Doubts About Brief Courtships.

THOMAS J. LEONARD, who proposes to introduce a bill at the approaching session of the Legislature, to abolish common law marriages in Missouri and to compel applicants for marriage licenses to supply assurance that they are in earnest and that they have visible means of support, spent a large part of Wednesday in the lobby of the marriage license office, taking notes for use in his argument before the legislative committees in favor of his bill.

The unbroken stream of Thanksgiving applicants for marriage licenses, which rolled up the total of 132, and broke all St. Louis records, except that of 149 made World's Fair year, gave him ample food for study. He talked with a number of applicants as they waited for their turn at the three clerks, who were getting writer's cramp filling out the applications.

"I was more thoroughly convinced than ever," he said, "of the benefit which my bill, if enacted, will confer on the community. One of the questions I asked several of those whom I interviewed was how long they had known each other. In one case the couple told me that they had known each other for six weeks and that the first night they met they agreed, half in jest, to be married. That may make a happy marriage, but the contracting parties have no prima facie assurance that it will. I believe that six weeks' acquaintance is not sufficient to teach each all the character foibles of the other so that each knows precisely what to expect from the other."

Will Avoid Legal Mistakes.

Aclose study of all points likely to come up in the discussion of the measure is being made by Mr. Leonard. He has enlisted the aid of Benjamin H. Charles, Associate City Counsellor, in drawing up the bill, so that no points may creep into it which shall compel the courts to declare it unconstitutional.

Mr. Leonard asserts also that he will call on Gov. Folk as soon as he reaches Jefferson City, to begin his work for the passage of the bill to learn the views of Missouri's chief magistrate on the subject so that amendments to meet the ideas of Gov. Folk may be embodied in the bill.

ISLAND STILL ON DUTY.

It Was Reported to Have Disappeared, but It Didn't.

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—Eugene Motz, Chilian Consul to Mexico City, received an official notice from his Government last night to the effect that the report circulated last August at the time of the disastrous earthquake saying that Juan Fernandez Island had sunk into the ocean was untrue.

The document said that the report of the disappearance of the island was at first credited everywhere and no efforts were made to verify it. A short time ago, however, warships were sent out by the Chilean Government and the island and inhabitants were found uninjured.

Delegates to River Meeting.

The following have been appointed delegates by the Merchants' Exchange to the National Rivers and Harbors Congress which meets in Washington, D. C., Dec. 6 and 7. W. P. Kennett, chairman; E. O. Stanard, Congressman Harry M. Coudrey, Edward Devoy, A. B. Cole, Edward E. Shark, Congressman Richard Bartholdt, Otto L. Teichmann, John T. Hunt and Breckinridge Jones.

Child Wins Contest.

The silver medal offered by the Women's Christian Temperance Union for an oratorical contest of the Loyal Legion at Winnebago Church, Tennessee avenue and Winnebago street was won by Annie Schoenemann, 10 years old, of 3846 Virginia avenue. The judges had a hard time in making a decision, as every contestant did well. The contest will be repeated by the Loyal Legion at the Curby Memorial Church in a short time.

DR. BERNAYS has returned from his vacation, and can be consulted daily at the Lutheran Hospital from 3 to 10.

ST. LOUIS POST-DISPATCH.

ST. LOUIS, TUESDAY EVENING, NOVEMBER 27, 1906.

CLUB MEMBERS ARE URGED TO DO THEIR SHOPPING BY DEC. 15

Practical Work Committee of the Wednesday Club Sends Postal Cards to Women Urging Them to Lighten the Labors of Employes by Buying Christmas Presents Early.

THE Practical Work Committee of the Wednesday Club, of which Mrs. Edward Taussig is the chairman, has sent out postcards asking the members, as far as possible, to do their Christmas shopping before Dec. 15 in an effort to lighten the work of clerks and delivery men.

The above clipping is from last night's Post-Dispatch. The postcards were sent to 425 members of the club. The action is also indorsed by the Wednesday Club. Profit by their advice and do your shopping early. Besides, there are many decided benefits to you. Good selections, better service and smaller crowds.

IN TEARS AFTER GREAT OVATION CARUSO FAINTS

Stage Manager Keeps Tenor From Falling When Curtain Falls.

ONLY ONE WEIRD HISS

Fine Cluster of American Beauties Hurled From Gallery at Start.

SEMBRICH IS TACTFUL

She Hops Aside at Last Summons and Caruso Sees Throng Alone.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—Before Enrico Caruso, the most celebrated tenor in the world, had a chance to exhibit his high-priced voice to one of the greatest audiences ever gathered in the Metropolitan Opera House last night, an object hurtled through the air and landed at his feet.

As he turned to view it with the murmur of confusing sound ringing in his ears, his figure trembled. In his overwrought and nerve-racked condition, he did not know what to expect—an over-ripe lemon or a bouquet of roses. As his eyes lighted on it tears of gratitude rolled down his cheeks. The object was a fine cluster of American beauty roses, thrown with unerring aim by an admirer in the crowded topmost gallery.

An instant later Caruso heard distinctly the cheers of approval of his singing, at least from the lovers of music, by the world he knows best, whose verdict he had awaited with fear and hope. If it was intended as a vindication it was sharp, instant and pronounced. He repaid it with a spontaneous flow of tears, born of tense emotions, and by an exhibition of his art so brilliant as to inspire a tremendous ovation.

The tribute to the tenor, legally pronounced guilty of a most serious offense, was of unmistakable approval and in refutation of the accusations of the police.

It broke forth the instant the curtain rose on "La Boheme," in which Caruso appeared as Rodolfo, delaying the movement of the splendidly colored episode of the Latin Quarter of the Paris of a century ago, manifested itself with the last of his glorious notes of "I am, I am, I am a poet," and ended in a great tumult at the close of the act that the tenor was recalled nine times. He acted like a man who had been freed from some great load of care, during the one brief half hour of the act.

Mme. Sembrich's Great Tact.

Incidentally Enrico Caruso contracted a debt of gratitude which he will find it difficult to repay to his fellow-artists and to Mme. Marcella Sembrich in particular. It was mainly due to the tact and finesse of that great artist that Caruso was cajoled into confronting alone the audience and inviting its commendation of condemnation. With such consummate skill did Mme. Sembrich manage the incident that it was not until Caruso found himself alone on the great stage that he realized the importance of it to himself.

Mme. Sembrich and he had bowed their acknowledgments of the applause eight times. During the last three he clutched the sleeve of her gown as might a small child, fearful of the goblins in the dark. Thrice his kindly protector had essayed to leave him alone on the stage; as many thimes he defeated her purpose

But when they came on in obedience to the last summons, Madame, with a merry laugh, stepped aside, and Caruso stood alone in his seedy garb, and saw, through a haze of grateful tears, long lines of men and women in evening dress, stretching outward and upward, from pit to top gallery; the waving of dainty handkerchiefs; heard the pounding sctiks, the clapping of hands, the murmur of his own name coupled with terms of approval and uttered in soft Italian gutteral German and in the rancous blending of mingled tongues.

Suggestion of a Hiss.

"Caruso! Caruso! Bravo!" Just for an instant as the first wave of approval died away there was the suggestion of a hiss of disapproval. It was a lone, weird sort of "sh-sh-s-h-s-h.' It came from the third tier. There was no mistaking its meaning. But before it was heard by the chubby figure of the tenor standing in the center of the great stage with bowed head and tears of gratitude stealing their way down beside the corners of his mouth, and into the false brown beard he wore, a great roar of applause and cries of encouragement answered from all parts of the house.

Caruso raised his head, his eyes sewept the house from orchestra performers to topmost gallery and he stood as a man transformed. Then, with head erect and light step, he disappeared behind the curtain. Behind the shelter of that curtain all the singers—constellations and chorus—were grouped, awaiting the verdict. As Caruso turned to thew they broke into applause.

Caruso started toward them—and collapsed. He would have fallen to the stage had it not been for the protecting arm of Assistant Stage Manager Rigo. The other singers made way and Caruso was assisted to his dressing room.

The house had been picketed with police, but they were not needed.

Both Caruso and Mme. Sembrich, who took the part of Mimi, were overwhelmed with floral offerings.

At the close of the opera the Italian contingent, which was especially numerous and vociferous in the standing room around the outer edges of the lower floor, started still another demonstration, but the great bulk of the retiring audience took no part in this and Caruso made but one response to the plaudits.

Brigadier-General Baird Dead.

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—Word has been received of the death at Asheville, N. C., of Brigadier-General George W. Baird, U. S. A., retired. Gen. Baird was born in Connecticut in December, [illegible]. He served in the Civil War and on the Western frontier, participating with gallantry in several Indian campaigns. The latter years of his life were spent in the Paymaster-General's department. Gen. Baird was the author of a book on Gen. Miles' Indian campaigns.

SAYS STEPFATHER BURNED CLOTHES

Fifteen-Year-Old Girl Gets Warrant Charging Disturbance of Peace.

COULD NOT GO TO CHURCH

Lilian Cockrill Says She Was Beaten While Mother Was Ill.

Charles Corle of 6537 St. Joseph avenue, St. Louis County, was arrested Thursday by Constable Bode of Clayton on a warrant sworn out before Justice Priess of Clayton by his stepdaughter, Lillian Cockrill, charging him with disturbing her peace by burning her shoes and stockings and a shirt waist, and locking up the rest of her clothes to keep her from going to church.

With tears in her pretty brown eyes, Lillian, who is 15 years old, told Justice Preiss how Corle, to keep her from going to church locked her clothes in her wardrobe and locked the wardrobe in the coal shed. When she insisted on going and put on some of her mother's clothes he took her shoes and stockings and a shirtwaist from her and burned them, she said.

Lillian lives with her mother and stepfather at 6537 St. Joseph avenue, St. Louis County. She is the oldest of five children. Her mother has been ill for two years and the care of the household and the younger children has fallen upon Lillian.

"My stepfather has been angry with me ever since my mother became sick," the girl told Justice Preiss. "One time, a month ago, when I was going down town with my little sister he got angry because I would not leave the girl at home and go with him.

"He quarreled with me, and when I would not do as he wanted me to do, because my mother told me to do differently, he struck me. Then he went away and said he was not coming back.

"When he left I went downtown and got work, for I had to earn something for us to live on. He came back in a few days and when he learned that I was working he was angry and struck me and choked me.

"When I wanted to go to church last Sunday he told me I would have to stay at home. I go to church every Sunday and I told him I was going. He locked my dresses up in the woodshed and burned my shoes, and now I have nothing to wear except some clothes the neighbors have given me. I hope, Judge, that you won't treat him too badly, for he is good sometimes. But I want you to make him give me back my clothes and let me go to church whenever mother says I can."

When Constable Bode went to the home of Corle he found the girl's story true, so far as her clothes were concerned. The wardrobe containing them was locked in the woodshed and the door was nailed for additional security. Bode compelled Corle to produce the keys and after unlocking the door he pried it open and gave the girl her clothes. Corle was then locked up at Clayton.

Lillian, who is 15, says she will go to work to help support the family.

GOTHAM FOR OLD SPELLING.

Board of Education Votes Down Carnegie's System.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—Andrew Carnegie's simplified spelling, with its "thru," its "kist" and its "thoro," is not to be taught to the school children of Greater New York. The Board of Education, by a vote of 32 to 4, has resolved to let the spelling books stand as they are. Supt. Maxwell fought with all his might to have the list of 300 words adopted, if only provisionally, but went down to defeat, supported only by four commissioners.

The one thing that seemed to have had more than anything else to do with solidifying the members of the board against simplified spelling was the admission of Prof. Brander Matthews at the recent public hearing on the question, if he were writing a novel, he would not use simplified spelling because it might hurt the sale of the books; several commissioners referred to it.

TEACHING BY PHONOGRAPH.

Method May Be Adopted by Chicago University.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, Nov. 29.—Experiments in teaching the languages by phonograph are in progress at the University of Chicago and it is probable this method will be adopted. The professors are much in favor of it. Experiments have been made with French and German and have been pronounced entirely satisfactory. The records are numbered to correspond with the printed lessons.

The method was introduced by correspondence schools and met with such universal favor that colleges and universities, which ridiculed the idea at first, began to consider it seriously.

Acting President Harry Pratt Judson will, it is said, be made permanent head of the university. He has cut down the faculty, suspended university publications and introduced so many economies that he has won Mr. Rockefeller.

OLD SPELLING FOR SOLONS.

Congress Can't Be Interfered With, Members Say.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—The House Committee on Appropriations today added a provision to the legislative, executive and judicial appropriation bill that the old style of spelling shall prevail in all work performed for Congress.

A majority of the members held that Congress has no power to fix the system of spelling to be used by the executive and judicial branches of the Government. In the draft of the bill the committee used both styles of spelling. Wherever a simplified word appeared the old style of spelling was placed in parenthesis.

Dillingham's Wife Dies.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—Jennie Yeamans, the actress, wife of Charles Dillingham, the manager, died at midnight in her rooms at the Gerard Hotel. Her death was caused by a complication of diseases, from which she has suffered many months. Her mother and Elsie Fox, a close personal friend, were at the bedside. Mr. Dillingham is in Philadelphia, and was telegraphed for.

DON'T MISS

George Ade's new version of Maud Muller in next Sunday's Post-Dispatch. It's every bit as good as his "Fables in Slang." The humorist retells an old story in every Sunday Post-Dispatch. You'll miss something if you don't read them.

GO ENJOY YOURSELF.

You may travel, attend church, or places of amusement without fear of headache, dizziness, sick-stomach, nervousness or other distressing symptoms if you will take one or two Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills. They never fail to remove every disagreeable symptom, due to nervousness or excitement. 25 doses, 25 cents. Never sold in bulk.

A Natural Laxative

Inward cleansing is as necessary as outward bathing. To keep the bowels free and regular is of even greater importance than to keep the skin-pores from becoming clogged. The neglect of either invites disease. Everyone needs a natural laxative occasionally, to free the bowels of accumulated impurities. For this purpose take the greatest boon ever offered to those who suffer from the ills that follow constipation. For over fifty years Beecham's Pills have been famous as a Stomach corrective, a Liver regulator and Bowel laxative. They never gripe nor cause pain. Powerful purgatives are dangerous. Avoid them. Use Beecham's Pills. They give relief without doing violence to any organ. Their action is in harmony with physical laws. Take them regularly and the necessity for their use becomes less frequent. They are a natural laxative and a positive cure for Constipation, Biliousness, Indigestion, Sick Headache and Dyspepsia.

BEECHAM'S PILLS

PATIENT LEAPS FROM HOSPITAL

Delirious With Pain, John Cummins Plunged From Third Floor Window.

While delirious with pain from an inflamed knee John Cummins, 44 years old, of 2130 Bismarck street, sprang from a third-story window of the City Hospital 30 feet to the ground. Two ribs were broken and he has internal injuries and is in a serious condition.

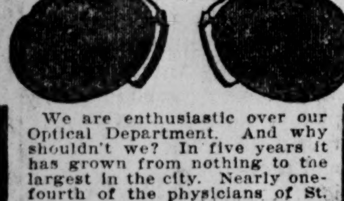
Cummins was received at the hospital Wednesday afternoon and was placed in Ward C 30 on the third floor. His ailment was regarded as mild and it was not anticipated that he would become delirious.

About 7 p. m., when the doctors and attendants were in another part of the ward, he sprang out of bed and raising the window climbed to the sill.

An attendant rushed to the window and clutched the hospital gown in which he was clad just as Cummins leaped. The momentum of the leap and the weight of his body caused him to slip out of the gown and he plunged to the ground in his underclothes.

He struck on soft ground or he would probably have been killed. He was picked up unconscious and carried back into the building and precautions taken against a repetition of the act.

DO YOU NEED A PAIR OF GLASSES?



We are enthusiastic over our Optical Department. And why shouldn't we? In five years it has grown from nothing to the largest in the city. Nearly one-fourth of the physicians of St. Louis are depending on our glasses for their own use. Over twenty thousand people are walking the streets of this city with our glasses on.

Do you know of any better place to bring your eyes?

We especially invite hard, difficult cases. Those who have had trouble getting glasses they can see out of. Children going to school.

Let our Dr. Mulholland test your eyes. It costs you nothing. For the accommodation of those who cannot come through the day, he will wait on you Saturday nights or Sunday mornings.

Then, we are in a position to make you better glasses at lower prices than any first-class optical house in the city. A good pair of glasses as low as.................. $1

YOUTH SHOT HIS MOTHER'S SUITOR

Boy Resented Man's Intrusion in the Family Sleeping Room at Midnight.

SISTER SAW SHOOTING

Mother and Wounded Man Are Locked Up and Son Is Arrested.

Resenting intrusion on the privacy of the family sleeping room at his home, 1420 Market street, Carl Droste, 16 years old, shot his mother's suitor, Walter Hinton, 23 years old, at 12:30 a. m. Thursday.

Hinton's wound in the shoulder was dressed at the City Hospital and pronounced not serious. He is held as a prisoner and the boy's mother, Mrs. Sarah Seguin, was also arrested and is in the holdover at the Four Courts. Mrs. Seguin has been twice married and she recently announced that she was to become the wife of Hinton.

In the room when the shooting occurred were Mrs. Seguin, her son, Carl, and her 13-year-old daughter, Sarah Droste.

The mother and her two children live in a small back room of a restaurant kept by Mrs. Seguin. The boy and girl had retired. The entry of Hinton and Mrs. Seguin into the room led to the shooting.

According to a statement given to the police by the daughter, Sarah, her mother and another woman spent two hours in the restaurant canning beer.

Son Warned Suitor.

"After midnight,' said she, "the other woman went away and my mother came into the sleeping room. Hinton insisted on accompanying her. My brother told him to get out, but he said he was going to stay.

"When my brother insisted that Hinton go away, Hinton grabbed him by the throat. Hinton remained in the room until my brother became very angry and pulled his revolver from under the pillow and fired a shot. Hinton ran away.

"When we heard later that the man was wounded, my brother wanted to give himself up, but some of his friends advised him not to. He walked down Market street with the revolver in his hand. I do not know where he went."

The daughter Sarah is now at the home of her grandmother, Mrs. Walker, at 2013 Eugenia street.

Hinton says he works in a shoe factory and lives at 2317 Clark avenue.

"I became acquainted with Mrs. Seguin when she kept a rooming house at 2026 Pine street about five months ago," he said. "I was passing her restaurant last night when she called me in. She invited me to go to the rear room with her and her boy shot me."

Boy Objected to Beer.

Carl Droste was arrested at the home of his grandmother, on Eugenia street. After being identified at the City Hospital by Hinton, he was locked up at the Four Courts. To a Post-Dispatch reporter he said: "Hinton has been calling on my mother for two months. I didn't like his attentions to her. He called last night and he and my mother and Mrs. Nina Meyers, from whom my mother bought the restaurant, sat in the restaurant until midnight, when Hinton went for a pitcher of beer. I told him not to give my mother beer and went into the back room and laid down on a couch. He got another pitcher of beer and then said he was going to stay all night.

"He came into the back room, where my sister, Irene, was sleeping, and I got up from the couch and asked him what he wanted. He said he was going to stay all night. I told him he couldn't and we had words, and he tried to choke me. Then I shot him. It was in self defense and in defense of my mother and sister. He took the revolver away from me. When mother came running in he said he was going to the City Dispensary. I ran out and went to the home of my grandmother and remained there until the policeman came and arrested me."

When Mrs. Seguin was arrested she would not make a statement. When she had recovered sufficiently, she said to Assistant Chief of Detectives Keeley: "Carl shot Hinton because he didn't want him to let me have any more beer. Hinton was just passing through the room to the backyard. I was in the restaurant when the shooting occurred."

POCKETBOOK STOLEN.

Purse Taken on Car by Man—Drops It When Pursued.

The police are seeking a man, described as big andn husky and of imposing physique, who leaped off a northbound Broadway car after he had forcibly taken a purse containing $15 from the pocket of John Wilhan of 712 Howard street. Wilhan, the conductor, the motorman and a policeman pursued the man several blocks, but he escaped. The pocketbook was picked up during the chase by the policeman and returned to the owner, the thief evidently having thrown it away when he saw his pursuers following close behind.

Wilhan was standing on the rear platform of the car Wednesday night with several other men. The big man edged close to him. Suddenly he felt his arm seized. A hand was thrust into his hip pocket and his pocketbook drawn out. The car was then near Lucas avenue. The pickpocket jumped off and ran toward Sixth street. Wilhan gave the alarm and the pursuit started, the conductor firing two shots at the fugitive. The chase led to Third and Wash streets, where the thief disappeared.

One Negro Stabs Another.

Because he refused to close a door when commanded to do so, Fox Hunter, a negro, was stabbed in the breast and probably fatally wounded by Robert Schultz, another negro, at 410 North Levee, Wednesday night. Hunter is at the City Hospital in a critical condition. Schultz made his escape.

Changed Worthless Bill.

Miss Lulu Daul, cashier at the Merchants' Restaurant, 1206 Olive street, gave a stranger $9.90 in exchange for a $10 bill after he had purchased two nickel cigars. The stranger departed and later Miss Daul discovered that the certificate was one issued by the Merchants and Planters' Bank of Georgia before the Civil War.

In Great Variety

Storekeepers' generally concede that a choice from a great variety is equivalent to an extra ten per cent of value. "Queen Quality" Shoes are made in the greatest variety of all women's shoes in the world. They are to be had in all styles and leathers, and in all shapes and sizes. And all these styles originate with "Queen Quality." That is worth remembering when you buy your next pair of shoes.

For general wear, we recommend the Glazed Kid and Gunmetal styles. No better leather was ever produced for women's shoes than the "Queen Quality" Glazed Kid. It is soft, comfortable, of bright luster, tough fibered, long wearing and makes handsome shoes.

See our window display of these splendid shoes. Or, better still, step inside and give us the pleasure of showing them.

SCOUT BURNED AT STAKE BY INDIANS

Indiana Relatives Hear of Taylor's Death During Ute Uprising.

Special to the Post-Dispatch

CRAWFORDSVILLE, Ind., Nov. 29.—Relatives here have learned that Thomas H. Taylor, formerly a resident of this county, was killed by the Ute Indians in their recent uprising in Montana. While scouting with a detachment of the Sixth United States cavalry Taylor was captured and burned at the stake.

He had been living in Montana for 10 years and had been particularly active in the pursuit of the Indians. In this way he is supposed to have gained their ill-will and signed his own death warrant. Two brothers, from this county also, have been living with him on his Montana ranch for several years. A private dispatch to kinsmen says that while searching for the missing scout one of the brothers came on and identified the charred body in the mountains. It was evident that the Indians had burned their victim at the stake.

TOWN DESTROYED BY AN EXPLOSION

24 Bodies Already Removed From Ruins and 96 Injured Conveyed to Hospital.

DORTMUND, Germany, Nov. 29.—Following an explosion in a factory near the town of Annen, seven miles southwest of here, yesterday evening, the bodies of 24 dead have already been removed from the ruins and 96 injured have been conveyed to the nearest hospital. The town itself is now nothing more than a heap of ruins. It is estimated that 300 persons were killed or wounded, but the exact number has not yet been ascertained.

The work of rescue is still going on and is attended with the greatest danger from the possibility of a renewal of explosions.

The accident occurred about 8:30 o'clock. Two tremendous detonations were heard throughout the entire surrounding country. The inhabitants of the vicinity fled in a panic, fearing further explosions.

NEW NAME FOR ROBBINS LANE

Bill Introduced in Council to Change Its Title to Sixteenth Street.

OFFER MADE TO WIDEN IT

Concerns Interested in Change Will Add Ten Feet to Thoroughfare.

A bill to change the name of "Robbins Lane," which embalms the memory of an ante-bellum St. Louis family, to "Sixteenth street" has been introduced in the City Council by Councilman Hitchcock. The idea of the change originated with the Brown Shoe Company and the Ely-Walker Dry Goods Company which are erecting towering mercantile structures on either side of the "lane." They feared if their business address remained "Washington avenue and Robbins' Lane" their customers might have trouble in finding them.

Robbins' lane was a real country lane, passing close to the home of Solomon H. Robbins, which stood squarely across what now is Washington avenue, just west of the lane. When in September, 1847, Robbins laid out Robbins' Subdivision, bounded by Eighteenth street, Christy avenue, St. Charles street and Robbins' lane, the thoroughfare came into possession of the city.

The street has up to the present been 33 feet wide. The two business firms now building on either side have informed Street Commissioner Valliant that they will each add five feet to the width of the street so that it will become a city street 43 feet wide. Robbins Lane is in reality Sixteenth street. The change in the name will make Sixteenth street continuous.

"The business houses will not dedicate the five feet. The title will remain in them while the people will have the use of the widened street," says Street Commissioner Valliant. "The city will therefore continue to collect taxes on the five feet which is added to the street on either side."

MERGER BLOCKED BY HILL.

Western Lines Never Will Consolidate, He Says.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, Nov. 29.—James J. Hill has set at rest fears arising from his testimony before the Minnesota Railroad Commission that he had received a proposition looking toward the consolidation of all railroads west of the Mississippi River. He said the scheme was not feasible and that railroads would never be merged unless under Government ownership. This, he thinks, is impracticable.

Mr. Hill's testimony before the Railroad Board was to the effect that he had blocked the proposition by refusing to be the head, or even a party, to the deal. Mr. Hill, as he was leaving Chicago for New York, said:

"That merger was proposed many years ago. I will not go into its details. The plan did not appear to me to be desirable or feasible. I do not think there is any likelihood of a merger of all the roads west of here."

"Do you expect Government ownership, ultimately, of railroads?"

"I do not. Such a thing would perpetuate the political administration in power when the Government acquired the railroads, unless everybody connected with railroads were barred from voting at elections. That is done in some European countries which own railroads. I do not believe American citizens would give up their rights of franchise. They have always fought for it."

When told by somebody that he was looking well physically, Mr. Hill said: "That's because I've always taken good care of myself and never worry. Worry makes men old and kills them; work does not."

POLICEMEN ACCUSED.

Several Must Answer Charges Before the Board.

Policeman George Rogers of the Manchester Avenue Station will appear before the Police Board Friday to answer the charge of neglect of duty. It is stated that Rogers failed to properly search a prisoner, Gilbert Reed, and that after the prisoner was taken to a cell three knives and a watch were found on him.

Special Officer John Mooney and Oscar Dowell, against whom charges of neglect of duty were filed Tuesday, were ordered to appear for trial Friday to answer the charge of failing to report a poker game.

Arthur Lancaster, chief clerk in the Central District Station, sent his resignation to Capt. Peter Reynolds Wednesday Charges of conduct unbecoming an officer were filed against him notwithstanding. Lancaster reported that he was sick Sunday. Police Physician A. C. Robinson was sent to his house. He said that he was being treated by Dr. Kier of 3609 Lindell boulevard. Dr. Kier denied that he was treating Lancaster.

ROBBER SHOOTS MERCHANT.

Victim Laughed at Man Who Got Revolver.

OKLAHOMA CITY, O. T., Nov. 29.—O. W. P. Dilworth, proprietor of the Dilworth Hardware Co. store here, was shot and possibly fatally wounded this morning by a man in an attempt to rob the store.

The robber escaped. A stranger entered the store and asked to see a revolver. He then asked for cartridges, which he put into the revolver and turned it on the clerk, telling him to hold up his hands and turn over the cash in the drawer.

Mr. Dilworth, happening in at the moment, was also told to hold up his hands. Thinking it a joke, Dilworth laughed at him, when the man began to shoot. Two shots took effect, one in Dilworth's wrist, the other in his side. It is believed Dilworth cannot live.

Rice Shower Too Late.

A crowd of rice-laden friends of Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Stolz, who were married Wednesday afternoon at the home of the bride at 2341 California avenue, arrived one minute too late at the Union Station to shower the couple. They attempted to force their way through the train gate, disregarding the warning of the watchman. Patrolmen Wardinsky and Coates were called and the policemen threatened to arrest the entire party. This sobered them and they were not able to give the elaborate rice shower which they had planned for the newly married couple. Mrs. Stolz was formerly Miss Luella Lang, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. August J. Lang.

GILLETTE SAYS HE NEVER PROMISED TO WED "BILLY" BROWN

In Crowded Courtroom He Makes Detailed Confession of Factory Girl's Betrayal and Describes Her Death in Big Moose Lake, Swearing It Was Suicide.

OWN ATTORNEY CALLS HIM A MORAL COWARD

Youth Shows no Emotion as Prosecution Strips His Character During Cross-Examination—Says He Loved and Pitied "Billy" but Never Mentioned Marriage.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

HERKIMER, N. Y., Nov. 29.—Chester Gillette, whose life the State is seeking as a forfeit for the alleged murder of "Billy" Brown, his cast-off sweetheart, testifying in his own defense, shocked the hearers by his indifference. Never, in the opinion of many who heard his testimony, was a man more hopelessly trapped by his own statements than Chester Gillette.

The cross-examination was merciless. It was a vivisection. The District Attorney stripped his character bare. And as he told the story of an innocent girl's downfall and of her subsequent tragic end, men and women in the courtroom turned their faces away from the figure slouching comfortably in the witness chair.

Gillette sat in the witness chair for nearly five hours. Half of that time he was being led in his story by Albert M. Mills, junior counsel for the defense. During the remainder he was being flayed by the District Attorney. Sometimes it seemed that Gillette spoke mechanically, without motive or suggestion of conscience. During pauses in both the direct and cross-examinations his small eyes wandered away out over the heads of the crowd as if seeking something far off.

What Gillette may think of his chances of conviction he alone knows. His counsel, however, are known to feel that there is absolutely no possibility of his acquital.

The opening speech of Attorney Thomas was the best possible in his cause.

"When Grace Brown's body was taken out of the water of Big Moose Lake it was examined by a physician," said Thomas. "He declared at that time the girl had been drowned. He will be here and testify, and the defendant shall have the benefit of that testimony.

"You have been told by the District Attorney that Grace Brown and Chester Gillette were engaged to be married, that she left her home at South Otselic and went forth with him on July 9 last on her wedding journey. Not a fact nor an iota of proof has been shown to you in support of this claim. We admit, yes we know—that Grace Brown should have been married many months before her death. But there is no reason for us to believe that an engagement existed between her and the defendant.

"There is no more reason for us to believe this than that the one new dress, a skirt and a coat, were Grace Brown's wedding clothes, which the District Attorney has pictured to you over and over again with tears in his voice. Was that the wedding trousseau—was that such an outfit as would have suited the temperament of a girl like Grace Brown?"

After tracing the history of Gillette's wandering career down to his meeting "Billy" Brown at Cortland in the fall of 1905, the lawyer began at the day in July last when Gillette went away with her on the tragic journey to the north woods.

"Their association," he continued, "was simply a youthful folly, an indiscretion. It was not a honeymoon trip which these two had planned, but a pleasure excursion, when they left together.

Coward, Says His Lawyer.

"Gentlemen of the jury, Chester Gillette, the defendant at the bar, is a moral coward. He is a mental coward. But believe me, he is not guilty of the crime charged against him. This crime is something which cannot be laid at his door. It is a charge to which he cannot plead guilty. Cowardice, be it moral or physical, is not a crime under the law. It is an affliction, a disease of which the subject is incapable of freeing himself.

"It was cowardice that kept Chester Gillette traveling with Grace Brown under various aliases and it was cowardice that kept him from making public her death as soon as it had taken place. These things we admit, but that he killed her we deny.

"Gentlemen, would you not be better satisfied with the judgment you are to render in this case if you were to have the testimony of an eyewitness of Grace Brown's death? I know you would. You shall have it—the testimony of the one man who knows how the girl met her death. I would to God that you might hear the voice of Grace Brown and she would tell you what you are to hear she could speak from her grave today

It was Attorney Mills and not Thomas who was to examine the defendant. The old gentleman went as close to the witness stand as he possibly could and told Gillette that he wished the jury to hear as much as he colld tell about his life down to the period in 1904 when he went to work in his uncle's skirt factory at Cortland and there met "Billy" Brown. In a voice that stammered in the beginning and which often lost itself in huskiness, Gillette sketched in his youth. He said he had been born in Nevada and had spent his early life in the West. His parents had lived at various times in Denver, San Francisco and Chicago. When he was 14 he ran away from home and sailed from San Francisco to the Hawaiian Islands. Upon his return he went to Ohio, spent but that she would utter a plea for the man she loved? I know she would add her prayer to mine and beg you to believe, as I believe and tell you, that this boy is innocent."

Suddenly he turned away from the jury box and with the sharpness of a rifle shot exclaimed: "Chester Gillette, take the witness stand."

Gillette On the Stand.

Instantly there was a creaking of chairs and benches as the crowd shifted forward in the body of the courtroom and in the galleries.

two years at a preparatory school at Oberlin University, and when he left there it was to become a brakeman on the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railroad. He was not sure about the exact time of his going to work for his uncle at Cortland. But he thought that it was at least two years ago.

His Version of the Tragedy.

Coming to the last day he spent with "Billy" Brown, Attorney Mills sought to get from him certain conversations which he had with her at various stages of the tragic journey. District Attorney Ward shut these out, but when the afternoon opened all objection was withdrawn and Gillette continued his story of how Grace Brown had ended her own life.

"Chester, tell us how you went along the lake," suggested Mills.

"Well, we went along the south shore, rowing slowly. I was looking for the places which I had been told were worth seeing. Then we went away up in the eastern end of South Bay. We went into an inlet and I think we stayed about fifteen or twenty minutes. When we came out we stopped to get some pond lilies. It was warm in the sun and about 1 o'clock we went over to the south shore to get in the shade of the trees.

"I asked her if she was hungry, and she said that she was not. She said she was not feeling well. Then I got out the lunch, which I had in the suitcase, and ate it. She lay down along the side of a tree and slept and I put my coat over her. It was damp there and I had fixed my suitcase for her to lie down on."

Throughout the day it never seemed to occur to Gillette once to refer to "Billy" Brown in any other way than "she" or "her" or "the girl." Not until near evening, when the District Attorney asked him why he spoke of "Billy" in that manner, did he begin to refer to the girl by name.

"Well," continued Gillette, "after we were there for about an hour we rowed out of South Bay and into the lake. I left my dress suitcase and my camera behind us. Next we went ashore near Higby's camp. I saw a beach there and thought it would be a good place to look around. Yes, we saw somebody else there, after a few minutes. A man came across the lake in a boat and got out with an ax and went into the woods."

"And what did you do after coming back to South Bay?" asked the attorney, as Gillette sat down.

"We went up toward the east end of the bay again to get some lilies. We rowed around for a short time and we talked. What did we talk about? Why, we talked about what we were going to do. We talked about how we were going to meet the condition which confronted us. She said she did not think we ought to keep on doing as we had been. I advised her to go home and tell her father and mother her condition. Then she said she could not tell her father and mother, and I said I would go and tell her father.

Says She Tipped the Boat.

"We were talking this way when she sprang up suddenly on the side of the boat and it tipped over. She said, 'You don't know my father and I'll end it all now,' or something like that. These were her last words. As she went into the water I grabbed for her, but I guess I was not quick enough.

"I went under and when I came up and rubbed the water from my eyes I looked around for her. I grabbed hold of the boat and held on for two or three minutes looking around for her. When I didn't see her, I let go of the boat and swam ashore. As soon as I got there I walked over to the east side, where I had left my suit case and camera, and started from the lake. I was frightened. I took the straps off my suit case so as to carry it on my back, and after going a little ways the racquet got in my way and I put it down behind a log at the side of the road. I covered it with dirt. The umbrella? Oh, the umbrella I left behind at that wire fence by the lake.

"I did not know where I was going. I just wanted to get away from the lake. Yes, I met three men in the road and then I got to Eagle Bay and took the steamboat there and went to the Arrowhead Inn on Fourth Lake."

By this time he had complete control of his voice and it could be heard in every part of the courtroom. He spoke with a hard nasal twang.

"Chester," suddenly asked Mr. Mills, "did you strike Grace Brown or throw her in the lake or do anything willfully or willingly to cause her death?"

"No, sir," said Gillette, loudly, as though offended at the interrogation.

"Did your watch stop when you went into the water?"

"Yes. When I got to Eagle Bay I looked at it. It said 10 minutes after 6 o'clock."

Tennis Racquet In Evidence.

Mills now held up to Gillette the tennis racquet with which it is claimed by the State he beat "Billy" Brown into insensibility and perhaps death before throwing her into Big Moose Lake.

"That's your racquet, isn't it?" asked the attorney, and the defendant took it from him.

"Yes, that looks something like my racquet, but I wouldn't swear to it. It was in perfect condition when I last saw it. The bow was not broken and the strings were all tight and the handles weren't loose. Not to my knowledge had that racquet been out of its case from the time I left Cortland until I had it in the woods. After I had been in jail some time I told Under Sheriff Klock where to find the racquet; that's right."

"Did you hear any conversation between the driver of the stage at Big Moose and Grace Brown"

Yes, she asked him about the trains. He told her there was one for the south at 10:30 or 11:45 that night, and she asked him to call for us."

Mills sought to emphasize how it had been Gillette's intention to go out on Big Moose Lake in a steamboat and then how "Billy" Brown had turned him aside in this purpose.

"Now, about this luncheon, Chester, which you had in the dress suit case. Was it there when you left the Glenmore, and how much of it did you eat?"

"Well, she did not want any of it, and when we went ashore I ate all of it—all except an orange."

As Gillette answered this question he leaned forward and took a sup of water from a glass on the stenographer's table. Mills had turned away from him and was conferring with Thomas. A moment later Mills looked up again and said to the District Attorney: "That's all."

The Cross-Eexamination.

The District Attorney lost not a minute in making his attack.

"How old were you when you say you went to Hawaii?" sneered the District Attorney. Gillette braced himself in his chair and put his head back so that it rested on one of the columns.

"Oh, I was about 18, I think."

"You went in a ship, did you?"

"Yes."

"And you weren't frightened or scared or fearful of your life then were you?"

"Nope," he said. "I don't remember. I was too sick all the time."

"Who told you to say don't remember and not to be too positive about anything to which you may testify?"

"Nobody did."

"Gillette, night before last didn't you tell them over in the jail how Grace Brown came up beside the boat after it tipped over and you struck her?"

"No, I didn't say anything of the kind."

The tension in the courtroom was now nearly at a breaking point. In the silence one could hear the heavy breathing of the spectators like water breaking and sighing on a sandy beach.

But Ward was away on another tack immediately. He wanted to know how long Gillette had worked on the railroad as a brakeman and if he had ever ridden on the top of freight cars at night. The defendant answered that he had been a brakeman for about a year and a half and that of course he had ridden on the top of freight cars.

"And you weren't afraid that something might catch you out there in the night, and you weren't afraid of your life?" shouted the District Attorney.

"No, I was not afraid then, only in the winter time when it was slippery."

Gillette on his direct examination had testified that the racquet with which he is charged with having murdered "Billy" Brown was bought by him in Ohio several years ago. The District Attorney wanted to know what had become of the one he had bought in Cortland a few days before he left there in July, and Gillette said that he was sure he had never bought any there.

"Gillette, you used to go out in society in Cortland, did you not?

"What do you mean by society?"

"Well, you used to go around with the Patrick girl and the Westcott girl and Hattie Benedict, did you not, to balls and parties?"

"Yes."

"Did you ever take Grace Brown with you?"

"No, sir."

"She didn't belong in society?"

"Well, I don't know what you would call it."

"Do you ever remember talking to Mrs. Hoag about Grace Brown? Do you remember her saying to you that you shouldn't go to see a young woman you couldn't take out in society?"

"I couldn't swear to it. I don't remember."

Talked About "Billy."

"Do you remember Teresa Harnishfager talking to you about Grace Brown, and saying you shouldn't go with her?"

"Yes, I remember that, I think."

"And what did you say to her? Wasn't it that you were having your fun?"

"I shouldn't like to say what I said to her."

"Well, you will say what you said to her."

Gillette was trying to remember some of his "society" manners.

"Well," he said, "I told her it was none of her business what I did."

"Just about that time you didn't think it was anybody's business, did you?"

"Yes, I did."

"Whose?"

"Her father's."

"Did you love 'Billy' Brown that day on Big Moose Lake as well as you ever had before in all your life?"

"Yes, sir."

"And did you love her on July 4 just the same, and if you did, why didn't you go over to her little home, where you knew she was waiting for you and where she had begged you to come?"

"I didn't know she wanted me."

Gillette answered weakly, and the District Attorney lost his temper. He handed Gillette the letters, which the defendant wrote to "Billy" Brown and which are on record in the case.

Gillette examined each envelope and its contents as if he feared the District Attorney might get him to admit something against himself. He thought the handwriting looked like his and it might be his, but he was not going to swear that it was. And Ward could not make him do so.

"Chester, you wouldn't tell a lie, would you?" demanded the District Attorney.

"Not if I new it was a lie."

"Did you not tell Miss Patrick and Miss Westcott on the train that you were going to meet a boy and go to Racquet Lake with him? You heard them testify to that here, didn't you?"

"But I didn't say I was going to meet a boy."

"But you did tell them that you were going to Racquet Lake, didn't you, and you knew all the time you were going to Tupper Lake?"

"Yes, I did tell them that I was going to Racquet Lake?"

"Then that was a lie, wasn't it?"

"Yes, that was a lie."

"Then you would tell a lie, wouldn't you, Chester?"

"Yes."

The District Attorney returned to Gillette's letters, but he could get no positive admission from him that they were his letters. Gillette kept saying that he did not remember writing this letter and that letter to "her."

"You mean, Gillette, don't you, to Miss Grace Brown, when you say 'her?' "

"Yes, to Grace Brown."

"No, Gillette, to Miss Grace Brown," and the defendant was compelled to adopt the use of "Billy's" name. He admitted that he had never gone around calling Miss Benedict or any of the other girls by their first names.

"When Grace Brown was away at her home at South Otselic in the fall of 1905," insisted Ward, "you wrote to her; 'Although I do not want you to think you ought to take two weeks; why did you want her to take two weeks?"

"Well, she wasn't feeling well, but I can't remember what I wrote."

"You were making love to her then, weren't you?"

"I would not be positive."

"Did you want her away from you then?"

"I don't remember."

"Do you remember writing 'Dear, how I miss you?' Did you miss 'Billy' Brown then?"

"I can't say positively."

Ward then made Gillette admit how he had deserted "Billy" Brown on last Decoration Day and Fourth of July and gone to places of amusement with other girls. Changing his attack he leaned over the witness and growled at him: "Had you ever gotten the best of the poor little girl before Oct. 19, 1905?"

Gillette's lawyers were on their feet instantly. They asserted that the question was indecent and improper and the Court sustained them in their contention until Ward finally framed this interrogation:

"Gillette, had you ever been intimate with that girl up to that time?"

"I could not be positive."

"When did these relations first commence?"

"In Cortland, at her sister's house."

"Did not she say no to you many times?"

"Yes."

"And how many times did she say no to you?"

"Many times."

"On Oct. 17, 1905, did not you write to her that if she was coming to Cortland Thursday or Friday night to telephone to you? Didn't you want to go and see her?"

"Yes."

"Before you succeeded in overcoming 'Billy' Brown, did she struggle and resist you?"

"No. Do you mean at any time?"

"Yes, I mean at any time," shouted Ward.

"Yes, there was one time."

The District Attorney now brought forth the pathetic letters of "Billy" Brown, in which she pleaded with Gillette not to forsake her and to remember how much she loved him. Gillette said that he would not swear positively that he had received them.

"I don't remember," was all that could be gotten out of him.

"Didn't she write, Gillette: 'I don't know what you know, but I shall go back to Cortland and never go away like this again?"

"Yes, I think she wrote that."

"Did you ever have any other communication with 'Billy' Brown besides these letters?"

"Yes, by telephone on the Tuesday before I left Cortland."

"And didn't she tell you over the telephone that unless you went to her she would return to Cortland and tell the whole world all the facts?"

"No, sir."

"You didn't care who knew it, did you?"

"I knew she would not tell it."

"Well, did you want anybody told about it?"

"Yes, I wanted her father told."

"You wanted him told badly, didn't you?"

"No."

"Did you ever take steps to acquaint 'Billy' Brown's father with her condition?"

"I thought about it."

"Did you think it was your duty to go over there and tell her father of her condition and marry her?"

"Yes."

"But all the while you thought that the other girls in Cortland like Hattie Benedict and the others were better to go with than 'Billy' Brown; that they were in society and offered a better position and influence than she?"

"No, sir."

He Couldn't Remember.

Gillette could not remember having been asked by "Billy" to go to her home at South Otselic the night of July 3 so as to spend the Fourth with her. He couldn't remember, either, that he had been at Grace Hill's house that night and that was why he could not answer "Billy's" request.

The defendant declared that there had never been any talk of marriage between him and "Billy" Brown, and that in none of her letters did he understand that she expected to be married to him. He said he did not know that she had marriage in her mind when she told him about asking her mother for the bed quilts, and how her little sister had said "Billy" and one other would need as much as six quilts to cover them. That meant nothing to Gillette and he was sure he had never asked her to explain the meaning of any of these remarks.

"Didn't you tell the officer that you had gone out with 'Billy' Brown to be married to her, when he was bringing you back here under arrest?"

"I can't answer that."

"Did you intend to marry her?"

"I did."

"Did you intend to marry her when you told the Patrick and Westcott girls on the train that you would call at their camp the following Friday? What did you think was going to become of 'Billy' Brown while you were visiting them?"

"O. I was only fooling them."

"When did the idea first enter your mind of keeping that date?"

"O, I guess when I went to see them."

"And why have you testified that you didn't know that you were going to be at Eagle Bay and you did not know where you were going to be on the night of July 11?"

"Well, I didn't know. All I wanted to do was to get away from the lake."

"Why, Gillette, you knew you were going to be there. Didn't you write a postal to the factory at Cortland to send you $5 at Eagle Bay?"

Gillette's answer was a nod of the head.

"Do you remember this letter of April 11, when 'Billy' wrote to you: 'I hope you are satisfied and having a good time, now that you have succeeded in having me leave Cortland?' "

"No, I don't remember that."

Nor could Gillette be made to remember why it was that "Billy" Brown never went with him to public entertainments except that she had "always refused." He remembered, however, that on the Saturday night before she left Cortland for the last time she had cried, and it was possible for him to remember that she wrote for him to come to her "before papa and mamma find it out for themselves."

"You know what that meant' don't you?"

"Yes."

"But you wanted papa and mamma to find it out, didn't you?"

"Yes, I thought the father ought to have known."

Gillette, with all the "brass" at his command, told how he had written to "Billy" and how the letters must have been lost in the mail; that was why she didn't get them

His excuse for having gone away from De Ruyter with her separately was that "Billy" did not wish her cousin there to see them together.

"So, up to the time you went to De Ruyter that day, you had never spoken to this girl about marriage, and yet you were going to marry her?"

"Yes."

"You loved her, and was sorry for her and pitied her, didn't you, and you wanted to go to her and help her?"

"Yes."

"And do you remember this: 'I shall certainly die, dear, if you don't come. I am nearly crazy now. I am going away for a long time and may not come home until sent home dead. You promised me that, dear.' Did you ever promise 'Billy' Brown that you'd send her home dead?"

"I never did."

"The night you said goodby to her in Cortland and she cried so hard, didn't you tell her if she bothered you, you would kill her?"

"No; I didn't."

"Did you ever inquire of her what she meant by saying, 'You promised me that, dear'? and while you loved her as you say you did, why didn't you go to her on the night of July 3? She told you she was going to be alone and that she wanted you?"

"I don't know."

As the words came from Gillette, a sneer went over the courtroom. The crowd was angry. It was cut by Gillette as it had been when the cross-examination began and Ward had shown Gillette a portrait of "Billy" Brown.

"Yes, that's a pretty good picture of her," he had said with pursed lips and raised brow.

Here the day ended, and as Gillette brushed by Ward to go to his seat the District Attorney turned to a friend in the courtroom and said:

"That fellow has a horse's nerve."

PHYSICIAN BELIEVES SHE WAS NOT DROWNED

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—Dr. Eugene H. Eising of this city, who has been called to testify in the Gillette case at Herkimer, is said to have been the first physician to examine Grace Brown's body after it was found.

In an interview today he declared he had not made a full examination of the body, but had confined his observations entirely to the head, where he noticed an abrasion on the forehead over the left eye.

"Could the wound have been caused by the body falling on rocks in the water?"

"No, I think not," said Dr. Eising. "The indications were that the wound was received before the body entered the water. It had evidently been caused by a blunt instrument of some sort."

"Do you think drowning contributed in any way to Grace Brown's death?"

"It would be difficult to say, as my examination included only the head. My impression is, however, that it did not."

HEALTH AND LONG LIFE.

Scientists and students of conditions which make for health and long life are deeply interested in the longevity records of Bulgaria, Roumania and Servia, where the hygienic standards of living, from a scientific standpoint, are low.

Bulgaria has 3800 centenarians, about one to every thousand of population. Roumania has 1084 and Servia 573. In contrast with these figures, France has 213, England 146, Germany 78 and Scotland only 46. The ratio of centenarians to population in the United States, according to the census of 1900, is only about one-half that of Bulgaria, or 3500 in a population of 76,000,000.

Facts like these make one question the value of so-called material progress as a factor in the promotion of health and long life, which are justly regarded as perhaps the most desirable things in the world. Health and long life are regarded as the greatest of blessings. The wish for them is the first wish of friends for each other the world over.

Why should the Bulgarians, the Roumanians and the Servians, who have little wealth and who cannot compare in material progress, in the possession and enjoyment of those things which modern science and invention have supplied to man, live longer than the people of more highly civilized countries, such as France, England, Germany and the United States? They cannot compare in point of scientific attainments, which we suppose make for health and long life, such as knowledge of hygiene, sanitary appliances, health regulations, architectural devices, etc., with us or with the people of Germany or France.

But is there any ground for wonder? Does not the very fact that the Bulgarians are not as advanced in the study of these matters relating to the preservation of health suggest the reason for their better health and long life? They don't have to study how to keep well.

The luxuries which we enjoy and many of the conditions which we regard as the evidences of high material progress and civilization are inimical to health. They mean not the simple life of nature which our fathers lived, but an artificial life, which is imposed upon us by new conditions. The advance in hygienic and medical science and in sanitary appliances has been forced on us on account of the unnatural lives we lead. Our so-called high civilization has been progress backward so far as it affects health and long life. We are finding this out, and are trying to recover some of our lost ground by rules for exercise, dieting, improved ventilation and other artificial means of sustaining strength and promoting health.

A simple, outdoor life, with plenty of fresh air and a plain, wholesome diet, are the essential things for health, strength and long life. Fresh air is absolutely necessary—more necessary than anything else.

The power plant of the human system is in the lungs.

We study diet as a means of keeping in health, but man can live for a long time without any food or on very poor food; he cannot live for an hour without air, and rapidly deteriorates if he must breathe impure air. The combustion which destroys the impurities thrown off by the blood and which supplies the elements necessary to sustain life takes place in the lungs. There must be continually, every minute of life, an abundant supply of fresh air drawn into the lungs.

We are just beginning to realize the value of pure air and the great loss we have sustained through the increasing luxuries and artificial environment of our highly developed material civilization. We are trying to hark back to nature. Instead of coddling and guarding consumptives, who are supposed to have extremely delicate lungs, as we formerly did, we harden them by making them live outdoors in the coldest weather. We impose upon them the necessity of living always in the open air. What is good for consumptives and sick people is good for healthy people. An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure.

The Bulgarians don't need sanitary houses, a scientifically ordered diet and exercises, an artificially produced ventilation; they don't need high-priced doctors at their elbows to advise them how to keep well, because they live out of doors; they live perforce the simple life.

If you want to enjoy health and long life, don't indulge in more luxuries. Don't put your trust in artificially contrived appliances for preserving the health, but get back as far as possible to the simple life—well-ventilated houses and outdoor exercise. Eat plain, wholesome food and you will help to bring up the average in those countries that are suffering from fatty degeneration on account of over-civilization of the material kind. No one can be over-civilized morally and spiritually.

That the automobile is about to take to itself wings and soar through the sky seems to be proved by the latest developments in aeronautics, pictured and described in the coming Sunday Post-Dispatch Magazine. Huge, grotesque, chimerical are the shapes of some of the newest forms of air autos, as they may be called. Santos-Dumont's No. 14 has automobile wheels and a perfect tangle of machinery, while the creation of Messrs Deutsche and Zeppelling bring to mind the line in one of the Latin poems: "A horrid monster, formless, vast, which shuts out the light." We may, as Santos-Dumont says, go to the seaside or elsewhere in a year from now in our own aeroplanes, but what of those down below? The problem of man-flight seems to be solved, but the question of safety for those left on terra firma will also have to be settled. The page of newest airships is a page of nightmares for the man who has the gift of imagination.

RESPONSIBILITY FOR AUTOMOBILISTS

The decision of the Court of Appeals (by Judge Bland) that chauffeurs must exercise the same care in operating automobiles as motormen in running street cars is no more than a reaffirmation of the law as it always has been.

The rule of the road governs pedestrians, horsemen, drivers, motormen and chauffeurs alike. The law exempts no class from its provisions, nor does it grant any privilege on account of the novelty, bigness or speed of a vehicle.

Judge Bland observes that while an automobile has equal right with other vehicles, "it is a sort of menace to the traveling public" and therefore "the chauffeur must exercise care commensurate with the risks."

This point is commended to chauffeurs and owners of automobiles. They have equal rights with other users of the highways, but because their vehicle is of such sort that it is a special menace they must exercise special care. This is sound sense as well as sound law, but too many chauffeurs and owners have taken just the opposite view, if we can collect their notions from the many frenzied pranks they play. Because they have a machine able to be run 60 miles an hour, they think they may and must run it at that speed.

It is a boyish notion which they must get rid of. Humanity, good sense and the law, all say the same thing. And people who own or operate automobiles must take due notice and govern themselves accordingly.

THE COST OF CARELESSNESS.

Capt. R. C. Oldenburg of the Salvation Army shows in a crisis the spirit the Salvation Army attempts to spread generally. He does not excuse himself or blame anyone else when the inevitable happens to the "barracks" where the benevolency of the "army" had provided a refuge for those who had no other sleeping place in the city.

Now that the inevitable has happened, the reason for it is plain without asking questions. It "happened," as it always does, because it was not prevented from happening. Somebody forgot and no one else thought of the one thing which would have prevented the loss of life. The fire escapes which ought to have been provided around the building were not there, and in the panic, few could think of using the rope "escapes" which were at best an insufficient substitute for the permanent fire escapes with which care and forethought would have provided the walls of the building against the emergency.

As part of its general plan, the Salvation Army is working hard against one of the greatest dangers of modern city life. Every new means of improvement which adds to comfort and usefulness becomes a new danger unless old habits of carelessness are improved into the habit of mind and action which stops danger before the crisis.

Carelessness is costing more, in money at least, than crime in every city of this country. It is also costing far more in the sacrifice of life. It is naturally a capital offense punishable with death. We blame no one for sitting in a draft or for going out of a warm room into cold air with the chest and throat exposed, but nature may punish this slight carelessness with pneumonia, consumption and death. We blame only a few out of the many people who, in handling steam and electricity, add yearly to the rolls of the dead and wounded from "accidents" whose totals now are as heavy as those of battle. But when these things "happen," we can all know why they happen. They were not prevented. Carelessness never can prevent them.

CONDUCTOR HEYWOOD.

Whether or not a pension be granted Conductor Heywood for his service to the railroad company and the traveling public in capturing the train robber Monday morning, it will be generally admitted that he deserves more than ordinary consideration and a substantial recognition of some sort.

Mr. Heywood did what no man in his position has ever done. Train robbers have infested the railroads for decades, but never before has a conductor risked his life to protect the lives and property of his passengers. Mr. Heywood rose to the highest conception of duty and did it so effectively that his example must assuredly inspire others to do likewise.

Personal courage is not an uncommon virtue. But Mr. Heywood united with it a cool intelligence and ready wit that made it of great public value. It is hoped that he will be so rewarded and honored that the memory of his exploit will continue in the minds of other men as a perpetual reminder of what a man can do when a great and unexpected responsibility is put upon him.

Chicago's Advice.

From the Chicago News.

St. Louis interests are meeting with serious opposition in their atetmpt to put through the Council of that city an ordinance authorizing an elevated railroad.

The experience of Chicago with such roads is cited by each side to the controversy in support of its position. One element points out the benefits to Chicago from the elevated roads, and the other repeats the criticisms of those structures with which Chicagoans are familiar.

Of course, the elevated roads have been of great value to Chicago in the transportation facilities which they have afforded. If there were no other way of providing the transportation which St. Louis needs, the elevated roads would be inevitable. But they are a great nuisance, and if the service can be furnished in any other way elevated roads should not be tolerated by the Missouri city.

It would seem foolish for St. Louis to begin building elevated structures in its thoroughfares when subways would answer its purposes much better. The subways are more expensive, but if the passenger traffic of the city exceeds the capacity of the street cars it should warrant the construction of subways. The latter must come anyway, for elevated roads cannot permanently solve the transportation problem.

From the Chicago Chronicle.

We note one thing in connection with the proceedings in the St. Louis Council chamber which is of local interest. One of the speakers said that Chicago was disposing of her elevated roads, which is not correct; but he asserted that elevated roads are out of date, which is correct.

If the experience of London and New York and Chicago teaches any lesson to other cities it is that the subway is the hope of giant municipalities suffering from congestion in their business districts. The elevated road is merely a traffic palliative and is a nuisance in respect to noise and obstruction of light and air.

If the people of St. Louis are wise they will follow the example of Pittsburg, which is not going to bother with elevated roads, but will install the subway once for all.

A NEGRO UPON NEGRO EDUCATION

By Emory James Cain, President Missouri Industrial Institute.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

The real history of the negro race in this country begins with the negro boys and girls of today. Their lack in general of civilized ancestry, the difficulties that confront most of them in dealing with education in the abstract, their unfavorable home surroundings and the terrible struggle for existence that awaits them, all point to industrial education as the one pressing need. Visit any negro schoolroom where all the time is taken up with book study, and you will see the children make a pathetic effort to be their ancestors and themselves at the same time. The teachers must often waste a third of the time allotted to a recitation adjusting conditions that should have long since been crystallized into habits.

This lack of mechanical background is always present in the efforts of the average negro child. You must continually tell the negro boy to tip his hat, to be polite to girls, to walk across the floor softly, to sit erect, to stand straight. You must always have an endless chain of do's and don'ts. When the children sing or recite very few keep control of their bodies. This is a weakness the negro child must overcome before its book work will be up to the standard, and book study alone cannot cure it. It requires the compulsion that comes with industrial education.

It must be kept in mind that negro children have plenty of ideas, but they lack in large measures self control, concentration and application. The remedy lies in compelling them to work out their ideas with their hands until they get the concrete foundation necessary to purely abstract work. It is a well-known fact that in the course of evolution the mental and spiritual gradually master the physical. To the average negro child evolution has not brought this boon. As a result, many bright negro boys and girls suddenly become comparatively dull.

It is held by some that this mental and spiritual falling off is due to the way the pieces of the negroes' skull are put together. I think this is a mere fancy. The fact is, evolution has not had time to do its work. The surest remedy is industrial education. The mental and spiritual are focused upon the physical, and the uplift begins. Industrial education will right the negro's mental and spiritual wrongs, and will consequently settle the question of character. I hope it will be understood that I do not use the word spiritual in the religious sense, but in the sense of cultivated will power and high ideals. Industrial education is higher education through the concrete. Mind cannot play upon matter without having its abstract seasons any more than a man can so feed his body that one side will grow fat while the other remains poor.

The negro must be a servant of servants until he gets a foothold, and this can come only through industrial education. The negro that opposes industrial education and the masterly leadership of Booker T. Washington along this line is simply training his thumbs and fingers to pinch his own nose. The best advice to the negro is to build up industrial institutions. Place your boys and girls in it, and compel them to take the training. Get a move on you and help to establish industrial schools. If the negro will save his earnings and try to help himself, the white man stands ready to come to his rescue.

THE NEWLY MADE ISLANDS OF BERING SEA

From Popular Science Monthly for December.

IN the southern portion of Bering Sea, about thirty-seven nautical miles northwest from the Island of Unalaska, lies a group of small volcanic islets known as Bogoslof, in Russian, Joanna Bogoslova, St. John, the Theologian. There are now three of these, all of which have risen from the sea, hot and steaming, within historic times. An especial interest attaches to them just now from the fact that the third and largest of the group appeared at about the time of the great earthquake of April 18, 1906. The possibility of a connection between the disturbances at Bogoslof and those which caused the California earthquake is heightened by the fact that the great earthquake rift, which extends through the Coast Range of California for a distance of 200 miles, follows a direction, which, if produced northward to Bering Sea, would pass near the Island of Bogoslof. Again this earthquake rift was largest, and its effects more violent, where it entered the sea in Mendocino County than at any other point throughout its course, the extent of the lateral movement along the crack increasing from about two feet in Monterey County to about 16½ feet at Point Arena, where it finally enters the sea. In opposition to this view may be placed the improbability that an earthquake rift or fault would extend so far as from the center of California to Bering Sea, a distance of more than 2000 miles, and through such great depths of water as intervene between Point Arena and Bogoslof.

SENTENCE SERMONS FOR BUSY READERS

THIS always is a dirty world to people who seek nothing but dust.

If you want to find a happy Christian look for a whole-hearted one.

The church finds her beauty when she is a chisel instead of a statue.

It's not the engine with loudest exhaust that is hauling the longest train.

The finest prospects in life are found at the summit of disagreeable duties.

If you would hear the joy of heaven you must go into the saddest places of earth.

Many a man thinks he is religious because he has a peculiar pleasure in regulating other folk.

It's not the profanity we utter so much as that we cause for which we should be punished.

The man who is conscious of unusual holiness is apt to be careless as to everyday honesty.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

As to a Monument.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

There should be no Confederate monument in Forest Park. The great Confederate struggle against enormous odds and the loyalty of the Confederate soldiers after the war are a sufficient monument. History will take care of the brave Confederates.

CONFEDERATE SYMPATHIZER.

Hints for "Lonely."

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

The other evening, in the valuable "Letters From the People" column of your admirable paper, a communication signed "Lonely" asked that some one offer a suggestion as to "how a young lady can, in a proper way, meet some young gentlemen who are men," not "those boys who wear balloon trousers * * * and smoke cigarettes."

One way is to begin by attending Sunday morning service at some nice-looking church. Go a little early, pleasantly insist on the usher showing you to a back seat. Observe the young men who come in. Notice whether a reasonable proportion of them seem of the style you like. Repeat this at several churches. Having noted the church where you saw the most young men of the kind you like, make a business of attending that church and its Sunday school regularity. Always, when a service is over go out very slowly to give the ladies of the church a chance to speak to you. Get acquainted with the ladies. Pay no attention whatever to the men, unless possibly one of the elderly men of the church should greet you. Show yourself very sociable to the ladies. They'll probably invite you to some of their meetings; if so, make a business of going. So you will become acquainted with the best men and women.

From first to last confide your purpose to absolutely no one but yourself. You can make a mess of the whole thing by one little bit of unwomanly indiscretion on the part of those eyes of yours, in connection with some man you may see at church. Men are worse gossips than women in such things. But they rarely se what is not to be seen.

COUSIN JOHN.

A Telephone Girl's Word.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I notice how loyally you stand up for the working girls of St. Louis, the shop girls, factory girls, servants, etc., but never a word for the poor telephone operators. I believe people have a mistaken idea that their path is strewn with roses. But the worst part of it is this: The majority of men seem to take us for vain, frivolous creatures, just because we happen to be so-called "Hello Girls." Or am I mistaken in my ideas and have just happened to meet these "infants" who call themselves men? I am no old maid; just a young girl who loves to have a good time, but I, like the young lady in Saturday's Post-Dispatch, would like to meet more gentlemen who are men.

A TELEPHONE OPERATOR.

Lack of Consideration.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

If a mistress, when she sees she has a good girl, would favor her a little and not have something else for her to do when she sees the girl sit down for a rest, if the work was arranged properly so that the girl would have some time to herself each afternoon when she finished, she would feel as though held with some respect. Housekeepers often look only at what you do—whether you are tired or not, they fail to see that this very thing is where the trouble lies and they wonder why they can't keep help.

ONE WHO KNOWS.

Who Beat the Democrats?

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

What beat the Democrats in St. Louis was Folk and his lid law. Take the six South St. Louis wards, for instance—the Seventh, Eighth, Ninth, Tenth, Eleventh and Twelfth wards—where there is a large German vote, the Republicans carried every one with a majority of from 500 to 1200 votes. The Democrats have no show of carrying St. Louis as long as we have Holy Joe as Governor and Mulvihill as Excise Commissioner.

But to come right down to the facts, it is only a matter of time—two years—when Folk and his gang of law enforcers will be turned out in the cold, for they are doing everything in their power to turn this State over to the Republicans and they are succeeding admirably. Folk is against the brewery and saloon element and they are against him, and they have a large following in St. Louis. Where does he expect the Democrats to poll any vote? Not, certainly, from the Anti-Saloon League booster, Dr. Lindsay, and his gang of Carrie Nations.

THE UPSTART

He Contrives to Win Permission to Go Over to Joe's.

Written for the Post-Dispatch

By Clair W. Hayes.

GEE, but I'll allus remember las' night, alright, it bein' impressed that hard on my memory an' pocket book. When I does down ter supper, it bein' a little late, an' Pa, Ma an' Gram havin' already set down, an' Jennie leanin' up close ter th' door so as ter hear what wuz goin' on, as she allus does, I hears Pa say:

"Fust time in my life I ever forgets anythin' you tells me ter bring you, an' here you is actin' as ef I does it on purpose an' asayin' that I allus does, which I don't, an' you knows it," an' Pa makes a vicious jab at th' steak, lookin' as ef he thinks it wuz th' conductor as beats him out of a nickel night afore las'—an' spillin' half th' gravy on th' table cloth, thereby provokin' a noise from Gram which sounds as though she has seen a snake er caught a spider crawlin' down her back; all Ma sayin' bein', "John!"

Fer a minit Pa don't say nuthin' an' I knows by that as it wuz comin'. All of a sudden he breaks out:

"Say," says he in th' way he says he talks ter th' boss sometimes, which I misdoubts, "Say, can't you let a feller erlone? I ain't et my supper in peace fer a year, 'count of your jawin'. An' now you starts this commotion 'cause I fergets ter bring you a pair of corset strings. Why don't you go an' get your own corset strings an' not have me doin' it? Then you won't ferget 'em. An' anyhow a man ain't got no business in one o' them big stores 'mong a lot o' women. Say, what d'ye think I am, anyway?" An' Pa stops short fer want of breath an' 'cause he sees Ma has started ter cry.

Well, knowin' how it makes me feel ter try an' console anybody after I has hurt their feelin's, specially when I has ter take back all I has said, an' knowin' as Pa feels th' same way, I thinks it's up ter me ter say sumthin'.

"I wants ter go over an' see Joe ternight. Can I go?" says I.

"No," says Pa an' Ma both in one breath, showin' that they wuz glad ter get at somebody what didn't have no feelin's, an' Pa adds, "You've been out every night this week an' you got ter stay in ternight."

"Yes," says Ma, it bein' easily seen that she wuz feelin' some better. "You've been runnin' out too much lately."

"Say," says I again, "I got a hundred in a 'xamination terday. It wuz 'rithmetic, too."

"Ah," says Pa real satisfied like, he havin' been givin' me some lessons at home, "You see, Mary, I knows the boy wuz bright 'nuff an' could get his lessons perfect ef he tries. Er at least with a little help."

"So you did, John," says Ma, smilin'. "An' anyhow I has allus said that he takes after you."

"Say," says I ter Pa a few minutes later, Ma havin' gone up stairs. "Don't I get nuthin' fer stoppin' th' row?" Fust Pa starts ter get mad, sayin' there wuz no row, but then he laughs an' puts his han' in his pocket an' pulls out a dollar. Then I goes up stairs an' finds Ma.

"Don't I get nuthin' fer makin' Pa keep still?" says I.

"Th' idea," says Ma, but I gets th' dollar.

By this I knows as th' trouble is over fer th' night an' me no longer needed. But I can't help thinkin' of what might o' happened ef I hadn't acted Roosevelt an' brung erbout peace.

TORTURE

From the New Orleans Times-Democrat.

HOW sadly an olive he nibbles
While others are feasting on cates,
Confined to a few paltry dribbles
In sight of the ravishing plates.
What matters to him what the savor
That comes when are lifted the lids?
He's worse than a slave in a slaver—
The doctor forbids!

He catches the subtle aroma
Of a brace of Havana cigars,
And yearns to be sunk in a coma
Where desire of a smoke never mars.
And still they keep smoking, the wastrels,
And he, as the Texans for quids,
Doth pine for the smoke in his nostrils—
The doctor forbids!

He drifts where the brilliant decanters
Are ranged in a row upon shelves,
And sundry inebriate ranters
In the glass are surveying themselves.
It's whisky most certainly which he Desires, as among them he thrids,
But sadly he asks 'em for vichy—
The doctor forbids!

O, painful and palpable martyr,
So very reluctantly good,
Constrained by the medical art or
Your fears to do just as you should.
What value the things of the body
To adults and also to kids
Do take when a dish or a toddy
The doctor forbids!

Joseph Choate, the famous lawyer, related at a dinner party at Lenox some interesting reminiscences of the bar and bench.

"A striking case," said Mr. Choate, "transpired in the '60s. It was a case of a workman who claimed to have lost the sight of his left eye in an explosion.

"There was no doubt about the explosion and there was no doubt that the workman's eye had been injured, but the physicians claimed that he could see out of it, while he stoutly declared that the sight was utterly destroyed.

"The Judge heard all the evidence, pro and con. Then, sending the workman from the courtroom, he said:

" 'Get a blackboard and write a sentence on it with green chalk. Also get a pair of spectacles with ordinary clear glass for the left eye and with red glass for the right.'

"This, in the course of an hour or so, was done. Then the workman was brought back, and he was ordered to put the queer glasses on.

"He put them on, and the Judge said to him:

" 'Turn the blackboard round and see if you can read what is written:

"The man read the sentence without hesitation, whereupon the Judge said to him, sternly:

" 'Your case is dismissed. You are an impostor. You must have read that sentence with your left eye, for the red glass over the right one turned the green writing black and made it quite invisible on the blackboard.' "—Indianapolis Star.

A Tribute to Dry Codfish.

She wrote to her daddy in Portland, Me., from out in Denver, Col.
And she wrote, alas, despondent, that life had begun to pall.
And this was a woful, woful case, for she was a six months' bride,
Who was won and wed in the State of Maine, by the side of the bounding tide.
And ah, alack, she was writing back that she longed for Portland, Maine,
Till, oh! her feelings had been that wrenched she could hardly stand the strain;
Though her hubby dear was still sincere, she sighed the livelong day
For a good old sniff of the sewers and salt from the breast of Casco Bay.
And she wrote, she sighed, and she said she cried, and her appetite fell off,
And she'd grown as thin as a belaying pin, with a terrible hacking cough;
And she sort of hinted that pretty soon she'd start on a reckless scoot,
And hook for her home in Portland, Maine, by the very shortest route.
But her daddy dear was a man of sense, and he handles fish wholesale,
And he sat and fanned himself awhile with a big broad codfish tail;
And he recollected the way he felt when he dwelt in the World's Fair whirl;
He slapped his head, "By hake!" he said, "I know what ails the girl."
And he went to a 10-cord pile of cod and he pulled the biggest out,
A jibshaped cutter 's broad 's a sail—three feet from tail to snout—
And he pasted a sheet of postage stamps from snout clear down to tail,
Put on a quick delivery stamp and sent the cod by mail.
She smelt it a-coming, two blocks off, on the top of the postman's pack;
She rushed to meet him and scared him blind by climbing the postman's back.
But she got the fish, bit out a hunk, ate postage stamps and all,

LOVE AFFAIRS OF GREAT MEN

Written for the Post-Dispatch by

By Nixola Greeley-Smith.

NAPOLEON, Greater Soldier Than Lover.

NAPOLEON BONAPARTE, the world's greatest soldier, was by no means its greatest lover. His life romance, like that of Washington, Jefferson, Jackson and many other famous men, circled about a widow, which may have made him more comfortable, though it withdraws him from the primrose realm of the youngest anr most exalted loves.

Josephine Tascher de la Pagerie, a Creole of Martinique, had married the Vicomete de Beauharnais at the age of 16. She lived with him intermittently and most unhappily till the Reign of Terror, when the Vicomete was imprisoned as a Royalist and later guillotined.

He left his wife the penniless mother of two children—Hortense, who later married Napoleon's brother Louis, King of Holland, and Eugene, who became Viceroy of Italy.

The most romantic version of the meeting of Napoleon and Josephine attributes it to a visit paid by the Creole widow to Napoleon in 1795 to thank the General for restoring to Eugene de Beauharnais his father's sword.

The young widow, tall, slended and graceful, though not regularly beautiful, was the first woman of the Parisian world to flatter the crude young Corsican with conspicuous attention, and Napoleon fell madly in love with her. A fortnight after their first meeting they were declared lovers; and on March 8, 1796, they were married.

> "Man of Destiny" Married His First Love.

The historical realist insists that a love affair between Josephine and the Director, Barris, of which the latter had grown weary, was largely responsible for her marriage, and that Napoleon's appointment as commander of the army, of Italy was Barras' wedding gift to the bride.

Barras' own memoirs reveal as much. But whatever the subsidiary motives of the marriage may have been there is no doubt that Napoleon's love for Josephine was the strongest affection of his life.

Two days after the wedring he left for Nice to begin the remarkable campaign that wrested Italy from the Austrians.

In the stress of reorganizing a demoralized and ragged army and while planning and executing some of the most brilliant battles of his career the young General found time to write every day to his wife.

"I entreat you to permit me to see some of your faults. Be less beautiful, less gracious, less affectionate, less good. Especially be not over-anxious, and never weep. Your tears rob me of reason and inflame my blood," he wrote.

In another letter he even sent a kiss to her lapdog. "A thousand kisses, and one even to Fortuna, notwithstanding his spitefulness."

Again: "I have lost my snuffbox. Will you select me another, rather flat, and upon the lid have some pretty device with your hair?"

Years brought Napoleon disillusion. They taught him that Josephine was a shallow, extravagant woman, capable of strong affection, but incapable of sustained loyalty. Married to the master of Europe, who with his sword carved thrones for her to sit upon, she intrigued with lesser men. Napoleon knew it, yet he forgave her—even continued to love her.

Though he ultimately sacrificed her and secured a divorce from her in order to gratify his supreme ambition to have a child, he retained the tenderest feelings for her to the end of his life.

Through many years of married life the tone of his letters to her showed the same tender playfulness, the same solicitude that marked the correspondence of the honeymoon period.

In 1805, after nine years of marriage and at the height of his fame and power, he wrote her from Munich:

"Grand Empress! not one letter from you since your departure from Strasbourg! You have gone to Baden, to Stuttgard, to Munich without writing us one word. Deign from the height of your grandeurs to occupy yourself a little with your slave, Napoleon."

> Ardent Love-Letters to a Fickle Wife.

The divorce of Josephine was the greatest wrong of Napoleon's life. He sacrificed her to his desire to have a child. His grief at parting from her was sincere.

Baron Meneval, the Emperor's private secretary, who witnessed the farewell, wrote: "Josephine eagerly arose and threw herself, sobbing, upon the neck of the Emperor. He pressed her to his bosom with the most ardent embraces. In the excess of her emotion she fainted."

After the divorce and Napoleon's second marriage to the Archduchess Marie Louise of Austria, which gave him the coveted heir, the Emperor continued to write to her. From the moment of their separation Josephine saw Napoleon's star decline.

After his fall, when his fat Austrian wife had gone back to Vienna, Josephine wrote offering to share his exile at Elba. A few days after despatching the letter she was taken suddenly ill, and died in the arms of her children, holding a miniature of Napoleon in her hand. Her last words are said to have been: "Island of Elba! Napoleon!" She was spared the crowning sorrow of Waterloo.

Napoleon and Josephine loved each other as we love today, without idealism. They sinned for and against each other, and loved on. That Napoleon sacrificed her was the last proof of his love, as men understand it. As the least of men wrote of it:

"For each man kills the thing he loves,
By each let this be heard.
Some do it with a bitter look,
Some with a flattering word.
The coward does it with a kiss,
The brave man with a sword."

In his domestic relations the greatest soldier the world has ever known was not a brave man. Who is?

The Literal Chinaman.

I had often heard of the literal quality of the Chinese mind and had a personally delivered sample of it one morning, says a writer in The Travel Magazine. I went into a jeweler's shop to buy a souvenir spoon. The selection made, I wrote upon a piece of paper the inscription "Hong Kong, 1906," to have the same engrayed on the bowl. As I started to leave the store the Chinaman calld me back and asked for a deposit. I gave him seventy-five cents and made a note of the fact on the paper on which I had written the intended inscription. When I called for my spoon the next day it was inscribed in the bowl:

"Hong Kong,
1906,
Paid 75 Cents."

Women's Suffrage in New Zealand.

Women vote in New Zealand. Not nominally, nor only for school trustees, nor semi-occasionally, with fear and trembling lest it be known, but regularly and openly and as a matter of course. They have a free and unlimited womanhood suffrage; they can vote on every question and for any candidate at any election, equally with men. For ten years they have had and exercised that right, and so far as a merely human investigator can discover, they have not wrought any ruin, lost any womanhood, nor called down any vengeful wrath from heaven.—Charles Edward Russell in Everybody's.

New Feature in Paternal Government.

"I think the Public Trustee ranks high among the innovations of New Zealand reform," says Charles Edward Russell in "Soldiers of the Common Good," in the Christmas Everybody's. "His chief function is to take charge of bequests and estates, and to administer them for beneficiaries and heirs. Thus a man may in his will leave his property, or any part of it, in charge of the Public Trustee, who will, without charge, invest the money, take care of the property, and collect and pay over the income, while for both principal and interest the State is responsible.

"In other words, there is to be in New Zealand no looting of estates through incompetent or dishonest trustees, no inheritances wasted by bad investments; but every man can feel that when he dies, his accumulations, great or small, will be perfectly secured for his family."

An Invitation to the Kaiser.

From the New York Staats-Zeitung.

All possibility of friction would surely disappear if the German Emperor could see his way clear to paying a visit to the United States. If an opportunity were afforded to the American people to become acquainted with the Emperor at close range and to convince themselves of his excellent intentions and the utter sincerity of his efforts the last cloud would fade from the horizon. Such a visit would be a most fitting capstone to crown the monument of friendship reared by the harmonious relations of President Roosevelt and Emperor William and by the joint efforts and success of their ambassadors in Washington and Berlin.

Brown Your Hair

Stain Your Gray, Bleached or Faded Hair So No One Can Tell It, With Mrs. Potter's Walnut-Juice Hair Stain. Send Today for a Trial Package.

"You'd never think I stained my hair, after I use Mrs. Potter's Hair Stain. The Stain doesn't hurt the hair as dyes do, but makes it grow out fluffy."

Stain your hair a rich golden brown to almost black, so it will defy detection, be uniform in color, from tip to root, and natural in appearance. It takes you a few minutes once a month to apply Mrs. Potter's Walnut-Juice Hair Stain with your comb. Stains only the hair, doesn't rub off, contains no poisonous dyes, sulphur, lead or copper, which make the hair look "dead" and fall out. It is a vegetable preparation, has no odor, no sediment, no grease. Also a tonic for the hair. The only remedy for hair ruined by bleaching. One bottle should last you a year. Price $1.00 per bottle. "Well, sir?" said the great lawyer.

The visitor spoke tremulously.

"I am a defaulter," he said, "and I want you to defend me."

The other shook him by the hand. "Certainly I will defend you, my friend," he murmured, kindly. "And how many hundred thousand did you say"——

"Hundred thousand?" the client interrupted. "Oh, sir, don't think me worse than I am. It is only $490 in all, and I expect to pay back every cent before I die."

"George," he said to the office boy, "show this dishonest rascal out."

Office Boy: What name, please?

Office Boy: You'll have to call again, sir. The office closes in five minutes, and I shan't have time to pronounce your name before the boss is gone.—Bon Vivant.

A PIRATE STORY

From the Chicago News.

This tale from Hongkong shows the ingenuity and courage of modern Chinese pirates: "Ten men, who appeared to be harmless laborers, boarded the British steam launch Fienam just below Wuchow. They had been on board only a little time when they suddenly produced revolvers, searched and bound the passengers and crew, and took charge of the vessel. Their captain took the rudder and deliberately collided while going at high speed, with a larger Chinese launch, the Chanfook. The robbers were flung to the deck by the force of the collision, but instantly sprang up and leaped on board the Chanfook.

"Again the crew and passengers were carefully searched, robbed and bound. This done, they were thrown headlong on to the captives lying at the bottom of the Fienam. The pirate leader then returned on board the latter, and quickly wrecked the machinery. The Fienam, helpless and with her helpless cargo, was cut adrift. Steaming up in the dark on the Chanfook, with no lights showing, the pirate attacked a commissioner's armed launch, on board of which a guard of eight soldiers was watching over a valuable cargo, but this time they were beaten off.

"In no wise discouraged, the pirates steered off, and next attacked and overpowered the launch Saiyik. When the dawn came the pirates ran the Chanfook on the beach and made off unharmed. Their night's work had brought them nearly $5000."

Little Ethel: This paper says the guests sat down to a sumptuous repast. What's a "sumptuous repast"?

Small Tommy: 'Nough to eat, I guess.

"In this stanza," says the teacher of the juvenile class, "what is meant by the line, 'The shades of night were falling fast'?"

"It means that the people were pulling down the blinds," answered the boy at the pedal extremity.

Little Margie: What's that long thing?

Small Willie: Oh, that's a telescope.

Little Margie: What's it good for?

Take It Home to Yourself
A Norwood Piano

Alone it may be impossible, but join hands with us and it is possible. If you can not make a big payment down, make a small one and follow it up with small monthly payments. In this way you may have for your daughter now the use of a piano. The small payments you will mind little, and in a short time the piano will be yours—yours for all time. Wait, delay, put it off and the time when you may have put into your daughter's head musical knowledge, and into her hands musical skill, will have passed. These are two most valuable acquisitions, which no search-warrent can get at, and which no reverse fortune can take away.

We Want You to See This Piano

This is advertisement number 6 of the series of 10 containing one or more misspelled words which will appear in this paper before December 15. We give $30 (see particulars in announcement in this paper Nov. 16) for return to us of the series with incorrectly spelled words indicated. Number 7 ad. will appear in this paper Dec. 2.

It's in a rich mahogany case; a full-size piano; 7 1-3 octaves, improved scale, splendid tone and action. Our price only $250. A brand new piano, not a second-hand one; it has never been rented, even.

With the piano we give a new stool and a pretty piano scarf, your own selection. More than this, we'll deliver the piano right in your home without cost to you for drayage.

A thoroughly good and dependable piano; we guarantee it absolutly. Come in and see it and try it before you buy. You'll wonder that such a fine piano can be sold for so little money as $250, and on such easy terms of payment.

SPORTSMAN'S PARK, Nov. 29.—Confident to a man that they would win, the St. Louis University football players wen on the field this afternoon in the best of condition for the big battle with Iowa University. The Grand avenue eleven has a host of supporters, who were equally as confident as the players, and perhaps the largest crowd that has seen a Rugby contest in St. Louis since the World's Fair thronged Sportsman's Park early.

When the game began the side lines were masses of cheering humanity, with blue and white streamers in evidence everywhere. Iowa, too, had followers on the field, though they could hardly be so confident as the St. Louis contingent.

St. Louis' wonderful record this season and the fact that the most competent officials were selected brought persons to the game who have not seen a football contest in St. Louis since the World's Fair. Referee Lieut. Hackett of West Point, Umpire Ralph Hamill of Chicago University and Head Linesman McCormack of Dartmouth, came on the field early and mingled with their friends in the crowd.

The closer followers of the game did not attempt to forecast the result of the battle before time was called, but they gave the advantage to St. Louis. With St. Louis' weight advantage and the excellence of its forward pass, they figured the Blue and White had the better chance, but they realized that Iowa was better able than any team heretofore met to stop St. Louis' wonderful gains attained by the forward pass, developed so well by Coach Cochems of St. Louis.

The main reliance was put on the Blue and White back field. Acker, Schneider and Kinney were regarded by St. Louis followers as men well able to put the Iowans to rout and roll up a parallel high score to the figures Iowa hung up last year.

The game began at 2:15 and it was expected it would be concluded in an hour and a half.

CORNELL 0, PENNSY 0, END OF FIRST HALF

Pennsylvania Carries the Ball to Opponents' Ten-Yard Line on End Runs but Loses It on a Fumble—First Attempt at Forward Pass Disastrous.

Score at end of first half: Pennsylvania 0, Cornell 0.

FRANKLIN FIELD, PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 29.—The Cornell and Pennsylvania teams came on the field at 2 o'clock for today's game and were enthusiastically cheered by the spectators. At that time the stands were only a little more than half filled, but the crowd was coming in so fast that the great circle of seats were all occupied shortly after the game began.

The weather was clear, with a stiff, cold northwest wind blowing diagonally across the field. Pennsylvania won the toss and gave Cornell the ball. At 2:08 Walden kicked off and the ball went out of bounds. The second kick off also went out of bounds and under the rules the ball was given to Pennsylvania.

Hollenback kicked off to Walder on Cornell's 10-yard line and he made five yards before being downed by Greene. Pennsylvania got the ball in midfield on a punt and on end plays carried it to Cornell's 10-yard line, where it was lost on a fumble. Cornell punted to midfield and regained possession of the ball on a fumbled forward pass.

Pennsylvania punted from midfield and the ball rolled behind the goal posts, where a Pennsylvania and a Cornell man fell on it. Cornell tried a touchdown, but the referee decided that the Cornell men had called the "down" first.

TWO WOMEN IN FIGHT WITH NEGRO

Husband's Arrival at Hot Springs Home Causes Assailant to Flee.

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., Nov. 29.—Mrs. John Simms, who with Miss Florence McKeehan fought desperately with a negro last night and were saved only by the timely arrival of Mrs. Simms' husband, was able to tell a Post-Dispatch correspondent of her experience this morning, though still weak and nervous. Miss McKeehan is bruised and suffering from the nervous shock.

Simms has offered a reward of $1000 for the capture of the negro and a posse of 20 men is searching for the negro.

Mrs. Simms is at the home of her father in South Hot Springs and Miss McKeehan is at the home of her brother. Mrs. Simms said this morning:

"Miss McKeehan and I were resting in my hall after returning from shopping last night at 6 o'clock, when we heard a noise at the back door. I investigated and found nothing. We then went in my room and I heard the noise again. I looked out and a negro was coming swiftly up the hall. I slammed the door in his face and without uttering a sound tried to hold it. Miss McKeehan did not know what was the matter until the negro burst into the room.

Threw Both to the Floor.

"He immediately attacked her, as she is the larger and stronger. I grabbed a chair and hit him on the head as he bent over her. He kept hold of her, but grabbed me and threw us both to the floor, saying that if we yelled he would kill us. He then asked us for money. Florence told me for God's sake to give him all the money in the house. She told him her purse was in the dining room. He dragged us both the length of the house and put me in the dining room. I told him I could not find the purse, and he then dragged us back into the kitchen, where it was dark.

"He threw Florence to the floor at my feet and she begged me to help her, but I could do nothing. He hit me in the face and my nose began to bleed. When I tried to cry for help he choked me and said he would kill us both. He then ran to the kitchen door to lock it. At that moment my husband's latch key was heard in the front door and the negro fled out the back door.

"My husband did not realize that anything was wrong until I fell to the floor, uttering "Nigger, nigger, nigger!" That was all I could say. He quickly grabbed his pistol and hunted the negro, but could not find him."

In Mrs. Simms' purse was $60, which the negro failed to get. Mrs. Simms is positive that she has often seen the negro driving a stone wagon in front of her home.

MISSOURI CONCEDES GAME TO KANSAS

Condition of Field Makes Jawhawkers Look Like Certain Winners.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Nov. 29.—The field at Asociation Park was a gummy wass of sawdust and mud this afternoon. A steady, slow drizzle was falling and the crowd was huddled together beneath umbrellas, seeking shelter. Under these conditions the annual Thanksgiving game between Kansas and Missouri was played, and under these conditions even the most rampant Missouri enthusiasts conceded that there was nothing to it but Kansas. It was said that Kansas would use the old-time straight football and on the muddy field would have a great advantage over the little Missouri team.

Less than half an hour before the game was called the crowd was exceedingly small. There were three entrances and no crowding at any one of them. Little demand was made for grandstand tickets. It had been rumored that the stand was unsafe and the crowd seemed to prefer to stand in the bleachers in the rain. The Kansas rooters occupied the south bleachers. The crowd was late in coming.

The arrival of the Kansas University band at 2 o'clock started some enthusiasm. Early in the afternoon Missouri rooters, who selected the north bleachers, displayed absolutely no enthusiasm. Not a Missouri yell was heard.

MILLHOUSE SHOULD WIN CROSS COUNTRY

Frank Millhouse, the crack cross-country and mile runner, is expected to win the Central Y. M. C. A. annual Thanksgiving mornig run from the large field which will compete. The men will start at the Central Y. M. C. A. Building, Grand and Franklin avenues. They will run south on Grand to Lindell and went on Lindell to Forest Park and down into the park for a short distace, where they will turn and return over the same route to the association building. Last year Millhouse won all of the association cross-country runs. There are several new men who are out to win the gold medal Thursday morning, but it is generally expected that Millhouse will again carry off the honors. The race will be started at 9 a. m.

CENTRAL BEATS SMITH, 9-0, IN KICKING GAME

Capt. Sherry of High Kicks Pretty Goal and Makes Touchdown.

PUNTS IN FIRST HALF

Opening Period Nip and Tuck With Sherry Outkicking Bown.

THE LINE UP.

CENTRAL.	POSITION.
Hall	Left end	Mepham
Sherry	Left tackle	Hamilton
Christopher	Left guard	Bixby
Morton	Center	Carroll
Baker	Right guard	Glasgow
Magner	Right tackle	Piper
Duncan	Right end	Ernst
Sparks	Quarterback	Hagar
Klein	Left halfback	Wind
Lincoln	Fullback	Bowen
Haynes	Right halfback	Mariarity

Referee—Connell.
Umpire—Blanchard.
Time of halves—Thirty minutes.

Final score: Central 9, Smith 0.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

SPORTSMAN'S PARK, Nov. 29.—Central High School fulfilled expectations this morning in the annual Interscholastic League football game with Smith Academy, when Smith was beaten, 9 to 0. Capt. Sherry kicked a goal from placement and made a touchdown. Christopher failed at goal according to a late ruling of Referee Connett. Five thousand persons saw the contest. Central's great record this year detracts from the interest, but both elevens had supporters in large numbers.

Central kicked off behind Smith's goal line. Bowen punted out from the 25-yard line to Sherry in the center, who returned five yards. Sherry, for Central, punted 35 yards to Hager. Moriarity punted 30 to Sherry, who fumbled, and Mepham got the leather in the center of the field. Bowen punted 25 yards out of bounds. Central High took out time.

Sherry, in spite of a bad pass, punted 40 yards. Bowen punted 35 yards to Sherry. The play was recalled and Smith given five yards for offside play. Wind made three yards. Bowen punted 35 yards, Bixby getting the ball. Bowen again punted. Sparks, on a quarterback run, made 30 yards around right end. Hagar was temporarily knocked out as the result of the tackle.

Lincoln plunged through center for five yards. The ball was now on Smith's 38-yard line. Time was taken out. Klein made four yards between right end. It was Smith's ball on downs. Bowen punted 25 yards, Sherry bringing the ball back 15. Wind made the tackle. Two attempts at right end failed and Sherry punted 35 to Mepham. Bowen punted to Lincoln, who was downed in his tracks on Smith's 50-yard line by Ernst. Sherry punted 35 yards to Hagar, who fell, but returned 15. Bowen punted 20 to Sherry. Sherry made 18 yards around left end. Piper got the ball on a fumble.

Bowen punted 25 to Sherry. forward pass, Lincoln to Duncan, was too high and failed, and it was Smith's ball on its own 50-yard line.

Wind made five yards through the right side of the line. Bowen punted 80 yards to Lincoln. Sherry punted 30 to Duncan, High School getting the ball on Smith's 45-yard line. Sherry's punt was blocked and Smith was given the ball by Referee Connell.

Bown punted 35 yards to Sherry, who returned 25, and was brought down by Bown. Lincoln's leg was injured and he took out time. Sherry punted 45 yards to Hagar, who fumbled, but recovered the ball. High was penalized 10 yards. Bown punted high for 20 yards to Sherry. Sherry dropped the ball on a pass for a punt. He picked it up and ran around right end for 35 yards. Sherry kicked a goal from placement from a difficult angle of the field from the 35-yard line. Score: High 4, Smith 0.

Central Gets the Half.

The teams changed goals. Wind kicked off to Klein on High's 20-yard line. Sherry punted to Hagar. Bown punted to Sherry. Sherry punted to Hagar, but the play was recalled, and High was penalized 10 yards. Sherry punted to Hagar. The ball was in the center of the field. Bown punted behind Central's goal and time was called for the first half. Central 4, Smith 0.

The first half was a repetition of the work in former games in that it was nip and tuck throughout. Most of the time the ball was in the center of the field. The half was almost one continual exchange of punts, in which Sherry, captain of Central, had much the better of Bown. Sherry's goal from placement was a beautiful one. The pass from Morton to Sparks was high. Sherry placed the ball squarely between the posts from a most difficult angle. Both were unable to gain consistently in the first half. The boys of both elevens tackled hard and accurately and the exhibition was high class, arousing the spectators to great enthusiasm.

When the first half ended with the score 4 to 0 in favor of High, the Central followers were wild with joy, in spite of the fact that they expected their eleven to win easily.

In the second half Wind kicked off to Lincoln on High's 10-yard line. Sherry punted 35 yards out of bounds. Bown punted 30 to Sherry. Sherry punted 30 to Hagar. Bown punted 30 out of bounds. Sherry punted 40 and Hager misjudged the ball, but got it again.

Bown punted 35 yards out of bounds. Sherry punted 35 to Hagar. Bown's punt off Smith's 30-yard line was blocked, but Smith got the ball. Bown punted high for 20 yards. On a delayed double pass, Magner to Duncan, the latter made 30 yards around right end. Smith got the ball on its own 15-yard line. Bown punted to Klein, who was brought down by Bown. Central bucked the ball for 10 yards on three plays. Sherry plunged seven yards and across the line for a touchdown. Christopher kicked the goal from the 35-yard line. Score: High 10, Smith 0.

Moriarity kicked off to Lincoln on High's 15-yard line. Sherry punted 30 to Hagar. Hagar's forward pass to Moriarity for 20 yards failed, but a High man touched the ball and it was Smith's oval. On a forward pass, Hagar to Moriarity, the ball advanced 12 yards around left end. The ball was now on High's 45-yard line.

Hagar punted 20 yards to Sherry. Sherry punted 35 to Hagar. Two Smith plays failed to gain and Bown punted 30 to Sherry. Sherry kicked a 40-yard spiral that Hagar missed, but Moriarity recovered. Smith made distance on three plays. Hagar, on a quarterback run, traveled 15 yards. Moriarity punted behind High's goal. Sherry punted out from the 25-yard line out of bounds. Klipstein replaced Mepham at left end. Sherry punted out again to Hagar, who returned 12.

Sherry, on a fake punt, ran 20 yards. Magner made five over center, putting the ball in the center of the field. Sherry punted behind Smith's goal. Bown punted out to the center of the field to Klein, who returned 20 yards.

Sherry punted to Bown on Smith's 15-yard line. Bown punted 30. Sherry missed the ball, but Haynes got it. Sherry punted 35 out of bounds. Hagar punted 20 and Schopp got the ball when a High man fumbled the punt.

Time was called with the ball in Smith's possession on its own 40-yard line. Score: Central, 9; Smith, 0. Christopher missed the goal, according to a later ruling of the referee, Connett making the score 9 to 0 instead of 10 to 0.

RYANS SEE THEIR CHURCH DEDICATED

Financier's Gift to Richmond One of Greatest Cathedrals in Country.

RICHMOND, Va., Nov. 29.—With dedicatory ceremonies participated in by the most distinguished Catholic prelates in this country, the Cathedral of the Sacred Heart, the gift of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas F. Ryan, today took its place as one of the greatest institutions of its kind in the United States and a monument of the church in the South.

The ceremonies, beginning with the consecration at 6 o'clock this morning and followed at 11 o'clock by pontifical high mass, attracted a large crowd to Richmond. Mr. and Mrs. Ryan came from New York to attend. Not only were Cardinal Gibbons, the apostolic delegate from Ohio and many archbishops and bishops from all parts of the United States conspicuous figures in the services, but state and city officials, including Gov. Swanson and the Mayor of Richmond and a host of prominent laymen, were assigned special seats in the Cathedral, admission to which was strictly by invitation.

The church is a magnificent edifice of Italian renaissance architecture, occupying a picturesque and commanding location embracing an entire block in the heart of the fashionable part of Richmond and facing Monroe Park, with its acres of grass and trees.

Within the building are five altars and two chapels. The Cathedral was first contemplated by Monsignor McGill, the Confederate Bishop of Richmond, in 1865, who purchased the eastern portion of the block on which the granite pile now stands. The remainder of the block was purchased by Bishop Keane in 1886.

The cornerstone was laid June 4, 1903, by the late Father Conway of the Jesuit Order, then at St. Ignatius' Church in New York. Rt. Rev. Augustin Van De Vivere, a Bishop of Richmond, a friend of Mr. Ryan, interested the latter in the matter of building the Cathedral.

IN Socker Society

Babe Brady, the Nugents' right fullback, weighs 204 pounds. Brady's defensive work against the attacks of Riordan, McMahon, Egan and Cudmore was perfect. With about fifty pounds off, this big son of Sport Brady would be a hard man to touch in the back field.

Joe Flynn of the Leos' forward line is a bear. Though not overly stout, the iron-gray-haired youth can sail through the opposition like an express train and carry the ball with him. He can shoot hard and true. In Donohue and Flynn the Leos have a wonderful pair of forwards.

Kid Geraghty one of the Leos' fullbacks, is a younger brother of that grand association player, Nish Geraghty. The youngster greatly resembles his older brother on the field. He is a tower of strength in the back field and he tore the advances of the fast Minstrel band to pieces several times last Sunday. He can boot the ball a mile.

Gaspipe Tully, manager of the All-Stars, has held down goal for Father Coffey's boys since the season opened three weeks ago. Not the sign of a goal has the big fellow allowed to slide past him. Tully lost his head a bit in the last half of Sunday's game when the Minstrels were playing the Saints off their feet and hammering the ball at the goal posts every second. In a mix-up about the goal he grabbed Joe Mason about the neck and tossed him to the sod. It was a foolish play for Tully and almost cost his club a score.

The magnates of the Association League would do well to take up the question of improved transportation facilities for its patrons with the Transit company. The car service Sunday was very poor and a number of the 1500 football supporters who attended at Kulage's were forced to walk many blocks in order to catch a car to reach their destination.

Kavanaugh, Reardon, Tully, Sheehan, Shea, Dale, Heckemeyer, Ryan, M. Devaney ar ea few of the old-timers who are pulling down some easy coin working with the fast youngsters of the Asvaney are a few of the old-timers who look any faster than the company they are associating with, either.

RUNNER STRICKEN BLIND IN RACE

Eisele of Pennsylvania Loses Sight While Leading and Falls in Cornfield.

Special to the Post-Dispatch

PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 29.—By less than a yard Lloyd Jones, the young Pennsylvania runner, won the intercollegiate cross-country championship over the new course here yesterday, beating out J. V. Colpitts, a dark horse, from Cornell, who led 50 yards from the line, but only after J. L. Eisele of Princeton suddenly stricken temporarily blind while leading at the five-mile mark, had fallen helpless in a cornfield.

The pride of the Princeton students, with a remarkable record over the course used yesterday, and the heavy financial backing of his college mates, who even had the temerity to give odds that he would beat the field. Eisele was looked upon as a certain winner.

After leading the field by more than a hundred yards during the first round of the course of a little more than three miles, the game Tiger dogged closely by the trio of Pennsylvania runners and several from Cornell, fell exhausted and unconscious in a cornfield suffering from severe hemorrhages and blindness. He was taken to the hospital in bad shape and after being treated revived and was assisted to the training quarters, where he almost collapsed. After treatment his sight returned.

The men were slightly hindered on the outward journey by a strong wind, but once in the woods were fairly well sheltered. At this point when they disappeared from sight, Eisele was running strongly about 200 yards in advance. The terrific pace he had been setting was now telling, and he began to show signs of distress.

From this point until he fell in the cornfield unconscious only his gameness prevented him from relinquishing the lead. Eisele was badly injured by being struck behind the ear by a breaker while bathing two years ago. He was operated on, but has suffered ever since. Doctors ascribe his breakdown to the unusual strain placed upon his injury.

BURNS MAKES HOT POTATO FOR O'BRIEN

Canadian Who Holds Heavyweight Championship of the World Has Shade the Better of Fight Declared a Draw at Los Angeles.

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 28.—Philadelphia Jack O'Brien and Tommy Burns of Los Angeles tonight fought 20 terrific rounds before the Pacific Athletic Club to a draw. When the end came it found the two men in the center of the ring engaged in a terrible struggle. The whole upper part of their bodies were covered with blood. When Jeffries held up the gloves of both fighters a shout of disapproval went up from the Burns admirers, who believed their man had won. Burns, who fought like a bulldog from the beginning to the end, was always on the aggressive, crowding his opponent to the ropes and frequently rushing him about the ring almost in flight. The fighting practically from the first round to the last was terrific and interesting. Burns landed undoubtedly many more blows than his opponent and they seemed to show greater force. O'Brien's foot work, however, was fast and clever and his ducking saved him time and again from severe punishment. Burns, however, landed many stiff blows on O'Brien's face and had the latter's nose bleeding and right eye laid open in the early rounds of the fight. Burns, too, was severely punished about the face, his nose being bloodied and his left eye completely closed at the termination of the fight. The men showed evidence of bitterness toward each other throughout the fight. It looked about the middle of the fight as though Burns would win easily. O'Brien was almost groggy at different stages and a knockout seemed not improbable. But in the sixteenth round O'Brien, who had rested in the clinches, appeared strengthened and for a while carried the fight to his opponent. Neither man scored a knock down during the fight.

Jeffries' refereeing was eminently satisfactory. Jeffries experienced the greatest difficulty in prying the men apart from the tenacious clinches in every round of the fight.

WHAT INTERESTED PARTIES HAVE TO SAY

TOMMY BURNS.

"I won fairly, and I think the decision was bad. I chased O'Brien miles all over the ring. Just compare our faces and draw your own conclusions."

JACK O'BRIEN.

"I am very well satisfied with the decision. Jeffries did the right thing. I outpointed Burns, I think, but I was a little light for him. Hereafter I shall fight in the middleweight class. Burns was a bit stronger than I expected, and he fought a good fight."

REFEREE JIM JEFFRIES.

"There was nothing to warrant a definite decision in favor of each. Both were strong at the finish. There was not enough leading done to justify a selection of the best man."

THE SPORTSMAN'S NICHE

Burns' determined, aggressive and vigorous stand against O'Brien at Los Angeles last night is a further illustration, were any necessary, of the superiority of outdoor existence and natural physical vigor over indoor development and the acquired strength of the gymnasium.

O'Brien is graceful, clever, pantherlike, handsome, white, far cleverer than Burns and a superior mental specimen. He never wrought at manual employment, and has built himself up in the gymnasium. He dislikes road work, running, etc., when training, and confines himself mostly to such exercises as a dancing master would were he to meditate competition for a prize in the art Terpsichorean.

Burns, upon the other hand, is a rugged, brown-skinned, unhandsome, ruddy, hardy athlete, who has lived a life outdoors along the St. Lawrence. He is an allround man, a football and acrosse player, a hockey star, a sailor, a fisherman and trapper. He has lived his life in the great outdoors of Canada, a healthy country, indeed. So he has the loins and stomach of the strong man, if not the panther-like quickness, or city-bred acuteness, of O'Brien.

It is the ancient narrative all over, the story that as told when Fitzsimmons beat Corbett and Jeffries beat the world. Ten hours a day in a boiler shop, forge or mill does more to develop muscle and ingrain hardihood of body than a few hours each day in a gymnasium. The indoor athlete is pretty, lissome, quick of hand and foot and eye and fancy, but, as Mulvaney said, "he lacks bowils." He cannot stand the gaff.

O'Brien, cleverer than Burns, should have whipped him. The latter was easy to hit but hard to hurt. Though apparently weak in the last round, there is not a doubt that a short rest would have brought him around entirely fit for ability to recover quickly is one of the things outdoor life confers upon us.

It is a great boon this outdoors. Very few of us take advantage of it.

Fred Cook, the St. Louis bookmaker, is said to have been so hard hit at New Orleans that he has temporarily withdrawn from the firing line to reorganize his shattered forces. Somebody must have ridden one out on him.

A heading in a morning paper says: "Wise Men Lose at New Orleans Racetrack." No?

After reading Mr. Stanley Robison's reply to Mr. Charles W. Murphy's letter protesting against games between National and American League clubs we are inevitably forced to the conclusion that Brother Stan missed his vocation. Nature meant him for a Judge of the Supreme Court.

MAN WHO LAUGHS GETS NEW CHANCE

Carl Buck, Alton Glassblower, Will See How Funny George M. Cohan Is.

WELCOMED BY COMEDIAN

Altonian Doubts if He Will See Anything as Funny as the "23" Burro.

Carl Buck, the blower of sulphuric acid carboys in the Alton glass works, whose uncontrollable laugh caused his permanent exclusion from the Temple Theater at Alton, has been invited to the Olympic Theater for next Sunday night's performance of George M. Cohan's "George Washington Jr."

The invitation came to Buck as a result of his Alton misadventure in a personal letter, the writing of which was ordered by Cohan when he read of Buck's exclusion at Alton. The letter follows.

Mr. Carl Buck, Alton, Ill.—Dear Sir: George M. Cohan, the comedian, who is to be at the Olympic Theater next week, has read that you have been barred from the Alton theater because you laugh too loud and too often. Mr. Cohan wires me that he is grieved at the unprecedented action of a theater manager who dares to exclude a person from his theater because he laughs too much.

Mr. Cohan believes the theater is the place to laugh and he thinks the best people in the world are those who laugh. As you stand charged with having an unusually uproarious laugh, Mr. Cohan is extremely anxious to see you. He is curious to know whether his play will be the means of enabling you to break the laughing record, heretofore and now held by you.

With a view to establishing a new laughing record he has instructed me to ask you to be his guest at the Olympic Theater next Sunday night, the understanding being that you are to laugh to your heart's content and the louder and the harder you laugh the better he will like it.

In pursuance to Mr. Cohan's request I inclose you an order for two seats at the Olympic next Sunday night. If you have a wife who is a good laugher, bring her along. Yours sincerely, JOHN WELSH, Manager for George M. Cohan.

"The play may not be very funny," said Buck to a Post-Dispatch reporter, in announcing that he had accepted the invitation. "I'm sure it won't be as funny as that burro with the long, lank fellow's legs wrapped around him and the number 23 on his crupper. Any theater company will have to hurry to get up something funnier than that, I think."

WEST FACES COAL FAMINE.

Roads Can't Supply Cars in Colorado and Wyoming.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

DENVER, Nov. 29.—With vast coal measures easily mined, which would supply the whole country for a century, Colorado, Wyoming and New Mexico are facing a fuel famine which promises to assume grave proportions.

The first alarm came 10 days ago, when a blizzard with three days of heavy snow, swept over this region. It suddenly became known that stocks of coal in all the principal cities and towns were low, and there was a scramble for fuel, which speedily emptied the bins of many dealers in the larger cities. The railroads were caught short and began confiscating coal en route.

The only anthracite coal on sale in Denver is the small supply used in heating stoves, but otherwise this city is fairly well supplied for the present. In Boulder, a city of 15,000, in the heart of the northern coal fields, there is not a week's supply, and the railroads are unable to furnish cars, they say, to haul coal there. In other valley cities there are scant supplies and the general demand for more is met with the statement that the railroads cannot supply cars. Throughout Wyoming there is complaint of coal shortage. In New Mexico, which also has large coal mines, the city of Carlsbad last week ran out of coal, a few tons of anthracite selling at $20 a ton and merchants being compelled to burn bacon and salt pork to keep from freezing.

From Chorus Girl to Prima Donna
Rose Julia Frary in Two Years' Time

JULIA FRARY

Remarkable Stage Career of the Lady Bickenhall in "Sergeant Brue."

Miss Julia Frary, Frank Daniels' prima donna of this season, who will be seen with him in "Sergeant Brue" at the Century Theater next week, is an example of the chorus girl who wins a featured position through tact, persistence, good looks and ability. When she began it was as a member of the "Florodora Sextette;" not the original one, but one of the many later organizations. At this time Miss Frary was a very young girl. She had no dramatic experience, but in her native city, Baltimore, she had been given the best vocal instruction obtainable. John C. Fisher, the manager of "Florodora," noticed the beautiful Southern girl, and discovering from his stage manager that she could sing, promoted her the following season to a minor part. Paula Edwardes saw her and forthwith engaged her and the latter part of last season she sang the leading soprano role in "Princess Beggar." Last summer—only a few months ago—Mr. Fisher re-engaged her, this time for the part of Dolores, the leading character in "Florodora," a revival of which he was giving at Atlantic City. Rather rapid promotion from the chorus to prima donna in the same piece, in two years! Now she is playing Lady Bickenhall in "Sergeant Brue," and her first appearance in St. Louis will occur next week.

SAYS DOLIVER OWES HIM.

Tailor Sues After 30 Years, but Senator Avoids Town.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Nov. 29.—That United States Senator J. P. Dolliver of Iowa was saved some embarassment by cancelling his lecture booked for the University of West Virginia here last night, has come out. It appears that a tailor of the town had entered suit against the Senator to recover an alleged tailor bill of 30 years' standing. The fact was not made public until after it was announced that Mr. Dolliver would not come to Morgantown.

F. K. O'Kelley, a well-known merchant tailor, is the complainant. He says that 30 years ago, while a resident of Morgantown temporarily, Dolliver bought from him two suits of clothes, for which he never paid. With the interest now accruing, O'Kelley claims the bill amounts to $300. The suit was brought before Justice Bougner. The bill has been kept alive and is not outlawed.

There is much indignation among close friends of the college over the insult which they declare was to have been offered Mr. Dolliver while a guest of the college.

FIRST AID TO CUPID.

Justices Wait at Clayton for Thanksgiving Weddings.

Three justices of the peace, each with his hair combed and his shoes shined, spent the entire day in the Clayton Courthouse Wednesday. Each had carefully revised and rehearsed his version of the marriage ceremony, for Wednesday was the day before Thanksgiving, and remembering how popular a resort Clayton had been before for eloping lovers and sweethearts on previous Thanksgiving eves, the justices were especially prepared.

The result proves, so the justices say, that there is a falling away in the marrying industry, at least so far as Clayton is concerned. Only 12 couples visited the county Gretna Green. In other years Cupid has frequently rounded up twice that number for Clayton, with but little difficulty. Of the 12 couples granted licenses three were married by ministers and one by Probate Judge Wurdeman. The remaining eight couples went to the three waiting justices.

COLLECTED PAY FOR DUMMY HOURS

Timekeeper and Eight Other Employes Swindled Medart Pulley Co. 14 Months.

STOLE $600 BY SCHEME

Men Divided Money They Got for Extra Time Put on Their Checks.

By a method that escaped detection through its simplicity and without a cent of money passing through his hands, Henry Stumpf, 32 years old, of 1934 Winnebago street, robbed the Medart Patent Pulley Co., by which he was employed as timekeeper, of small sums week by week, the aggregate of which will probably amount to between $600 and $700. His peculations were carried on through a period of 14 months and the money was shared by him with eight other employes of the company who were in collusion with him.

Stumpf had been timekeeper for the company for three years and apparently his accounts were straight. No suspicion attached to him until two weeks ago, when he was taken ill and sent to the hospital.

The foreman of the company was then made temporary timekeeper. When he made out the pay roll, showing the number of hours each man under him had worked, it was found that the total was considerably less than formerly. Investigation followed and developed the fact that Stumpf had been crediting his confederates each week with more hours, and hence more wages, than they were entitled to.

Confederates Deny Plot.

Stumpf was confronted with the facts by Supt. James A. Fisher of the pulley company and made a confession to him. He said that his scheme was simply to give certain men credit for two or three hours more time than they had worked and then to collect from them half of the extra money.

He gave the police the names of the men implicated in the robbery with him and a thorough investigation will be made. The men already spoken to by the police have denied that they were in a plot with the timekeeper.

Walter Medart, general manager of the company, told a Post-Dispatch reporter that he thought Stumpf succeeded in obtaining from $10 to $15 a week from the company. When one of his confederates had worked 10 hours at 25 cents an hour Stumpf would give him credit for $2.50. Each man, receiving in this way a small amount of extra money on the day, would have at the end of the week, in addition to his legitimate wages, about $1.50.

This rule was not invariably followed. Sometimes Stumpf would allow a man only 50 cents extra on the week. In such cases he told the police that he refused to take half of the money from the man, but generously allowed him to keep it all.

During the time that he carried on his systematic robbery of the company, he handled no money. His duty was simply to make out the time card showing the amount each man was entitled to. The time card was presented to the cashier, who paid the man the amount shown on his card. Stumpf was timekeeper for 100 men, but as far as known none except the eight that he named shared in the robbery.

Stumpf was released from the hospital Wednesday. He was arrested on the evidence gathered by the company and taken to the Four Courts. Here he told his story to Assistant Chief Keeley.

During the time that he has been in the hospital his wife has been ill and has had no one to care for her and her two young children. In view of this fact Stumpf was allowed to return to his home. Walter Medart said that the officers had not yet decided whether they would prosecute him. He thought tha tthe matter would be allowed to drop, in view of Stumpf's confession.

When seen by a Post-Dispatch reporter, Stumpf refused to discuss the matter except to admit that he robbed the company.

"I feel that I am in pretty bad on this thing," he said, "and I am willing to take the consequences. Any statement that comes from the officers of the company concerning the affair is true."

GIRLS IN SNOW 36 HOURS.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

EL PASO, Tex., Nov. 29.—Misses Lydia Johnson, Virginia Fort and Adele Vincent, the latter a visitor from New Orleans, went to the sheep ranch of Will and Lycurgus Johnson, some distance from Elkins' Station, and, returning in the snow, had to seek shelter in a section house for 36 hours and then ride out on a freight train to keep from starving., the passenger train being tied up. S. T. Hord of Ravenna, Tex., was lost in the snow seven miles east of Carlsbad, on the Lone Tree Ranch. Hord went out in the snow after milk cows, about 200 yards from the ranch house. The cows soon came in, but Hord is still missing. Hord was in poor health and it is believed he became physically exhausted and succumbed, or else lost his bearings and wandered out on the plains.

The sheep, cattle and goats suffered heavily in New Mexico. Near Alomogordo the Prathers lost most heavily and 2200 died out of 2500. Daugherty lost 400; T. E. Fleming, 500, and Tidewell's, 450.

JUDGE KISSED BRIDE.

Wurdeman Could Not Resist Dare From Puckered Lips.

For the first time in his official career Judge Wurdeman of the St. Louis County Court kissed the bride after performing the marriage ceremony. He couldn't help himself. The bride dared him. The young woman, who is now Mrs. James W. Wilson, was formerly Miss Pansy Henninger, daughter of Charles J. Henninger of Midland, editor of the St. Louis County Herald.

The ceremony was performed in Clayton Wednesday. The young woman has known Judge Wurdeman for nearly all of her 17 years, and when, after the questioning, she held up her puckered lips, the Judge took the dare and planted a kiss on them.

The couple left Wednesday night for a Southern tour. They will be at home to their friends on LeRoy avenue in Midland after Dec. 10.

WED TO KEEP FEET WARM.

So Aged Man Told Court, Then Made Up With Wife.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Nov. 29.—In the midst of the testimony of his 30-year old wife, which charged him with assault and battery, 81-year-old John Davenport cried out in Alderman Brown's court:

"Oh, I only married her to keep my feet warm."

There was such a discrepancy in the testimony that the Alderman directed the woman to give a practical demonstration of how her husband seized her about the neck and shook her. She did and as the pair wrestled about the room they smiled in each other's face and then laughed.

"Ah, kiss and make up," some spectator shouted, and they did so and were reconciled, leaving the courtroom arm in arm.

BELIEVE IN CARUSO.

St. Louis Italians Send Sympathy to Convicted Tenor.

"Viva la Caruso" was heard at an Italian mass meeting in Deelo's Hall, Eighth street and Franklin avenue, called to draw up resolutions expressing sympathy for the celebrated tenor convicted in Police Court in New York of annoying a woman in the Central Park monkey house. The resolutions declare the belief of St. Louis Italians to be that he is innocent and condemn the trial as "unworthy of a court in a country of the broad and fair principles of the United States."

The meeting was attended by several men who knew Caruso in Italy, including Prof. Mandollo, leader of the Italian band, who declared that he knew the singer to be a gentleman and a credit to his country. Other speakers bitterly denounced the whole trial as a farce and a "travesty on justice." One speaker thought that Caruso might be in need of financial aid and suggested that a collection be taken up for his benefit and forwarded to him. The opinion of the meeting, however, was that Caruso probably had plenty of money.

The resolutions, written in Italian, were mailed to the singer in New York Wednesday night. They were accompanied by a letter stating that all his countrymen in St. Louis had implicit faith in his innocence. Michael Deelo was chairman of the meeting.

Death of August R. Reinders.

The funeral of August R. Reinders, who was stricken with apoplexy late Wednesday while seated in an easy chair at the home of his son, Dr. Otto W. Reinders, and died a few minutes later, will be held Saturday from Dr. Reinders' home, 2500 South Twelfth street.

Mr. Reinders came to this country 42 years ago from his birthplace in Osnabrueck, Germany. He had lived in St. Louis 40 years, engaging in the real estate business until two years ago.

HANGS SELF TO CHANDELIER

Daughter, Expecting Joke, Finds Switchman's Body.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Nov. 29.—Finding the door of his room closed as she went to call him to the evening meal yesterday, the young daughter of Henry P. Noll expected her parent was playing a joke, but when she opened the door she found he had ended his life by hanging himself to the gas chandelier.

Noll's humor was proverbial. He had preceded his daughter upstairs half an hour and then seemed in the best of spirits. He tied a piece of clothes line around his neck and secured it to the gas chandelier. He apparently allowed his knees to weaken until he was slowly strangled. Noll was a switchman in the Frisco yards. He is survived by his wife, two daughters and a young son.

Democrats Indorse Becker.

At a meeting of members of the Democratic City Central Committee from the Thirty-third Senatorial District, at the Twentieth Ward Branch of the Jefferson Club, 2829 Cass avenue, Wednesday night, the candidacy of Adam Becker for the senatorial nomination on the electors' ticket was indorsed. Becker is a painter, living at 1827 North Market street. He will oppose Arthur Kammerer, a lawyer, who was indorsed by the Republican City Central Committee. The election has been called for Dec. 18, to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Senator George W. Reichmann, who is also a Justice of the Peace-elect.

THE WINNING STROKE

If more than ordinary skill in playing brings the honors of the game to the winning player, so exceptional merit in a remedy ensures the commendation of the well informed, and as a reasonable amount of outdoor life and recreation is conducive to the health and strength, so does a perfect laxative tend to one's improvement in cases of constipation, biliousness, headaches, etc. It is all important, however, in selecting a laxative, to choose one of known quality and excellence, like the ever pleasant Syrup of Figs, manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co., a laxative which sweetens and cleanses the system effectually, when a laxative is needed, without any unpleasant after effects, as it acts naturally and gently on the internal organs, simply assisting nature when nature needs assistance, without griping, irritating or debilitating the internal organs in any way, as it contains nothing of an objectionable or injurious nature. As the plants which are combined with the figs in the manufacture of Syrup of Figs are known to physicians to act most beneficially upon the system, the remedy has met with their general approval as a family laxative, a fact well worth considering in making purchases.

It is because of the fact that SYRUP OF FIGS is a remedy of known quality and excellence, and approved by physicians that has led to its use by so many millions of well informed people, who would not use any remedy of uncertain quality or inferior reputation. Every family should have a bottle of the genuine on hand at all times, to use when a laxative remedy is required. Please to remember that the genuine Syrup of Figs is for sale in bottles of one size only, by all reputable druggists, and that full name of the company—California Fig Syrup Co., is plainly printed on the front of every package. Regular price, 50c per bottle.

AT THE TABLE

THE years have sped since first I led
You to the table dear,
And you sat over there alone
And I sat smiling here.

A year or two flew past and you
No longer sat alone;
A little one was in your arms,
Your darling and my own.

And then another year or so,
And some one else was there,
And Willie sat near me, you know,
While Trottie claimed your care.

The years have sped since first I led
You to the table, dear,
And you looked queenly at the foot
And I felt kingly here.

Today, as I look down at you
On either side I see
A row of hungry little ones
All gazing up at me.

We've added leaves, one after one,
And you are far away—
Aye, thrice as far, my dear, as on
That happy, happy day.

But though we sit so far apart—
You there and I up here—
Two rows of hearts from my fond heart
Stretch down to you, my dear.

Thank God for every extra leaf
The table holds today,
And may we never know the grief
Of pulling one away.

PIANOS FREE

For Six Months

F. G. SMITH PIANO CO., 1012 OLIVE ST.
A. E. WHITAKER, Mgr.

To encourage children taking music lessons during the winter months we will furnish a number of square pianos absolutely free for six months, making no charge whatever except for cartage. We do this because we have an unusually large stock on hand, and we wish to encourage the course of musical education in this way. If you want to take advantage of this offer, call at once, as we have only a limited number to dispose of. Besides this, we are making special inducements along all lines.

NEW PIANOS.

This week we are making special low prices on all new pianos. Fine new pianos at $175, $200, $225, $250, $275, $300 upwards; usually sold $250, $300, $350, $400 upwards. We have received word from our factories at Brooklyn, N. Y., and Leominster, Mass., to make special low prices on all of our pianos so as to close out all we can before stock-taking the last of December, so now is your time to get a fine Christmas piano cheap.

USED PIANOS.

$300 nice uprights, good tone, one $125, one $110 and one at	$ 75
$400 large-size Smith & Barnes, fine upright	210
$350 fancy case upright, fine condition	145
$375 BRADBURY, small size, upright	135
$400 BRADBURY, large size upright	175
$425 Smith & Barnes, nearly new	195
$650 (catalogue price) mahogany upright, very fine; all the latest improvements; used two months; now	190
$750 (catalogue price) elegant oak upright; used two months; now	235
$1100 (catalogue price) fine style of BRADBURY; used three months; now	340

SQUARE PIANOS.

Almost giving them away: $5, $10, $20, $40, $50; all in good condition; we need the room they occupy; so must close them out at once.

ORGANS.

$100 organs, now	$ 20
$110 eight-stop organ; now	24
$135 eleven-stop organ, Mason & Hamlin; now	28

Also a full line of new organs, in the latest designs and with all the latest improvements, from $35 to $65; the kind that are usually sold for $75 to $125.

GUARANTEE.

With every piano we sell we give a guarantee as good as a United States bond. You run no risk whatever. The standing of our firm assures your protection. Buy now and save money. F. G. SMITH PIANO CO., A. E. WHITAKER, Mgr. 1012 Olive st. (5)

BOY DISOBEYED AND WAS KILLED

Lad Did Not Split Wood as Mother Told Him, but Played in Street.

HE GRABBED A LIVE WIRE

Instantly Killed by the Current When His Body Completed Circuit.

Youthful companions of 14-year-old Ferdinand M. Smith, who was electrocuted Wednesday afternoon at Lyon and Lynch streets, when he attempted to use a dangling telephone wire as a swing, and most of whom ran away when they saw the boy writhing in his death throes, are to be the pallbearers at his funeral.

According to Dr. Juede, 2521 Broadway, who was called into Kring's drug store to attend the boy, death was instantaneous, as 2300 volts of electricity passed through his body.

Young Smith was a victim of the sleet storm of last week, but his death was directly due to the fact that he disobeyed his widowed mother, with whom he lived at 316 Dorcas street. The boy has not been attending school for some time, it having been his preference to work. He was employed in a brewery. Wednesday morning he decided not to work during the day, and his mother said to him that inasmuch as he was determined to lay off, that he should split some wood. After he left the house Mrs. Smith did not see him again until the police ambulance conveyed his body to the little home.

Was Instantly Killed.

The boy did not go to the woodpile as instructed. Instead, he went into Lyons street and there found some of his old companions. They played several games and were dodging about the corners of the buildings when Smith discovered the broken wire. It was just out of his reach, but he was an active boy and had little difficulty in jumping high enough to get hold of it. The ground was wet and when his feet came in contact with the earth his hand, holding the end of the wire he had pulled down, a circuit was formed and the 2300 volts of electricity with which thee wire was charged passed through his body.

There was a flash of fire from his finger tips, one piercing scream as the body fell to the ground and the boy was dead.

Policeman Simon J. Sullivan, who travels the post in the vicinity of where the tragedy took place, was one of the first to reach the side of the boy. He thought that he detected a slight pulsation of the heart and assisted in carrying the limp form to the drug store. Smith, however, was beyond human help.

Shortly after Smith was killed employes of the Kinloch Telephone Co., appeared and cut the wire which had been the cause of the boy's death.

MRS. LONGWORTH HAD KEY.

Congressman's Visitors Had to Go Without Cigars.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—Representative Nicholas Longworth, son-in-law of the President, had some visitors at his home at Eighteenth and I streets today.

"Have a cigar," said Longworth, wishing to do the honors of his home. He went to his cigar humidor, a big, handsome one that stands in his office. "I have got some of the best cigars here you ever smoked. These are dandies. You will enjoy them."

The door of the humidor was locked. Longworth searched through his pockets and could not find the key. He looked on his desk. It was not there. Then he rang for the butler. "Open that humidor, please," said Longworth, when the servant came in.

The butler stood on one foot and then on the other. "Beg pardon, sir," he said, "but Mrs. Longworth has the key to that case."

BRAVE CONDUCTOR AT WORK.

Captor of Train Robber Hasn't Missed a Day.

Conductor Elias B. Heywood of the Burlington, who unaided, overpowered and captured Clyde Rumsey, the train robber who had robbed his train near Glasgow, Mo., early Monday morning, has not missed a run since the incident.

He reached St. Louis Wednesday evening on his first trip from Kansas City since the robbery and departed again Thursday at 9 a. m. for his return trip to Kansas City. He will not reach his home in time to enjoy Thanksgiving turkey.

Conductor Heywood told a Post-Dispatch reporter that his thumb which was injured in the fight with the bandit, had about healed and that he had recovered from the physical strain that he encountered in the struggle.

Conductor Heywood has received congratulatory telegrams from many of his friends including President Felton of the Chicago and Alton. He has received many letters from personal friends complimenting him upon his good work in capturing the bandit.

He has not been notified of any reward for his courage.

SAID HE WAS ROBBED.

A man claiming to be Dr. Samuel R. Hunter of 3917 Cleveland avenue, reported to the police at the Union Station Wednesday night that he had been attacked and robbed of a diamond stud and gold watch and chain at the mouth of the alley just north of Olive on Eighteenth street.

The police investigated the story and reported that they were unable to find the address given by the man or anybody by the name of Hunter in the neighborhood where he said he resided. They were also unable to find any witnesses to the robbery, though Hunter said it occurred at 6:30 p. m., when the street was filled with people.

Burglars at Dinner Time.

Sometime between 7 and 8 p. m. Tuesday, while the family of William H. Gibberson of 4023 Page boulevard, were at the dinner table burglars entered the house through a second-story window in the rear. The house was ransacked from one end to the other and $8 stolen.

Miss Jennie Gibberson had occasion to go up to her room before dinner was finished and noticed that her window was raised. She immediately went downstairs and told Mr. Gibberson that burglars must be in the house. Mr. Gibberson got his revolver and searched the house but the intruder was not to be found. The police were notified.

BOY WHO TOOK BREAD TO FEED LITTLE BEARS.

BENJAMIN LYNDS.

BOY LOST WITH FOOD FOR BEARS

Benjamin Lynds, Aged 8, Went Alone to Park With Arms Full of Bread.

In the mind of little Benjamin Lynds, 8 years old, a son of Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Lynds of 4590 Gibson avenue, the good old truth, "a friend in need is a friend indeed," is just as applicable in the treatment of animals as in dealing with men or nations.

In response to the appeal made by the Post-Dspatch to the boys and girls of St. Louis to aid two little bears in distress, little Benjamin was one of the first to send in his subscription and the following is the letter he wrote:

Dear Editor: I am a little boy 8 years old and a Democrat, but I want the bears named Teddy and Alice. Mother says I will be part owner of them if I give some of my money. Here is 10 cents.

Next morning he received a letter from Mrs. M. L. Wells of 1709 North Grand avenue who wrote that his letter was the best she had read, and that he was a boy after her heart. She congratulated him for being a Democrat and said that her little boy was a Democrat, too, but she thought that the dear little bears should be named "Teddy" and "Alice," in honor of the President and his daughter. She said that she had pasted his letter in her scrapbook.

Started to Find Bears.

When Benjamin returned from the Marquette School Tuesday evening he found that all the family were out, excepting the maid, and he went into the kitchen and gathered up all the bread he could carry in his little arms and started out to find the bears.

Mr. and Mrs. Lynds returned home together at 6:30 p. m., and it was dark. They found that Benjamin had been absent from the home since his return from school and they became alarmed as that was the first time he had left his home without asking permission and making known his destination.

While the family were in consultation as to what would be the best plan to pursue to find him, the telephone bell rang and when Mr. Lynds answered it he was asked if he had a little boy named Benjamin. He said he had, and that he was missing. He was informed that his caller was the keeper at Forest Park Zoo and that he had found a little boy with arms full of bread in search of the little bears.

It developed that Benjamin depended upon his own knowledge of the park in locating the bears and had asked no one where they were. While he was wandering about the park it became dark and he was found in the north end of the park, near the Wabash tracks, by the keeper. He had entered the south end and therefore was a long way from home.

Bears Got the Bread.

Not until the keeper solemnly promised to feed the bears the bread he had brought for them did he consent to be sent to his home.

Benjamin was given a car ticket and found his home alone. He was received with the open arms that welcomed the prodigal son, and his father patted him on the back and said he was a noble boy.

Mrs. Lynds says she does not know who the keeper was, but she wishes to thank him very much for his kindness.

HOLIDAY IN PRISON.

Convicts at Jefferson City Observe Thanksgiving.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Nov. 29.—The convicts in the penitentiary enjoyed a holiday today, as a result of several conferences held the past few days by Warden Hall and the members of the Board of Prison Inspectors. The holiday was observed the same as a Sunday, all the convicts being locked in their cells instead of being at work in the prison factories.

Warden Hall had not intended giving the convicts a holiday, but a petition signed by half the contractors was presented to him and to the inspectors. This was considered at a meeting late yesterday afternoon after the Warden had had a talk with Gov. Folk, who was known to favor a holiday, with the result that the holiday was granted.

Some contractors opposed the holiday for the reason that they would lose the labor of the convicts. This is the third Thanksgiving holiday at the prison in many years.

The Thanksgiving dinner will consist of roast beef, vegetables, coffee and apple pie.

NEGRO BURGLAR CAUGHT.

Two Stolen Watches in Man's Pocket When Captured.

Policemen McKyree and Woods of the Manchester Station were passing an alley Thursday morning when they saw a negro leaving the rear yard through an alley at the rear of 3146 Pine street. The officers captured the negro and when they searched him found two gold watches. The negro gave his name as William Davis of 2819 Manchester avenue.

The officers visited the residence at 3146 Pine, which was occupied by Mrs. Mary Parker, and discovered that the house had been entered and the two watches stolen. Mrs. Parker identified the watches.

POSED AS AUTHOR, UNMASKED IN CLUB

Nashville Society Entertained a Traveling Man as Richard Harding Davis.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Nov. 29.—A dapper young man, who arrived in Nashville yesterday morning, registered at one of the hotels as Richard Harding Davis of New York. He was soon sought out by newspaper men, whom he told that he was making a tour to New Orleans, stopping at various Southern cities en route. He was handsome, well dressed and exceeding pleasant in manner, acting the part of the well-known correspondent and author.

Society took him in hand. He was overwhelmed with invitations. He attended a luncheon at the Golf and Country Club, but declined to remain to the dance that followed. He visited the Vanderbilt University campus, where the football team was practicing for the Thanksgiving game, and was given an ovation.

He took an automobile ride into the country and late in the evening was the guest of the University Club. Here he met some gentlemen who had seen Davis in New York and the fact that he was an imposter was revealed. Confronted by a detective at his hotel at an early hour this morning, he confessed that he was a traveling salesman of Cincinnati and said he represented the Isaac Hart Clothing Co. of that city. He was arrested, but afterward was released and left the city.

HUNTING PARTY MAROONED.

Men in Arkansas Depend on Game for Food.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

PADUCAH, Ky., Nov. 29.—A message received here today by former Sheriff Tom Potter says that George Robertson, a well-known ice dealer, with a party of friends, had been marooned in Arkansas for a week. They have been hunting and when the floods swept the Mississippi Valley they were surrounded by water from 25 to 45 miles wide. They have no food, except the game they kill.

AMERICAN WOMEN FIND RELIEF

The Case of Miss Irene Crosby Is One of Thousands of Cures made by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

How many women realize that it is not the plan of nature that women should suffer so severely.

Miss Irene Crosby

Thousands of American women, however, have found relief from all suffering by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, as it is the most thorough female regulator known to medical science. It cures the condition which causes so much discomfort and robs these periods of their terrors.

Miss Irene Crosby, of 313 Charlton Street, East Savannah, Ga., writes:

> "Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, is a true friend to woman. It has been of great benefit to me, curing me when everything else had failed, and I gladly recommend it to other suffering women."

Women who are troubled with backache, bloating (or flatulence), dizziness, faintness, indigestion, nervous prostration or the blues, should take immediate action to ward off the serious consequences, and be restored to perfect health and strength by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and then write to Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., for further free advice. She is daughter-in-law of Lydia E. Pinkham and for twenty-five years has been advising women free of charge. Thousands have been cured by so doing.

COMMITTEES FOR HOSPITAL DAYS

Business Men Who Shall Have Charge of Subscriptions by Various Classes Named.

GAIN OVER LAST YEAR.

Reports Have Been Made to Chairman Michael of the Trades Committee.

The Executive Board of the Hospital Saturday and Sunday Association met Wednesday at the Mercantile Club at 1 p. m. for lunch.

David R. Francis presided. Others present were: A. L. Shapleigh, Elias Michael, James A. Waterworth, W. J. Kinsella, B. J. Taussig, H. N. Davis, Hanford Crawford and Mayo Fesler, assistant secretary.

The Committees on Badges, Boxes, Building, Sunday Schools and Churches reported all of their arrangements completed for the collection. The Trades Committee reported that the contributions from the various trades and individuals were coming in rapidly and that the indications pointed to a 15 to 20 per cent increase over that of last year.

At 2:30 the Executive Board met the women who are to assist in the collection on Saturday in the different buildings.

Mr. Francis explained to them that the badges this year are not to be sold that each woman in charge of a building is to receive the number of badges which will be necessary to supply herself and assistants.

A partial list of the women present at the meeting is:

SUFFERER'S THANKSGIVING.

Little Boy Leaves Hospital for First Time in Year.

Blakeney was burned Saturday, Nov. 25, 1905, while playing with a bucket of coal oil in the back yard of his mother's home, 4960 Fountain avenue.

While afire he ran a block from home to a shoe shop, where men, by cutting his clothes off with their knives and wrapping him with their coats, extinguished the flames.

That did not keep the child from many hours of pain and suffering. For six months he was confined to his bed, then six months to a roller chair and crutches. But with open air and sunshine methods other skillful treatment and good care from the physicians and nurses at the hospital, his life has been spared.

Blakeney will not remain at home after Thanksgiving, for he has only a leave of absence from Dr. Scott Parsons, surgeon in charge of the hospital. His burns are not entirely healed. For many weary months he will still have to be patient while skin-grafting may be resorted to, and by scientific process his leg is straightened.

Blakeney has spent a great part of his time in the hospital in reading. Books are his delight, and he has read much aloud to a blind boy in the hospital and to the younger children. He has learned to love the study of medicine and hopes some day to be a physician. Blakeney is the son of Dr. Wellington Adams, who died about eight years ago.

KILLS HIS BRIDE'S FATHER.

Fatal Hotel Shooting Sequel to Tennessee Elopement.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Nov. 29.—At Lafayette, Macon County, Tenn., yesterday, Will Pike of Bowling Green, Ky., shot and killed Len Ray, father of Essie Ray, the girl Pike had just married. The wedding was a runaway affair, and when Ray heard of it he went to the hotel where the couple were stopping. When the two men met the shooting quickly followed.

POLICE GUARDING RICH ITALIAN

Charles Mugavero, of Whom $300 Was Demanded in Letter, Stays Indoors.

The writers of a threatening letter to Charles Mugavero, a rich Italian, who lives at 5212 Wilson avenue and keeps a bakery at 1916 Cooper street, are still eluding the police. They demanded $300.

Death was named as the penalty for Mugavero's refusal to comply with the demand. So far no effort has been made to execute the threat, but the baker is taking no chances. He remains at his home, guarded by policemen and detectives and keeps a revolver close to his hand.

> St. Louis, Nov. 13.
>
> Excuse us if we disturb you. You are invited by four men to give us $300, which don't amount to anything to you. If you love your family and yourself, if you like to continue your business we beg you awful much to do it for your own good.

WIFE SUES INSURANCE MAN.

Mrs. Hindman of Louisville Alleges Cruel Treatment.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Nov. 29.—For months rumors of domestic infelicity existing in the household of Biscoe Hindman have been current, and it became known today that Mrs. Canada Rodman Hindman has filed suit for divorce. Biscoe Hindman is one of the most prominent men in the State and has always occupied a high social and business position. The charge is "cruel and inhuman treatment in a manner to indicate a settled aversion to her, and to destroy permanently her peace and happiness."

Biscoe Hindman has been for years State agent of the Mutual Life Insurance Co. of New York. Some months ago he assumed a defiant attitude against the management with the result that he was dismissed. Suit looking to the ousting of the company from the State followed as the result of this. It is said that Hindman's dismissal is in some way connected with the divorce suit.

FROZEN TO DEATH IN BOAT.

Hunter Took Off Coat to Stop Leak in Canoe.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

SANDUSKY, O., Nov. 29.—R. M. Thompson, an attorney of Blenheim Ont., left here to hunt ducks Sunday night. He was found frozen to death in his canoe on Lake Erie.

The hunter carried a gun with which he was not familiar and by accident he shot a hole in the bottom of his boat. To save himself from drowning he took off his coat and stuffed it in the hole. Exposed to the bitter cold of the last two days, Thompson froze to death. He was forced to hold his coat in the hole in the boat, as the action of the waves kept forcing it out. He had no opportunity to fight off exhaustion and died.

The body was seated in the canoe, leaning forward, and one hand held the coat in the hole in the bottom of the craft.

8000 Newsies Attack Turkey.

CHICAGO, Nov. 29.—An army of 8000 Chicago newsboys attacked 500 turkeys, chickens and other good things last night at the twenty-fifth annual Thanksgiving dinner given by a downtown clothing company. The bill of fare in bulk was as follows: Two hundred and fifty turkeys, 250 chickens, 1500 loaves of bread, 1500 dozen cakes, 150 bunches of bananas, two barrels of cranberry sauce, 25 10-gallon cans of mashed potatoes, 1500 pies, 25 boxes of oranges, 25 barrels of apples, 25 boxes of celery, figs, dats, raisins and nuts unscheduled, besides 10 barels of lemonade. It took 50 men to serve the dinner and 25 women to wash the dishes. The Rev. D. F. Fox of the California Avenue Congregational Church pronounced the invocation.

27 PRISONERS IN POLICY RAID

Police Descend on Alleged Headquarters of "Delmar" and "Bungaloo."

ALL NEGROES BUT THREE

William Haberstroh, Discharged Policeman, One of the Men Arrested.

In a raid on an alleged policy headquarters at Stolle's Hall, 1309 Biddle street, 27 arrests were made and the evidence found will be presented to the grand jury. The raid was made by Capt. O'Malley of the Carr Street Station and a squad of policemen.

Of the 27 men three are white. They gave their names as John Haberstroh, John Maher and Charles Kelly. Haberstroh was recognized as a former policeman who was dismissed from the force several months ago. He gave his occupation as a dairyman and said he lived at 4284 Easton avenue.

The man who gave the name of Kelly was identified as Charles Anyart, who formerly kept a saloon at 1200 North Market street. He gave his address as 1321 Blair avenue.

The Delmar and the Bungaloo Policy Companies are the concerns which the prisoners are said to represent. The raid was wholly unlooked for. When the police broke into the room the three white men were distributing the "winning" tickets to the negroes. A drawing had evidently just taken place and the negroes were being given the lists of numbers of "prizees."

Wednesday morning Patrolmen Dolan, Grogan, Lingo and Churchill were stationed near the hall to watch the entrances. The time for the raid was fixed for 1:30 p. m. At that hour Capt. O'Malley with Special Officers Lawler and Lardner, appeared in a buggy and hurried up the stairs leading to the hall.

Haberstroh was the only one who sought to escape. He ran down a rear stairway into the arms of a waiting policeman. All the paraphernalia and a sum of money were seized as evidence.

SISTER MARY DEAD.

Oldest Member of Religious Order Succumbs to Infirmities.

The funeral of Sister Mary of Ste. Euphrasia, oldest member of the Order of the Good Shepherd in St. Louis, took place in the chapel of the convent, 3801 Gravois avenue, at 9 a. m., Thursday, the chaplain of the order, Father Raymond Shaffel, officiating.

Sister Mary was 73 years old and had been a member of the order since 1849, when she took the veil in St. Louis, at the age of 16. Before she took her vows her name was Mary Pieper. Her brother, Louis Pieper, is a hardware merchant at 2636 Gravois avenue. Another brother, Rev. Louis Pieper, was a priest at Cape Girardeau until his death, 10 years ago.

For many years Sister Mary was in charge of the Magdalens, reformed women who desired to enter religious life, and for ten years she was assistant superior at the convent of the order in New Orleans. Her death was due to the weakness of old age.

OPERATES WITH PENKNIFE.

Doctor Restores Man's Breath, but Patient Finally Dies.

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—Dr. P. J. Barry of 137 East Forty-ninth street last night performed a quick operation on the throat of George Becker, 38 years old, with a penknife in an effort to save the man's life.

Becker was a bartender. For eight months he had been suffering from a tumor in the throat, being unable to speak above a whisper. Last night, in an insensible condition, he was carried to Dr. Barry's office. He had stopped breathing. With no other instrument than a penknife the physician made an incision in Becker's throat and inserted a tube. He restored artificial respiration, but after a few minutes the lungs became clogged and Becker died.

Lodging House for Men.

Rev. Timothy Dempsey, pastor of St. Patrick's Church, Sixth and Biddle streets, who has rented the second and third floors of the building at the northwest corner of Eighth street and Franklin avenue for a lodging house for men out of employment, will conduct a free labor agency in connection with the lodging house. The lodging house will be opened some time next week. The building has been equipped with fire escapes. Smoking will be strictly prohibited except in the recreation room on the second floor.

$50,000,000 BONDS SENT ACROSS SEA

Issue Covering Pennsylvania Loan Would Reach 296 1-2 Miles.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—Fifty million dollars in bonds was unloaded at the French line pier yesterday and at once put aboard the Provence of the French line for shipment to Paris. The shipment consisted of Pennsylvania Railroad bonds covering a loan to the road taken by Paris investors. A special express train bearing the bonds left Philadelphia at 9 o'clock and arrived in Jersey City at 10:50. Thirteen special service men, in charge of Mr. Graham of the Pennsylvania's secret service, acted as a guard.

In view of the vast responsibility because of the value of the loads, the railroad would permit the Adams Express Co. to carry only three box-laden wagons on a single ferryboat, thus dividing by four its responsibility in the possible event of a loss of the bonds which were contained in 140 boxes, by the sinking of one of the boats.

Upon their arrival in France the boxes will be taken in charge by M. F. Massonneau, manager for France of the Morris European and American Express Co., a subsidiary company of the Adams.

Each of the 140 boxes containing the bonds is zinc lined, iron banded and hermetically sealed. In all there were 400,000 bonds of 500f. denomination and 20,000 of 2500f. denomination, requiring the engraving, approximately, of 50 plates weighing about 2300 pounds. If the total number of sheets in this issue were laid lengthwise in one continuous line they would reach 296½ miles. The total weight of the bonds was 14½ tons. Ten specially appointed assistant secretaries were continually employed each day for two months in affixing 1,260,000 seals and executing 1,260,000 signatures.

LID ON TURKEY RAFFLES.

Police Order Prohibits All Forms of Gambling.

An order sent out Thursday morning by Chief of Police Creecy is directed against turkey raffles and other mild forms of gambling which usually become widespread at this season of the year. The order refers particularly to the raffles for Christmas watches which are held in cigar and grocery stores. It is expected that evidence will be gathered by plain clothes men and that arrests will then be made.

The order does not specifically forbid raffles for turkeys, which have always been permitted to flourish unmolested at Thanksgiving time, but it has been interpreted to mean that this form of gambling is also under the ban and the police in the various districts were instructed to make arrests wherever they find turkey raffles in progress.

FROM LAW TO PULPIT.

Rev. McVeigh Harrison Will Become Curate.

To the staff of St. Stephen's house at Sixth and Rutger streets a new clergyman will be added next Saturday when Rev. McVeigh Harrison, formerly a lawyer in this city, will become curate, assisting Rev. Henry Watson Mizner. Mr. Harrison will be remembered in this city as having been for two years in the law offices of F. N. Judson.

Mr. Harrison, who is a graduate of the St. Louis Law School, is a native of Missouri and made his collegiate studies at the University of the South. During his legal profession he showed an active fondness for the pulpit and eventually determined upon becoming a clergyman. He was ordained deacon last June and has ever since been studying with the Holy Cross Fathers at West Park, N. Y.

TO WED HIS STENOGRAPHER.

Wife of George W. Gurnee Gets Divorce and Alimony.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 29.—George W. Gurnee, Yale, '95, and a member of the New York bar, announces that he will marry Miss Florence Whittaker, his stenographer, as soon as his final decree of divorce is entered. Mrs. Gurnee was Lillian Irving Keller, granddaughter of E. D. Standford of Louisville, once president of the Louisville & Nashville Railroad, and was a noted Louisville belle.

She married the young collegian in the early days of September and he immediately brought her to his home in a stage. The surroundings disgusted her and she demanded that she be brought to Oakland. There they lived at the Athens Hotel for a week, when he handed her a note stating that he intended to get a divorce. The legal proceedings soon followed and the young society belle brought a cross-complaint about two weeks ago. She obtained a divorce, by the terms of which she is to get $25,000 and $150 a month alimony.

TAGGART INSANE, SAYS FORMER WIFE

Divorcee Sends Home Clipping Showing He Has Been Sent to Hospital.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WOOSTER, O., Nov. 29.—Is Maj. Elmore F. Taggart of divorce fame insane?

Mrs. Grace Taggart, the divorced wife, now traveling in France, sends word that such is the condition of her former husband. The information was given in a letter received here from Mrs. Taggart by the wife of a prominent citizen.

Mrs. Taggart, after stating that she had learned that Maj. Taggart was insane, called attention to a newspaper clipping which she inclosed. This said: "Maj. Elmore F. Taggart, now a patient in the Base Hospital, Iloilo, will proceed to Manila Division Hospital for observation and treatment."

"This," said Mrs. Taggart, underscoring the words "observation and treatment," "means that he is crazy."

Fair Official Exonerated.

BOSTON, Nov. 29.—The Executive Council today exonerated Wilson H. Fairbank, who was commissioner to the Lewis and Clark Exposition at Portland, Ore., and approved his accounts. District Attorney Moran, recent Democratic candidate for Governor, made public charges of misconduct against Mr. Fairbank in connection with the expenditure of the State appropriation, these charges being based on an affidavit made by James M. Perkins, who was secretary to the Massachusetts commission at the Fair.

FILIPINOS AND TROOPS IN FIGHT

Outlaw Chief Reported Killed and Twenty of His Band Wounded.

MANILA, Nov. 29.—A desperate fight between Julajanes and U. S. volunteers is reported to have taken place near Albalate, Monday, Nov. 26. Pedro de la Cruz, an outlaw chief, was killed and 20 of his followers wounded. The remainder of the band was dispersed.

Cruz was second in command of the Samar bandits. He was recognized as a desperate character and had been fighting since 1896. He refused to surrender to the Americans. His followers believed him to be invulnerable. Gov. Currey of the Island of Samar says that the end of outlawry in that island is near.

ELKS TO HOLD A MEMORIAL SERVICE.

MRS. BATES H. EVANS
REMBRANDT PHOTO

Simultaneously with 1100 lodges throughout the United States, St. Louis Lodge, No. 9, Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, will hold the annual memorial service in Christ Church Cathedral, Sunday, Dec. 2, at 3 p. m.

Musical numbers will be rendered by Anton's quintet, Mrs. Bates Hughes Evans, Mrs. Nora Hughes Morse, the Temple quartet, consisting of Joseph A. Buse, Leslie A. Cash, George M. Ravold and John A. Rohan and the Cathedral choir of 30 voices. All the singers will be in surplices and gowns. Prof. H. H. Darby, the organist, will be in charge of the musical portion of the services.

In front of the chancel will be an eight-foot candelabre bearing 14 candles to represent the number of St. Louis Elks who have died in 1906. As Secretary Jules Bertero calls the roll, Elks will respond to the names of the departed, a candle will be snuffed out and gong tolled, while the members will chant "Peace Be With You."

Those who have died during the past year are: L. D. Batavia, A. E. Faust, Bernard Griesedieck, M. E. Hauser, Jere Haldeman, James V. Johnston, Maurice M. Meyers, Allan McDowell, Bart Ready, Charles C. Sprague, Charles Straub, Dan J. Waugh, Bennett Wasserman and William Walsh.

HIGH GRADE TREATMENT
If you have a disease peculiar to men, your condition calls promptly for the best treatment the medical profession affords. Of this fact you must be thoroughly convinced when you stop to consider how many different doctors you have consulted and how many bottles of worthless medicines you have taken. We have no fault to find with the man who employs such inferior treatment, for that is his privilege, but the money he thus expends would go far toward securing for him a cure that is safe, rapid and permanent. We have long studied and thoroughly mastered infirmities of this character—male internal diseases. Recently we have treated scores of stubborn cases, and not a single failure or unpleasant result has been reported to us. Other physicians may treat men, but we can cure them, cure them to remain cured, and this fact we are prepared to prove to the entire satisfaction of any man sincerely interested. Our fees are as low as they can be consistent with high-grade treatment.
By the latest and best methods we cure, to remain cured, VARICOSE and KNOTTED VEINS, BLOOD POISON, NERVO-VITAL DEBILITY, BLADDER and KIDNEY troubles, and all associate diseases, with their reflex complications. Consultation and Examination Free.

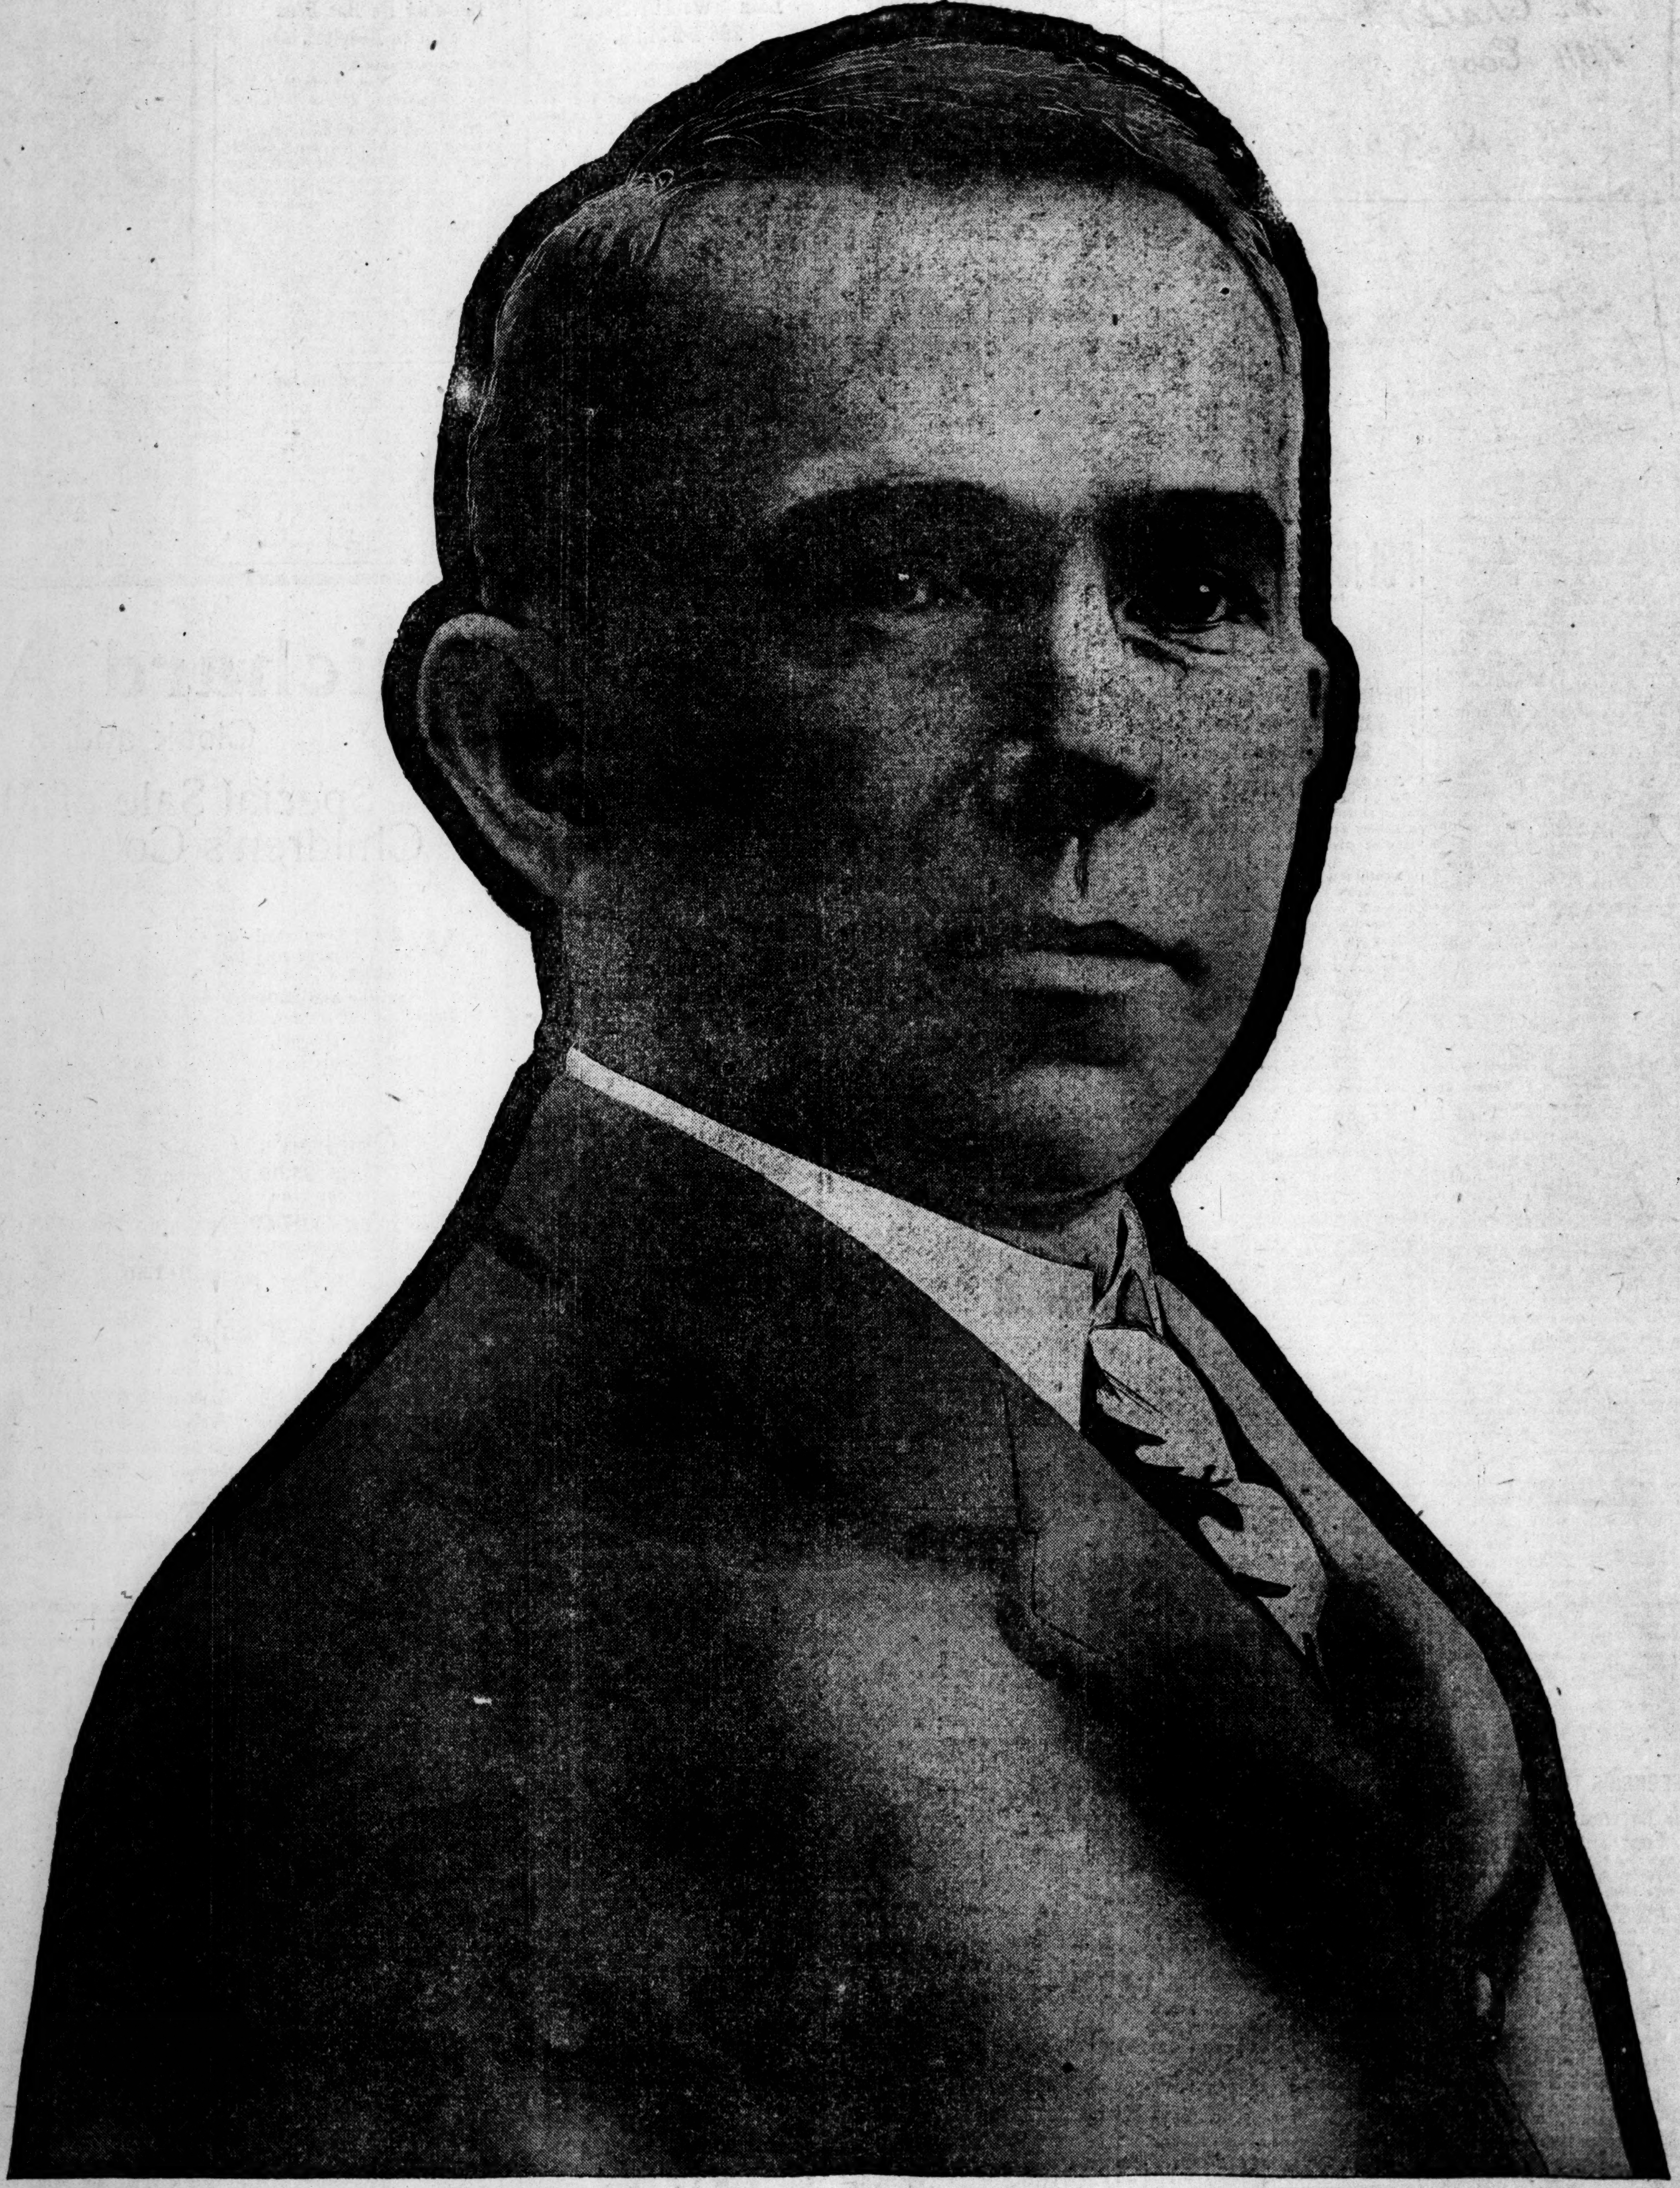
A MAN WHO HAS MUCH TO BE THANKFUL FOR



RUSSELL E. GARDNER.

"One of the best-known manufacturers in St. Louis, and probably the most popular business man of the younger element in the city, is Russell E. Gardner, president of the Banner Buggy Works, of the South Side.

"Though starting life on his own resources, he has now attained a position of wealth and influence—yet he is but 40 years old. His geniality, faithful attention to duty and the honesty of the products of his immense factory have all been instrumental in his success. Today he stands as a leading figure in both the manufacturing and social circles of St. Louis. What is more typical of the man is the manner in which he has attained his present high position in the city.

"Quiet and unobtrusive, yet kindly and affable in the extreme, Mr. Gardner has been sought out for official positions by men in every important line of business. His name has been repeatedly mentioned for political posts, regardless of his own deprecation of any such office. And entirely unsought by himself, evidences of his popularity in the city are constantly being showered upon him in the shape of requests for him to assume the lead in various important enterprises.

"To his treatment of all men alike Mr. Gardner owes the extreme regard in which he is now held by all who have come in contact with him. One feature of his character has been mentioned as regards his attitude toward his employes. Another may be specified by saying that the greater part of the profits in his business now go to his employes, as Mr. Gardner announces that he has made a comfortable fortune and does not see the use or justice in piling up an immense hoard of money he can never use.

"He has made large donations to numerous charities, and his assistance rendered in private cases will never be fully appreciated. He entertains lavishly, is a member of numerous leading clubs of the city, and his hospitality is noted throughout the city. On numerous occasions he has entertained large parties of his friends on his yacht—the Annie Russell—escorting them for lengthy trips up and down the river, and sometimes protracting the journey over several days.

"A prominent place in the State and even national politics is now predicted for him, although he has sought no such honors."

—William Marion Reedy, Editor St. Louis Mirror, in "The Makers of St. Louis."
